Drenching rains of the past two days sent swollen rivers in the deep south over their banks today, with others approaching the flood stage. Heavy rains and melting snows also inundated parts of New York and New Jersey in the east, and North Dakota and Illinois in the midwest.

Some 1,200 persons already have been driven from their homes in Mississippi, with two deaths reported due to high waters. Scores of families were fleeing their Alabama homes, with one man reported missing.

At Childersburg, Ala., the Coosa river passed 30 feet early today, and was inching up to its highest flood stage in more than a half century. With a large section of the city under water, national guardsmen and Red Cross workers averted a possible tragic toll of lives. Simple flood stage there is 20 feet.

National Guard Helps

Said National Guard Capt. George M. Limbaugh: "We got people out of trees and off roof tops and got them places to eat and sleep."

The floodwater menace was growing in eastern Mississippi, where the rampaging Tombigee river was expected to reach a crest of 40 feet at Columbus, Miss., tomorrow. The eastern part of the city already is under water. A 40-foot crest would be 11 feet above flood stage.

At Selma, Ala., a dangerously high crest of 47 feet was expected.

Col. W. K. Wilson, Jr., of the U. S. Army Engineers, flew over the flooded areas. He said damage was, and would be, widespread but that damage would not prove to be of major importance from an economic standpoint.

Earlier indications were that damages to homes and stores, roads and bridges, and the loss of livestock and early crops along the river banks might run into millions of dollars.

The west Alabama town of Northport, crippled for the past two days, by flood waters, saw the Warrior river crest at 66 feet and begin a slow fall of one-tenth of a foot per hour. The Warrior had surged upward 42 feet in a 24-

N.Y. Gets Right To Hike Sales Tax

Dewey Signs Bill to Give City $60 Million; Favors 2½ Per Cent

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—New York city had the state's permission today to increase the city sales tax from two to three per cent, for an estimated $60,000,000 additional annual revenue.

Governor Dewey, however, recommended in signing the permissive legislation yesterday that the tax be raised to no more than 2½ per cent.

Dewey said he "reluctantly" granted Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's request, in order "to prevent endangering essential increases to city employes" and maintenance of essential services.

Before the sales tax is increased, the city council of 24 Democrats and one Republican must approve it.

In New York, chairman Walter Hoving of the anti-sales tax committee of New York declared he would carry the fight to the city council.

Impellitteri said:

"I am glad the bill was signed because the increased revenue will make it possible to balance our budget."

The mayor did not indicate whether he would go along with Dewey's suggestion of a 2½ per cent tax.

Lions' Exposition Opens In Armory Tuesday at 7

Benedictine Dance Scheduled Tonight

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital will hold its annual semi-formal spring dance tonight in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Doors of the Crystal room will be open at 10 p. m., with dancing to the music of Don Pierson and his orchestra until 2 a. m.

Parade Will Be Feature of First Night Show; Entertainment Schedaled

"Kingston Area on Parade," annual promotion staged by the Lions Club, will open Tuesday evening for a five-night stand at the New York State Armory on Manor avenue.

Impressive opening ceremonies have been planned to take place in the drill shed of the armory about 7 p. m. Tuesday. If weather permits, there will be a parade at 6:30 p. m. up Broadway from Cornell street to East St. James street to Albany avenue, to Manor avenue and the armory.

Arrangements have been made to have a army searchlight in the parade the opening night and in front of the armory each of the nights the exposition is in progress.

The light was secured from Southern New York Recruiting District, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service, headquarters at 39 Whitehall street, New York. M/Sgt. Alva McGinnis, in charge of the Kingston recruiting station, was instrumental in obtaining the light for the Lions Club.

Boys Will March

Feature of this year's parade and opening exercises will be the Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps, newly organized unit of local boys sponsored by the club and under the direction of Anthony Merola.

Other units in the parade will include the color guard composed of veterans, the Port Ewen Fife and Drum Corps, 156th Field Artillery, N.Y.N.G., the mobile light unit, exhibitors and officials in automobiles. Flanking each side of the parade will be members of the Lowland Riding Club. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy will be grand marshall.

On arrival at the armory, the veteran color guard will proceed to the stage and the call, "To the Colors" will be sounded by the drum corps, followed by the Star Spangled Banner played by Roger Baer.

Mayor to Welcome Crowd

After invocation by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will extend the city's welcome. President C. Robert Cousins of the Lions Club will then officially open the exposition.

Entertainment has been selected for each of the other nights by Robert E. Teetsel. Joe Greene and Be-Be, "the Hollywood movie dog with human mind," will appear on Wednesday, April 4. On Thursday, entertainers will be the Stewart Brothers, comedy team, with a novelty pantomine act. Friday night's attraction will be George and Ruth Ross, unique harmonica act, claiming to have the world's largest and the smallest harmonicas. Final night, Saturday, will bring to the armory stage Sondria, the lady magician.

Annual Promotion

"Kingston Area on Parade" is sponsored annually by the Lions Club to raise funds for its eleemosnary work. In the past year, using funds raised from the exposition, the club has sponsored its boys' drum corps, sent three Children's Home boys to summer camp, donated $250 to promote youth baseball through the Kingston Athletic Association, given $2,100 to the Kingston Hospital Building Fund; sponsored its annual Christmas party for children, granted two retail scholarships to

No Legal Barriers Against A-Bomb Use, Says Senator

Hickenlooper Raises Question About Sending Bomb to Atlantic

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) said today there won't be any legal barriers to use of the atomic bomb if Russia starts a war.

Senator Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa) posed in the Senate yesterday the question of whether present law bars delivery of the bomb to the North Atlantic Pact force headed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Hickenlooper said if the President can assign troops to an international army under Eisenhower, he can also assign military equipment.

"However, does he have the authority to give atomic bombs and to authorize their use to an international authority which is beyond the complete control of the United States?" The Iowa senator asked.

Say Armed Rebels Chute Into Albania To Fight Commies

London, March 31 (AP)—Yugoslavia contended today armed rebels are being parachuted into Albania to fight against the Kremlin-controlled regime of Premier Enver Hoxha.

To combat the apparently growing unrest in the small Balkan Soviet satellite nation, Russia reportedly has sent about a dozen MIG jet fighter planes to Albania.

Yugoslavia also declared that the Albanian rebel campaign apparently is being directed by "reactionary" Albanians now living in Italy. There was no immediate comment from Albanian exiles in Italy.

Besides parachutists Yugoslavia said planes are showering anti-Communist leaflets over Albanian cities and towns.

The Yugoslav disclosures were made by Vladimir Dedijer, former Yugoslav information director, in an article in the Belgrade Borba, official newspaper of Marshal Tito's government.

Senate Group Asks Early Okay of Big Housing Bill

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee says many defense plants and some communities built during World War 2 will be discarded because of radical changes in sizes and designs of modern weapons.

"None of our exisiting plants, either old or relatively new, are structurally capable of handling efficiently the greatly increased size and weight of many of our new defense products," the committee said yesterday in a 91-page report to the Senate. It added:

"New methods of warfare such as atomic weapons and other guided missiles will place impacts on localities that never had them in World War 2, as well as the location of new plants for varied defense production."

The committee urged speedy approval of a pending $1,500,000,000 defense housing bill which it said was needed to provide living quarters for workers in these projected new plants.

More than $25,000,000,000 was spent on plants by private and government agencies during World War II, the report said, adding that many of these will not fit into the new defense efforts.

As one widely known example the committee cited the construction needs of one phase of the defense program—the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river project in South Carolina.

In addition to plants on a 250,000 acre reservation, the report said, housing must be provided for some 35,000 temporary workers who will do the construction. Later some 6,000 permanent workers, who with families and services will total 30,000, must be housed.

Clay Predicts Shortages Will Hit Nation Hard

Flaming Cottage Deaths May Prove Murder, Suicide

2 Charred Bodies Found Believed by Police to Be Hoffmans; Note on Auto

Mahwah, N. J., March 31 (AP)—The charred bodies of a man and woman were found in a flaming cottage last night and police believe they died by murder and suicide.

Fifty yards from the cottage stood the blood stained automobile. A note tied to the steering wheel read: "Kindly get in touch with our rich Mammon obsessed relatives."

The note bore the rubber stamped signature of Dr. Rolf Hoffman, a New York psychoanalyst.

Capt. E. J. Thompson, acting chief of Bergen county detectives, said police are reasonably certain the bodies are those of Hoffman and his wife, Gusta, a sculptress. The Hoffmans lived in a New York city penthouse apartment (65 E. 93rd street).

The cottage rented by John Knox Jessup, chairman of the board of editors of Fortune magazine, burned to the ground during a heavy rainstorm last night.

Believe Man Murderer

Thompson said he and the two others investigating the deaths were convinced that Hoffman murdered his wife in the car. He reconstructed the tragedy as follows:

Hoffman and his wife got out of the car in which they had been drinking wine from a straw covered bottle. They entered the car again.

The psychiatrist struck his wife over the head with a hammer and also stabbed her with a pair of heavy shears, believed to be the type used to cut metal. He then dragged his wife into the cabin and took from the car a five gallon can of gasoline.

Then, either he shot himself, or else there might have been an explosion as he ignited gasoline which he spread around the cabin.

A daylight inspection of the car showed the windows to be completely splattered with blood and there was a pool of blood

Blow to Economy Due This Year; General Is Through

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, leaving his high mobilization job to re-enter private industry, predicted today that shortages will hit the civilian economy "hard and heavy" late this year.

Makers of cars, refrigerators and other durables, whose steel supply will be cut 20 per cent starting tomorrow, probably will be trimmed "another 10 per cent or more" in the third or fourth quarters, Clay told a reporter.

The cutbacks have been cautious so far, he said, partly because defense leaders want to avoid widespread layoffs. These would scatter the labor force in industries which later will be loaded with defense work.

Clay forecasts a strong showing through the next three months by passenger car producers despite the one-fifth reduction in steel. The bulk of needed materials already is on hand, he explained.

Clay's decision to quit Washington was announced yesterday. He was one of the two special assistants to Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. The other is financier Sidney Weinberg.

Back to Industry

Clay will resume the board chairmanship of Continental Can Co., New York, from which he took leave in December. He received Wilson's thanks for an "outstanding contribution" to defense.

His departure was expected to ease Wilson's problem of making peace with organized labor. Union leaders, who have pulled out of the defense agencies in protest against mobilization policies, aimed much of their criticism at Clay.

There was no question of a breach between Wilson and Clay, however. The general, famed as the military governor of Germany during the Berlin blockade, came to ODM with the understanding he'd go home when the job of organization was well advanced.

Moreover, Clay said he'll come back whenever Wilson wants him. The call may come next fall, he indicated, when the pressures of shortage begin to hurt.

Other Developments

Meanwhile, there were these other developments along the mobilization front:

1. Average farm prices slipped

Kefauver to Offer New Crime Study; Opposes GOP Plan

Not in Favor of Extending Present Investigation; Contempt Charges Are Backed

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said today he expects to propose "a method of continuing inquiry and study" of crime conditions exposed by his Senate Investigating Subcommittee.

He did not elaborate. But he told a reporter flatly that he is opposed to a drive by two Republican members of the committee to extend the investigation until next Jan. 15.

While that issue remains to be fought out on the Senate floor, the committee won unanimous Senate backing for its contempt charges against such big-name gambling figures as Frank Costello, Frank Erickson and Joe Adonis.

The trio were among an even dozen balky witnesses cited by the Senate yesterday for contmpet of Congress because of their refusal to answer some of the commitee's questions.

Others on the list included Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed treasurer of Chicago's Capone mob, and Morris Kleinman and Louis Rothkopf, former Cleveland bottleggers linked by the committee with interstate gambling operations.

Three others, William G. O'Brien and Ralph J. O'Hara, both of Chicago, and Stanley Cohen of San Francisco, were involved in the committee's investigation of race wire services.

Also cited for contempt were John Croft, linked by the commit-

Firemen to Vote On Crane; Union Head Not Worried

New York, March 31 (AP)—New York's AFL Firemen are to vote on whether they want John P. Crane—who said he gave former Mayor William O'Dwyer a $10,000 campaign contribution—to continue to head their union.

But even if he is ousted, Crane says he has nothing to worry about.

"Win, lose or draw, I still get paid," he told newsmen yesterday after a four-hour closed meeting of some 2,000 members of his AFL Uniformed Firemen's Association.

While Crane was at the meeting, there were reports that federal tax agents here had quizzed Crane, O'Dwyer and former City Water Commissioner James J. Moran about their financial affairs.

The ouster movement against Crane, and the tax checkup, stem from testimony before the Kefauver crime committee here March 21. The fireman testified he handed O'Dwyer the $10,000 in 1949 as evidence of union political support.

Crane also told the senators that he gave Moran, an old O'Dwyer aide, $55,000 to keep him

Casey and Others in Surplus Ship Deals Not Ready to Talk

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey, who parlayed $100,000 into a $2,800,000 profit on war surplus ships, said today he and the friends who shared the proceeds will answer in their own time questions raised by investigation-minded Senators.

Casey has said his investment in the deal was $20,000, his profit $250,000.

Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, U. S. diplomat Julius C. Holmes and the late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., have been named by the Maritime Administration as being among his 17 associates in the deal. Casey refused to give their names to a Senate banking subcommittee.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), the subcommittee chairman, told reporters his group will decide Wednesday what steps to take about Casey's refusal.

Casey told a reporter he and a number of his associates will meet in New York city Monday. He did not say which ones will participate. He said they would discuss plans and probably agree on language of a statement designed to quiet the furore their ship venture has caused since it was disclosed in testimony before the Fulbright subcommittee March 12.

The subcommittee has charged no violations of law in purchase of the ships by Casey's American Overseas Tanker Corp., or in other phases of the complex, richly profitable deal. But it has raised question as to whether political influence was involved.

Houses, Cars, Clothes Abandoned in Worst Flood County Has in 35-Year Period

Hundreds of persons evacuated their homes and at least two persons were dead in Ulster county during the area's worst flood in at least 35 years.

The body of a man tentatively identified as Larry Daniels of Peekamoose was found in the Sundown area this morning. Apperently dead from drowning, Daniels is believed to have been trapped when an earthen bank caved in near his home, according to Lester Davis of West Shokan, who notified the sheriff's office at 8:55 a. m. today of the discovery of the body.

The other death was that of James Hicks, 71, of 52 Murphy street. Although death was due to a heart attack according to Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, it may have been induced by the excitement of evacuating homes in that section of the city. He was pronounced dead at 4:55 a. m. today by Dr. Abraham Feldman at a time when all families in that area were rushing to escape the rising flood waters.

Homes, clothing and in some cases automobiles were abandoned to the flood waters along the flats at the city line near the Washington avenue viaduct, on Ulster avenue extension, in Hurley, Mt. Tremper, Phoenicia and in other places.

150 Cars Abandoned

At Mount Tremper an estimated 150 cars, trucks and buses were abandoned along Route 28.

An Associated Press report from Port Jervis said that raging flood waters swept a 91-year-old man to his death last night after an automobile accident. William B. Chant, of Port Jervis, was riding with his niece, Alice Chant, 57, when the car went out of control on a soft shoulder on Route 6 east of that city. The car stopped at a culvert and tilted so that the two occupants were tossed into a rain swollen brook, the dispatch said. Both were carried through the culvert and downstream about 50 yards, state police reported. An unidentified man who lived nearby rescued the woman and recovered Chant's body. Chant had suffered fatal head injuries as he was swept along, a coroner reported.

The sheriff's office, state police, local police, firemen and others were kept so busy evacuating threatened homes in various sections that no count of the persons taken to safety was made.

At 3:51 a. m., today Deputy Sheriffs Churchill and Thompson evacuated eight families from the west side of the Esopus creek in Hurley. One man, who refused to be evacuated at that time, called to the sheriff's office for assistance five hours later.

Rescue by Firemen

Tanks Hit Red Mass Across38th

Tokyo, March 31 (AP)—Two American columns stabbed across the Red Korean border today in a daring challenge to a Chinese offensive buildup.

One column struck across the 38th Parallel north of Uijongbu on the western front and then pulled back before dusk..

The other thrust into the Redlands north of the Chungpyong Reservoir on the central front.

Both ran into fire fights..

The armored force north of Uijongbu fought off a Red anti-tank gun, mortar and hand grenade attack. It stayed three and one-half hours in Red territory.

The initial thrust carried a half mile inside the Communist north on the main road out of captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

Extension of Gain

It in an extension of the gain Allied forces made a week ago with a drop of parachute forces who quickly enveloped Unijongbu and pushed on toward 38 against stiffening resistance.

Under the terms laid down by Defense Secretary Marshall earlier this week, the tank thrust into Red Korea must be a tactical effort and not the opening wedge of a full-fledged offensive.

The first American tank whipped across the old border between North and South Korea at 10:21 a. m. (:21 p. m., E.S.T., Friday), heading toward the Hantan river.

The Hantan is a tributary of the Imjin river, where just three months ago—on New Year's Eve—the Chinese Communist forces started driving allied troops back into the southern republic.

A.P. Correspondent John Randolph, with the border-crossing tank column, said the scene is only eight miles east of where the Chinese broke through allied lines Dec. 31.

The American crossing came just a week after Republic of Korea (ROK) troops crossed Parallel 38 unopposed on the east coast. The ROK force is working northward beyond Yanayang village at a point eight miles or more above the border, and inland where they met some resistance for the first time Friday.

For their part, the Reds slashed back Friday on a front about 40

Discuss Cleanup In Police Ranks

Impellitteri Is Silent on Conference With Murphy, Leibowitz

New York, March 31 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy and Kings county (Brooklyn) Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz held a luncheon meeting yesterday and talked about cleaning up the police department.

None of the principals was specific about what took place in the judge's chambers, where the three consumed sandwiches and drank coffee.

Said Impellitteri:

"This is just one of several other conferences Commissioner Murphy and I have had with Judge Leibowitz. I have no comment to make on the nature of our conversation. We are continuing to cooperate with the end in view of giving the city a clean police department."

Leibowitz presides over the special rackets-probing Brooklyn grand jury investigating alleged links between gamblers and police. This week in Washington, the judge told the Senate Crime Committee that some New York policemen get a total of $25,000,000 a year in protection money.

Said Leibowitz:

More than $25,000,000,000 was spent on plants by private and government agencies during World War II, the report said, adding that many of these will not fit into the new defense efforts.

As one widely known example the committee cited the construction needs of one phase of the defense program—the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river project in South Carolina.

In addition to plants on a 250,000 acre reservation, the report said, housing must be provided for some 35,000 temporary workers who will do the construction. Later some 6,000 permanent workers, who with families and services will total 30,000, must be housed.

Flaming Cottage Deaths May Prove Murder, Suicide

2 Charred Bodies Found Believed by Police to Be Hoffmans; Note on Auto

Mahwah, N. J., March 31 (AP)—The charred bodies of a man and woman were found in a flaming cottage last night and police believe they died by murder and suicide.

Fifty yards from the cottage stood the blood stained automobile. A note tied to the steering wheel read: "Kindly get in touch with our rich Mammon obsessed relatives."

The note bore the rubber stamped signature of Dr. Rolf Hoffman, a New York psychoanalyst.

Capt. E. J. Thompson, acting chief of Bergen county detectives, said police are reasonably certain the bodies are those of Hoffman and his wife, Gusta, a sculptress. The Hoffmans lived in a New York city penthouse apartment (65 E. 93rd street).

The cottage rented by John Knox Jessup, chairman of the board of editors of Fortune magazine, burned to the ground during a heavy rainstorm last night.

Believe Man Murderer

Thompson said he and the two others investigating the deaths were convinced that Hoffman murdered his wife in the car. He reconstructed the tragedy as follows:

Hoffman and his wife got out of the car in which they had been drinking wine from a straw covered bottle. They entered the car again.

The psychiatrist struck his wife over the head with a hammer and also stabbed her with a pair of heavy shears, believed to be the type used to cut metal. He then dragged his wife into the cabin and took from the car a five gallon can of gasoline.

Then, either he shot himself, or else there might have been an explosion as he ignited gasoline which he spread around the cabin.

A daylight inspection of the car showed the windows to be completely splattered with blood and there was a pool of blood

Blow to Economy Due This Year; General Is Through

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, leaving his high mobilization job to re-enter private industry, predicted today that shortages will hit the civilian economy "hard and heavy" late this year.

Makers of cars, refrigerators and other durables, whose steel supply will be cut 20 per cent starting tomorrow, probably will be trimmed "another 10 per cent or more" in the third or fourth quarters, Clay told a reporter.

The cutbacks have been cautious so far, he said, partly because defense leaders want to avoid widespread layoffs. These would scatter the labor force in industries which later will be loaded with defense work.

Clay forecasts a strong showing through the next three months by passenger car producers despite the one-fifth reduction in steel. The bulk of needed materials already is on hand, he explained.

Clay's decision to quit Washington was announced yesterday. He was one of the two special assistants to Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. The other is financier Sidney Weinberg.

Back to Industry

Clay will resume the board chairmanship of Continental Can Co., New York, from which he took leave in December. He received Wilson's thanks for an "outstanding contribution" to defense.

His departure was expected to ease Wilson's problem of making peace with organized labor. Union leaders, who have pulled out of the defense agencies in protest against mobilization policies, aimed much of their criticism at Clay.

There was no question of a breach between Wilson and Clay, however. The general, famed as the military governor of Germany during the Berlin blockade, came to ODM with the understanding he'd go home when the job of organization was well advanced.

Moreover, Clay said he'll come back whenever Wilson wants him. The call may come next fall, he indicated, when the pressures of shortage begin to hurt.

Kefauver to Offer New Crime Study; Opposes GOP Plan

Not in Favor of Extending Present Investigation; Contempt Charges Are Backed

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.) said today he expects to propose "a method of continuing inquiry and study" of crime conditions exposed by his Senate Investigating Subcommittee.

He did not elaborate. But he told a reporter flatly that he is opposed to a drive by two Republican members of the committee to extend the investigation until next Jan. 15.

While that issue remains to be fought out on the Senate floor, the committee won unanimous Senate backing for its contempt charges against such big-name gambling figures as Frank Costello, Frank Erickson and Joe Adonis.

The trio were among an even dozen balky witnesses cited by the Senate yesterday for contmpet of Congress because of their refusal to answer some of the commitee's questions.

Others on the list included Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed treasurer of Chicago's Capone mob, and Morris Kleinman and Louis Rothkopf, former Cleveland bottleggers linked by the committee with interstate gambling operations.

Three others, William G. O'Brien and Ralph J. O'Hara, both of Chicago, and Stanley Cohen of San Francisco, were involved in the committee's investigation of race wire services.

Also cited for contempt were John Croft, linked by the commit-

Firemen to Vote On Crane; Union Head Not Worried

New York, March 31 (AP)—New York's AFL Firemen are to vote on whether they want John P. Crane—who said he gave former Mayor William O'Dwyer a $10,000 campaign contribution—to continue to head their union.

But even if he is ousted, Crane says he has nothing to worry about.

"Win, lose or draw, I still get paid," he told newsmen yesterday after a four-hour closed meeting of some 2,000 members of his AFL Uniformed Firemen's Association.

While Crane was at the meeting, there were reports that federal tax agents here had quizzed Crane, O'Dwyer and former City Water Commissioner James J. Moran about their financial affairs.

The ouster movement against Crane, and the tax checkup, stem from testimony before the Kefauver crime committee here March 21. The fireman testified he handed O'Dwyer the $10,000 in 1949 as evidence of union political support.

Crane also told the senators that he gave Moran, an old O'Dwyer aide, $55,000 to keep him

Casey and Others in Surplus Ship Deals Not Ready to Talk

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey, who parlayed $100,000 into a $2,800,000 profit on war surplus ships, said today he and the friends who shared the proceeds will answer in their own time questions raised by investigation-minded Senators.

Casey has said his investment in the deal was $20,000, his profit $250,000.

Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, U. S. diplomat Julius C. Holmes and the late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., have been named by the Maritime Administration as being among his 17 associates in the deal. Casey refused to give their names to a Senate banking subcommittee.

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), the subcommittee chairman, told reporters his group will decide Wednesday what steps to take about Casey's refusal.

Casey told a reporter he and a number of his associates will meet in New York city Monday. He did not say which ones will participate. He said they would discuss plans and probably agree on language of a statement designed to quiet the furore their ship venture has caused since it was disclosed in testimony before the Fulbright subcommittee March 12.

The subcommittee has charged no violations of law in purchase of the ships by Casey's American Overseas Tanker Corp., or in other phases of the complex, richly profitable deal. But it has raised question as to whether political influence was involved.

Houses, Cars, Clothes Abandoned in Worst Flood County Has in 35-Year Period

Hundreds of persons evacuated their homes and at least two persons were dead in Ulster county during the area's worst flood in at least 35 years.

The body of a man tentatively identified as Larry Daniels of Peekamoose was found in the Sundown area this morning. Apperently dead from drowning, Daniels is believed to have been trapped when an earthen bank caved in near his home, according to Lester Davis of West Shokan, who notified the sheriff's office at 8:55 a. m. today of the discovery of the body.

The other death was that of James Hicks, 71, of 52 Murphy street. Although death was due to a heart attack according to Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, it may have been induced by the excitement of evacuating homes in that section of the city. He was pronounced dead at 4:55 a. m. today by Dr. Abraham Feldman at a time when all families in that area were rushing to escape the rising flood waters.

Homes, clothing and in some cases automobiles were abandoned to the flood waters along the flats at the city line near the Washington avenue viaduct, on Ulster avenue extension, in Hurley, Mt. Tremper, Phoenicia and in other places.

150 Cars Abandoned

At Mount Tremper an estimated 150 cars, trucks and buses were abandoned along Route 28.

An Associated Press report from Port Jervis said that raging flood waters swept a 91-year-old man to his death last night after an automobile accident. William B. Chant, of Port Jervis, was riding with his niece, Alice Chant, 57, when the car went out of control on a soft shoulder on Route 6 east of that city. The car stopped at a culvert and tilted so that the two occupants were tossed into a rain swollen brook, the dispatch said. Both were carried through the culvert and downstream about 50 yards, state police reported. An unidentified man who lived nearby rescued the woman and recovered Chant's body. Chant had suffered fatal head injuries as he was swept along, a coroner reported.

The sheriff's office, state police, local police, firemen and others were kept so busy evacuating threatened homes in various sections that no count of the persons taken to safety was made.

At 3:51 a. m., today Deputy Sheriffs Churchill and Thompson evacuated eight families from the west side of the Esopus creek in Hurley. One man, who refused to be evacuated at that time, called to the sheriff's office for assistance five hours later.

Rescue by Firemen

Tanks Hit Red Mass Across38th

Tokyo, March 31 (AP)—Two American columns stabbed across the Red Korean border today in a daring challenge to a Chinese offensive buildup.

One column struck across the 38th Parallel north of Uijongbu on the western front and then pulled back before dusk..

The other thrust into the Redlands north of the Chungpyong Reservoir on the central front.

Both ran into fire fights. .

The armored force north of Uijongbu fought off a Red anti-tank gun, mortar and hand grenade attack. It stayed three and one-half hours in Red territory.

The initial thrust carried a half mile inside the Communist north on the main road out of captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

Extension of Gain

It in an extension of the gain Allied forces made a week ago with a drop of parachute forces who quickly enveloped Unijongbu and pushed on toward 38 against stiffening resistance.

Under the terms laid down by Defense Secretary Marshall earlier this week, the tank thrust into Red Korea must be a tactical effort and not the opening wedge of a full-fledged offensive.

The first American tank whipped across the old border between North and South Korea at 10:21 a. m. (:21 p. m., E.S.T., Friday), heading toward the Hantan river.

The Hantan is a tributary of the Imjin river, where just three months ago—on New Year's Eve—the Chinese Communist forces started driving allied troops back into the southern republic.

A.P. Correspondent John Randolph, with the border-crossing tank column, said the scene is only eight miles east of where the Chinese broke through allied lines Dec. 31.

The American crossing came just a week after Republic of Korea (ROK) troops crossed Parallel 38 unopposed on the east coast. The ROK force is working northward beyond Yanayang village at a point eight miles or more above the border, and inland where they met some resistance for the first time Friday.

Impellitteri Is Silent on Conference With Murphy, Leibowitz

New York, March 31 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy and Kings county (Brooklyn) Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz held a luncheon meeting yesterday and talked about cleaning up the police department.

None of the principals was specific about what took place in the judge's chambers, where the three consumed sandwiches and drank coffee.

Said Impellitteri:

"This is just one of several other conferences Commissioner Murphy and I have had with Judge Leibowitz. I have no comment to make on the nature of our conversation. We are continuing to cooperate with the end in view of giving the city a clean police department."

Leibowitz presides over the special rackets-probing Brooklyn grand jury investigating alleged links between gamblers and police. This week in Washington, the judge told the Senate Crime Committee that some New York policemen get a total of $25,000,000 a year in protection money.

Said Leibowitz:

Red Cross, Troops Save Many Lives as Water Inundates Homes

(By The Associated Press)

Drenching rains of the past two days sent swollen rivers in the deep south over their banks today, with others approaching the flood stage. Heavy rains and melting snows also inundated parts of New York and New Jersey in the east, and North Dakota and Illinois in the midwest.

Some 1,200 persons already have been driven from their homes in Mississippi, with two deaths reported due to high waters. Scores of families were fleeing their Alabama homes, with one man reported missing.

At Childersburg, Ala., the Coosa river passed 30 feet early today, and was inching up to its highest flood stage in more than a half century. With a large section of the city under water, national guardsmen and Red Cross workers averted a possible tragic toll of lives. Simple flood stage there is 20 feet.

National Guard Helps

Said National Guard Capt. George M. Limbaugh: "We got people out of trees and off roof tops and got them places to eat and sleep."

The floodwater menace was growing in eastern Mississippi, where the rampaging Tombigee river was expected to reach a crest of 40 feet at Columbus, Miss., tomorrow The eastern part of the city already is under water. A 40-foot crest would be 11 feet above flood stage.

At Selma, Ala., a dangerously high crest of 47 feet was expected.

Col. W. K. Wilson, Jr., of the U. S. Army Engineers, flew over the flooded areas. He said damage was, and would be, widespread but that damage would not prove to be of major importance from an economic standpoint.

Earlier indications were that damages to homes and stores, roads and bridges, and the loss of livestock and early crops along the river banks might run into millions of dollars.

The west Alabama town of Northport, crippled for the past two days, by flood waters, saw the Warrior river crest at 66 feet and begin a slow fall of one-tenth of a foot per hour. The Warrior had surged upward 42 feet in a 24-

N.Y. Gets Right To Hike Sales Tax

Dewey Signs Bill to Give City $60 Million; Favors 2½ Per Cent

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—New York city had the state's permission today to increase the city sales tax from two to three per cent, for an estimated $60,000,000 additional annual revenue.

Governor Dewey, however, recommended in signing the permissive legislation yesterday that the tax be raised to no more than 2½ per cent.

Dewey said he "reluctantly" granted Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's request, in order "to prevent endangering essential increases to city employes" and maintenance of essential services.

Before the sales tax is increased, the city council of 24 Democrats and one Republican must approve it.

In New York, chairman Walter Hoving of the anti-sales tax committee of New York declared he would carry the fight to the city council.

Impellitteri said:

"I am glad the bill was signed because the increased revenue will make it possible to balance our budget."

The mayor did not indicate whether he would go along with Dewey's suggestion of a 2½ per cent tax.

Benedictine Dance Scheduled Tonight

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital will hold its annual semi-formal spring dance tonight in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Doors of the Crystal room will be open at 10 p. m., with dancing to the music of Don Pierson and his orchestra until 2 a. m.

Tickets will be available at the door, and the public is invited to attend. Proceeds from the dance will go to the Benedictine Hospital building fund.

Parade Will Be Feature of First Night Show; Entertainment Scheduled

"Kingston Area on Parade," annual promotion staged by the Lions Club, will open Tuesday evening for a five-night stand at the New York State Armory on Manor avenue.

Impressive opening ceremonies have been planned to take place in the drill shed of the armory about 7 p. m. Tuesday. If weather permits, there will be a parade at 6:30 p. m. up Broadway from Cornell street to East St. James street to Albany avenue, to Manor avenue and the armory.

Arrangements have been made to have a army searchlight in the parade the opening night and in front of the armory each of the nights the exposition is in progress.

The light was secured from Southern New York Recruiting District, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Service, headquarters at 39 Whitehall street, New York. M/Sgt. Alva McGinnis, in charge of the Kingston recruiting station, was instrumental in obtaining the light for the Lions Club.

Boys Will March

Feature of this year's parade and opening exercises will be the Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps, newly organized unit of local boys sponsored by the club and under the direction of Anthony Merola.

Other units in the parade will include the color guard composed of veterans, the Port Ewen Fife and Drum Corps, 156th Field Artillery, N.Y.N.G., the mobile light unit, exhibitors and officials in automobiles. Flanking each side of the parade will be members of the Lowland Riding Club. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy will be grand marshall.

On arrival at the armory, the veteran color guard will proceed to the stage and the call, "To the Colors" will be sounded by the drum corps, followed by the Star Spangled Banner played by Roger Baer.

Mayor to Welcome Crowd

After invocation by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will extend the city's welcome. President C. Robert Cousins of the Lions Club will then officially open the exposition.

Entertainment has been selected for each of the other nights by Robert E. Teetsel. Joe Greene and Be-Be, "the Hollywood movie dog with human mind," will appear on Wednesday, April 4. On Thursday, entertainers will be the Stewart Brothers, comedy team, with a novelty pantomine act. Friday night's attraction will be George and Ruth Ross, unique harmonica act, claiming to have the world's largest and the smallest harmonicas. Final night, Saturday, will bring to the armory stage Sondria, the lady magician.

Annual Promotion

"Kingston Area on Parade" is sponsored annually by the Lions Club to raise funds for its eleemosnary work. In the past year, using funds raised from the exposition, the club has sponsored its boys' drum corps, sent three Children's Home boys to summer camp, donated $250 to promote youth baseball through the Kingston Athletic Association, given $2,100 to the Kingston Hospital Building Fund; sponsored its annual Christmas party for children, granted two retail scholarships to

Hickenlooper Raises Question About Sending Bomb to Atlantic

Washington, March 31 (AP)—Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) said today there won't be any legal barriers to use of the atomic bomb if Russia starts a war.

Senator Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa) posed in the Senate yesterday the question of whether present law bars delivery of the bomb to the North Atlantic Pact force headed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Hickenlooper said if the President can assign troops to an international army under Eisenhower, he can also assign military equipment.

"However, does he have the authority to give atomic bombs and to authorize their use to an international authority which is beyond the complete control of the United States?" The Iowa senator asked.

Say Armed Rebels Chute Into Albania To Fight Commies

London, March 31 (AP)—Yugoslavia contended today armed rebels are being parachuted into Albania to fight against the Kremlin-controlled regime of Premier Enver Hoxha.

To combat the apparently growing unrest in the small Balkan Soviet satellite nation, Russia reportedly has sent about a dozen MIG jet fighter planes to Albania.

Yugoslavia also declared that the Albanian rebel campaign apparently is being directed by "reactionary" Albanians now living in Italy. There was no immediate comment from Albanian exiles in Italy.

Besides parachutists Yugoslavia said planes are showering anti-Communist leaflets over Albanian cities and towns.

The Yugoslav disclosures were made by Vladimir Dedijer, former Yugoslav information director, in an article in the Belgrade Borba, official newspaper of Marshal Tito's government.

Senate Group Asks Early Okay of Big Housing Bill

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee says many defense plants and some communities built during World War 2 will be discarded because of radical changes in sizes and designs of modern weapons.

"None of our exisiting plants, either old or relatively new, are structurally capable of handling efficiently the greatly increased size and weight of many of our new defense products," the committee said yesterday in a 91-page report to the Senate. It added:

"New methods of warfare such as atomic weapons and other guided missiles will place impacts on localities that never had them in World War 2, as well as the location of new plants for varied defense production."

The committee urged speedy approval of a pending $1,500,000,000 defense housing bill which it said was needed to provide living quarters for workers in these projected new plants.

More than $25,000,000,000 was spent on plants by private and government agencies during World War II, the report said, adding that many of these will not fit into the new defense efforts.

As one widely known example the committee cited the construction needs of one phase of the defense program—the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river project in South Carolina.

An Associated Press report from Port Jervis said that raging flood waters swept a 91-year-old man to his death last night after an automobile accident. William B. Chant, of Port Jervis, was riding with his niece, Alice Chant, 57, when the car went out of control on a soft shoulder on Route 6 east of that city. The car stopped at a culvert and tilted so that the two occupants were tossed into a rain swollen brook, the dispatch said. Both were carried through the culvert and downstream about 50 yards, state police reported. An unidentified man who lived nearby rescued the woman and recovered Chant's body. Chant had suffered fatal head injuries as he was swept along, a coroner reported.

The sheriff's office, state police, local police, firemen and others were kept so busy evacuating threatened homes in various sections that no count of the persons taken to safety was made.

At 3:51 a. m., today Deputy Sheriffs Churchill and Thompson evacuated eight families from the west side of the Esopus creek in Hurley. One man, who refused to be evacuated at that time, called to the sheriff's office for assistance five hours later.

Rescue by Firemen

Tanks Hit Red Mass Across38th

Tokyo, March 31 (AP)—Two American columns stabbed across the Red Korean border today in a daring challenge to a Chinese offensive buildup.

One column struck across the 38th Parallel north of Uijongbu on the western front and then pulled back before dusk..

The other thrust into the Redlands north of the Chungpyong Reservoir on the central front.

Both ran into fire fights..

The armored force north of Uijongbu fought off a Red antitank gun, mortar and hand grenade attack. It stayed three and one-half hours in Red territory.

The initial thrust carried a half mile inside the Communist north on the main road out of captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

Extension of Gain

It in an extension of the gain Allied forces made a week ago with a drop of parachute forces who quickly enveloped Unijongbu and pushed on toward 38 against stiffening resistance.

Under the terms laid down by Defense Secretary Marshall earlier this week, the tank thrust into Red Korea must be a tactical effort and not the opening wedge of a full-fledged offensive.

The first American tank whipped across the old border between North and South Korea at 10:21 a. m. (:21 p. m.., E.S.T., Friday), heading toward the Hantan river.

The Hantan is a tributary of the Imjin river, where just three months ago—on New Year's Eve—the Chinese Communist forces started driving allied troops back into the southern republic.

A.P. Correspondent John Randolph, with the border-crossing tank column, said the scene is only eight miles east of where the Chinese broke through allied lines Dec. 31.

The American crossing came just a week after Republic of Korea (ROK) troops crossed Parallel 38 unopposed on the east coast. The ROK force is working northward beyond Yanayang village at a point eight miles or more above the border, and inland where they met some resistance for the first time Friday:

Discuss Cleanup In Police Ranks

Impellitteri Is Silent on Conference With Murphy, Leibowitz

New York, March 31 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy and Kings county (Brooklyn) Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz held a luncheon meeting yesterday and talked about cleaning up the police department.

None of the principals was specific about what took place in the judge's chambers, where the three consumed sandwiches and drank coffee.

Said Impellitteri:

"This is just one of several other conferences Commissioner Murphy and I have had with Judge Leibowitz. I have no comment to make on the nature of our conversation. We are continuing to cooperate with the end in view of giving the city a clean police department."

Leibowitz presides over the special rackets-probing Brooklyn grand jury investigating alleged links between gamblers and police. This week in Washington, the judge told the Senate Crime Committee that some New York policemen get a total of $25,000,000 a year in protection money.

Said Leibowitz:

"There will be no pussyfooting

Plan Training School

Miss Bernice Scott, specialist in recreation from the New York State College of Agriculture, will conduct training schools in "family fun" and community recreation Thursday, April 5, under the sponsorship of the Ulster County Home Bureau. They will be held at the First Baptist Church.

There will be two training schools, one in the afternoon beginning at 1:30 and another at 7:30 to accommodate those who are employed as well as those who have leisure time during the day.

The training schools are designed to equip those who attend to return to their local groups with play activities suitable for use at home and for large gatherings that will reduce emotional tension, help them to employ these activities to recreate and refresh those taking part.

Any grange, church or other interested group is urged to send leaders to receive the training.

Do You Remember

SOPHIE MILLER

There must be something about a small newspaper like the "Ulster Squaredealer" which sold for five cents every Saturday morning back in the very early 1900's to be still popular today. Have one before me, dated June 29, 1907, Vol. 1, No. 2. The office and printing plant was at 13 West Strand in Rondout. They had two telephones, the local Hudson River System and a phone of the City Standard. Subscription for the paper was $1.00 for six months.

One of the firms which advertised and I think I remember was "Penny Arcade," 600 Broadway, run by M. B. Myers, who also bought and sold real estate. Following news items may interest some old timers: "Returning from the boat races held at Poughkeepsie, Wednesday, the steamer Kingston which plies regularly between 'the land of Wineburg and land of Romburg' was badly damaged by fire at her dock at Hiltebrant's boatyard. The Kingston has had some hard luck before, but this is a great blow to her genial owner, Capt. Benjamin D. Wolff."

In covering one of the sports events at Cooney's Hall held there by the Nonpareil Athletic Club, I see name Billy Jacobs, the manager mentioned. It further states, "Mr. Jacobs is the matchmaker for the Sharkey and Longacre Athletic Clubs of the metropolis." Isn't it strange how those same names appeared years later in the boxing arena of Manhattan, and elsewhere.

Old local advertisements interest me because they bring back the old time merchants, their stores and wares. Remember Block's Bazaar, corner Strand and Hasbrouck avenue? Now there was a grand store at the intersection of two trolley car lines, the two ferries bringing folks from Dutchess county and from Port Ewen and Esopus sections. At the time Block's was advertising, "New Columbia negligee shirts, the best shirts manufactured, white and all colors, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, made in Kingston." There was also Raichle's fruit and vegetables, at West Strand, near the Mansion House, in Rondout. And how many remember the old "McClure's Opera Cafe" at 290 Wall street.

Have another issue of November 2, 1907, which is of course full of local politics of the day. Stephen H. Abbey, president and treasurer and publisher of the "Squaredealer" always looked for "sensational news" especially before election. This Vol. 1, 20th issue, began to take in nearby localities. He had a Whiteport Side Lights column, a Union Center Briefs, Kerhonkson Honks, etc. Many of those items have to be read entirely to be understood and then by old timers of those particular localities.

Now here's an advertisement that may interest folks today: "Wanted. Girls over 16 years of age. Good wages paid while learning, apply American Cigar Co." The Kingston Opera House advertised Monday, "Hearts of Gold;" Wednesday, "Rip Van Winkle." The Bijou Theatre, the House of Hits, advertisement read: "Return engagement of Ray W. Snow, popular black face comedian, and a headline bill of pictures and songs."

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, March 31—Methodist Church, the Rev. B. C. Schmidt, pastor — Sunday school at 10 a. m. Worship service at 11 a. m. with topic on "Christ Unrecognized." Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., choir practice at the parsonage. Thursday, 7:30 p. m., M.Y.F. meeting of entire charge at Accord church hall.

The Grange donated a crate of eggs to the Children's Home and eight dozen to the Home for the Aged for Easter. Juvenile Grange will meet Monday, April 9, a 7:30 p. m.

The Stone Ridge fire company will hold its regular meeting Tuesday night in the fire hall.

Dr. Anthony Tocco of Kingston will be at the Town Health Center Thursday night, April 5, to receive donors for the blood bank. Anyone willing ot donate a pint of blood is asked to contact Mrs. Isaac Graham, High Falls 2376, or Mrs. Maurice Davenport, High Falls 2021. The first bank was held December 1, 1950. Only one pint of blood is now available at the Center due to repeated calls. Each donor will receive a card bearing his blood type.

Try to Preserve Your Old Lawn

An old lawn is much simpler to care for than a new one so only as a last resort remake a lawn. The lawn should be raked over early and top-dressed with a good chemical fertilizer such as 10-6-4 at the rate of 10 pounds to 100 square feet of lawn area.

Mix the fertilizer with peat and perhaps some soil. As soon as the lawn has dried it should be rolled and uneven spots filled in. Never put soil on top of these areas but remove the sod and fill underneath with the soil.

As the grass starts to grow the lawn should be mowed. Use a sharp lawn mower and keep it well oiled so that it will run easily.

In thin spots, loosen the soil with a spading fork by breaking it in opposite directions to a depth of 8 inches and add a mixture of one-third soil, one-third peat moss and one-third sand to which fertilizer has been aded at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 square feet.

Seed these areas with 2 pounds of seed for every 1000 square feet of lawn area but not until after the soil is warm, so that the seeds will germinate at once.

In worn areas patching is the best method of repair. Start with a rectangular area and set in squares of turf taken from in front of the shrubbery borders or other locations. This will soon grow together and no sign of the patch will remain. A well-managed lawn is a source of pleasure unequaled by any other garden type.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 31 — Mr. and Mrs. Don Gardner and small daughter have moved here from Woodstock and are occupying a new bungalow on the William Hand development in the east end of the village. Gardner works for Hand in the latter's milk distributing business.

Mrs. Bernard Casablanca and son Vincent of Washington Heights are spending the week at their rented cottage on the Trail. Alf Edmundsen, Ashokan carpenter, is putting in additional windows and doors at the Casablancas' recently purchased summer bungalow in the village center.

Ralph Chase, assistant to Alton Stoutenburgh, West Hurley plumbing contractor, is on a few days' vacation trip down the river.

Echo of waterworks days: Monday, March 31, 1913—Three inches of rain in two days gave an average flow of 5½ billion gallons per day from the Esopus creek into the Ashokan Reservoir. Water rose at the rate of 2½ inches an hour, a rate which if the reservoir were completed, would fill it in 25 days. Old Esopus overflowed part of Kingston flats as result of water being let out via the Brown's Station weir. (March 30, 1951: Dame Nature, unassisted by "Doc" Howell, celebrates 38th anniversary in manner befitting occasion).

Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols of the Boiceville Hill road returned home Wednesday by bus from Saratoga Springs where they had spent a week at the farm home of their son. George and Grace are getting to be old timers in these parts; they first came here from Brooklyn about 20 years ago as guests at the Dunnagan farmhouse near their present home.

Bertha Greene who has been in poor health for the past three years, was quite ill the early part of the week.

Alva Buley Sr., and James Rutherford of the Tonche neighborhood have been working on a clearing job in the Chase woodlot along the cross-mountain road. A chain saw employed by a West Olive expert sawyer literally mowed down the trees, big and little, and Alva will have some of the best logs converted into lumber at the Duloff mill in the Acorn Hill sector. Scene of operations is near the old Winchell burying ground and the headwaters of the East Butternutkill.

The regular meeting of the official board of the Ashokan Methodist Church took place Monday night at the Shokan home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sickler.

May Void Insurance

Change of ownership of a home, such as transfer of title from husband to wife or vice versa, usually will void the insurance on the house. It is suggested that the insurance company be consulted in advance. In making any transfer of title, it is important that the change of ownership be recorded.

Cubage	20,000
Dimensions	30' x 29'

Containing well planned and spacious rooms, the house can be built in easy stages. Because complete living quarters are included on the first floor, it wouldn't be necessary to finish the second story until it is needed.

Two bedrooms and a bath, a large living room with a fireplace, the kitchen, a dining room with built-in china cabinets, and the sun room make up the rooms on the first floor. The second floor consists of two bedrooms, each with two closets and built-in storage drawers. Another bath and a large storage area complete the picture.

A 60' lot is required for "The Gardner" which measures 30' x 29' its cubic footage is 20,000 feet.

Dignified Appearance

The small cap over the front door gives an apearance of dignified poise to the house, while the long lines of the shutters at each window contrast nicely with the horizontal lines of the clapboarded sidewalls. Actually the roof of the sun porch at the front is a continuation of the main roof, but the break halfway up provides a separate roof for the room which projects beyond the dining room at the rear right.

Immediately beyond the small reception hall is the 18' x 13'4" living room — one of the most attractive rooms in house. Two windows in the front wall provide plenty of light which is supplemented by the light from the sun room, visible at the right through an open archway.

In the back wall, flanked by doors, is the large fireplace. The door on the right leads to the dining room; the one on the left to the kitchen. The door to the hall, separating the sleeping quarters from the rest of the house, is located in the left wall near the open stairs that lead to the second floor. A window at the top of the stairway lights this area.

There are eight windows in the 13'4" x 8' sunroom which actualy is an extension of the living room. Two doors are located in the back wall of the room, with one leading into the garden and the other opening into the dining room.

Measuring 10'6" x 9', the dining room has a large window at the back overlooking the garden. A side window provides light and cross ventilation.

A third swinging door on the left inside wall opens into the kitchen. On the left is a broom closet space with the stove just beyond next to the door to the living room.

Modern Kitchen

To the right of the dining room door is the L-shaped counter space with overhead and underneath cupboard space. The sink is located beneath the window at the back. Additional counter and cupboard space is provided in the corner between the refrigerator and living room door.

At the end of the L-shaped counter is a small hall which contains doors leading to the back bedroom, the cellar stairs and a back entry to the garden. A broom closet is located in this entry.

Measuring 11"4" x 9'6", the back bedroom has a closet in the back wall. There is ample wall space for the arrangement of heavy furniture pieces.

In the front wall of the bedroom is another door opening into the hall, at the opposite end of which is the front bedroom. The bath is located between the two bedrooms.

The front bedroom is 11'4" x 11'6" and also contains a closet in the back wall. The two windows provide the room with plenty of light and ventilation.

If one of these bedrooms is no longer needed after the second floor has been completed, it will be an easy matter to convert the front bedroom into a den or library.

A dormer across the back of the house makes possible full windows and headroom on the second story. An L-shaped hall connects the two second floor bedrooms. The smaller room, 11'6" x 11'5", is located at the left of the stairs.

At the front of the house the hall leads into the master bedroom which is 16' x 11'6" in dimensions. A linen closet is conveniently located at the end of the hallway.

Each of the bedrooms has two closets, and three windows—two in the back wall and one in the side wall.

The master bedroom contains two sets of built-in drawers and a small closet, next to the chimney. There is a larger closet in the side wall.

In the wall opposite the door to the smaller bedroom is a large closet; another one is placed in the front inside wall over the stair well.

Built-in drawers and the door to the storage space are located in the front wall of this room. During the warmer weather you can leave the window and door of the storage space open to provide additional ventilation for the bedroom.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications for "The Gardner," or any other home in this series, can be obtained at moderate cost. Three Waxings a Year

There are three types of wax on the market: paste, liquid and self-polishing. If floors are given a smooth coating of wax two or three times a year, that will keep them in excellent condition — except, of course, for the areas that bear the brunt of continued usage. These spots can be rewaxed when the need for such treatment appears.

Do You Remember

SOPHIE MILLER

There must be something about a small newspaper like the "Ulster Squaredealer" which sold for five cents every Saturday morning back in the very early 1900's to be still popular today. Have one before me, dated June 29, 1907, Vol. 1, No. 2. The office and printing plant was at 13 West Strand in Rondout. They had two telephones, the local Hudson River System and a phone of the City Standard. Subscription for the paper was $1.00 for six months.

One of the firms which advertised and I think I remember was "Penny Arcade," 600 Broadway, run by M. B. Myers, who also bought and sold real estate. Following news items may interest some old timers: "Returning from the boat races held at Poughkeepsie, Wednesday, the steamer Kingston which plies regularly between 'the land of Wineburg and land of Romburg' was badly damaged by fire at her dock at Hiltebrant's boatyard. The Kingston has had some hard luck before, but this is a great blow to her genial owner, Capt. Benjamin D. Wolff."

In covering one of the sports events at Cooney's Hall held there by the Nonpareil Athletic Club, I see name Billy Jacobs, the manager mentioned. It further states, "Mr. Jacobs is the matchmaker for the Sharkey and Longacre Athletic Clubs of the metropolis." Isn't it strange how those same names appeared years later in the boxing arena of Manhattan, and elsewhere.

Old local advertisements interest me because they bring back the old time merchants, their stores and wares. Remember Block's Bazaar, corner Strand and Hasbrouck avenue? Now there was a grand store at the intersection of two trolley car lines, the two ferries bringing folks from Dutchess county and from Port Ewen and Esopus sections. At the time Block's was advertising, "New Columbia negligee shirts, the best shirts manufactured, white and all colors, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, made in Kingston." There was also Raichle's fruit and vegetables, at West Strand, near the Mansion House, in Rondout. And how many remember the old "McClure's Opera Cafe" at 290 Wall street.

Have another issue of November 2, 1907, which is of course full of local politics of the day. Stephen H. Abbey, president and treasurer and publisher of the "Squaredealer" always looked for "sensational news" especially before election. This Vol. 1, 20th issue, began to take in nearby localities. He had a Whiteport Side Lights column, a Union Center Briefs, Kerhonkson Honks, etc. Many of those items have to be read entirely to be understood and then by old timers of those particular localities.

Now here's an advertisement that may interest folks today: "Wanted. Girls over 16 years of age. Good wages paid while learning, apply American Cigar Co." The Kingston Opera House advertised Monday, "Hearts of Gold;" Wednesday, "Rip Van Winkle." The Bijou Theatre, the House of Hits, advertisement read: "Return engagement of Ray W. Snow, popular black face comedian, and a headline bill of pictures and songs."

Try to Preserve Your Old Lawn

An old lawn is much simpler to care for than a new one so only as a last resort remake a lawn. The lawn should be raked over early and top-dressed with a good chemical fertilizer such as 10-6-4 at the rate of 10 pounds to 100 square feet of lawn area.

Mix the fertilizer with peat and perhaps some soil. As soon as the lawn has dried it should be rolled and uneven spots filled in. Never put soil on top of these areas but remove the sod and fill underneath with the soil.

As the grass starts to grow the lawn should be mowed. Use a sharp lawn mower and keep it well oiled so that it will run easily.

In thin spots, loosen the soil with a spading fork by breaking it in opposite directions to a depth of 8 inches and add a mixture of one-third soil, one-third peat moss and one-third sand to which fertilizer has been aded at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 square feet.

Seed these areas with 2 pounds of seed for every 1000 square feet of lawn area but not until after the soil is warm, so that the seeds will germinate at once.

In worn areas patching is the best method of repair. Start with a rectangular area and set in squares of turf taken from in front of the shrubbery borders or other locations. This will soon grow together and no sign of the patch will remain. A well-managed lawn is a source of pleasure unequaled by any other garden type.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 31 — Mr. and Mrs. Don Gardner and small daughter have moved here from Woodstock and are occupying a new bungalow on the William Hand development in the east end of the village. Gardner works for Hand in the latter's milk distributing business.

Mrs. Bernard Casablanca and son Vincent of Washington Heights are spending the week at their rented cottage on the Trail. Alf Edmundsen, Ashokan carpenter, is putting in additional windows and doors at the Casablancas' recently purchased summer bungalow in the village center.

Ralph Chase, assistant to Alton Stoutenburgh, West Hurley plumbing contractor, is on a few days' vacation trip down the river.

Echo of waterworks days: Monday, March 31, 1913—Three inches of rain in two days gave an average flow of 5½ billion gallons per day from the Esopus creek into the Ashokan Reservoir. Water rose at the rate of 2½ inches an hour, a rate which if the reservoir were completed, would fill it in 25 days. Old Esopus overflowed part of Kingston flats as result of water being let out via the Brown's Station weir. (March 30, 1951: Dame Nature, unassisted by "Doc" Howell, celebrates 38th anniversary in manner befitting occasion).

Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols of the Boiceville Hill road returned home Wednesday by bus from Saratoga Springs where they had spent a week at the farm home of their son. George and Grace are getting to be old timers in these parts; they first came here from Brooklyn about 20 years ago as guests at the Dunnagan farmhouse near their present home.

Bertha Greene who has been in poor health for the past three years, was quite ill the early part of the week.

Alva Buley Sr., and James Rutherford of the Tonche neighborhood have been working on a clearing job in the Chase woodlot along the cross-mountain road. A chain saw employed by a West Olive expert sawyer literally mowed down the trees, big and little, and Alva will have some of the best logs converted into lumber at the Duloff mill in the Acorn Hill sector. Scene of operations is near the old Winchell burying ground and the headwaters of the East Butternutkill.

The regular meeting of the official board of the Ashokan Methodist Church took place Monday night at the Shokan home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sickler.

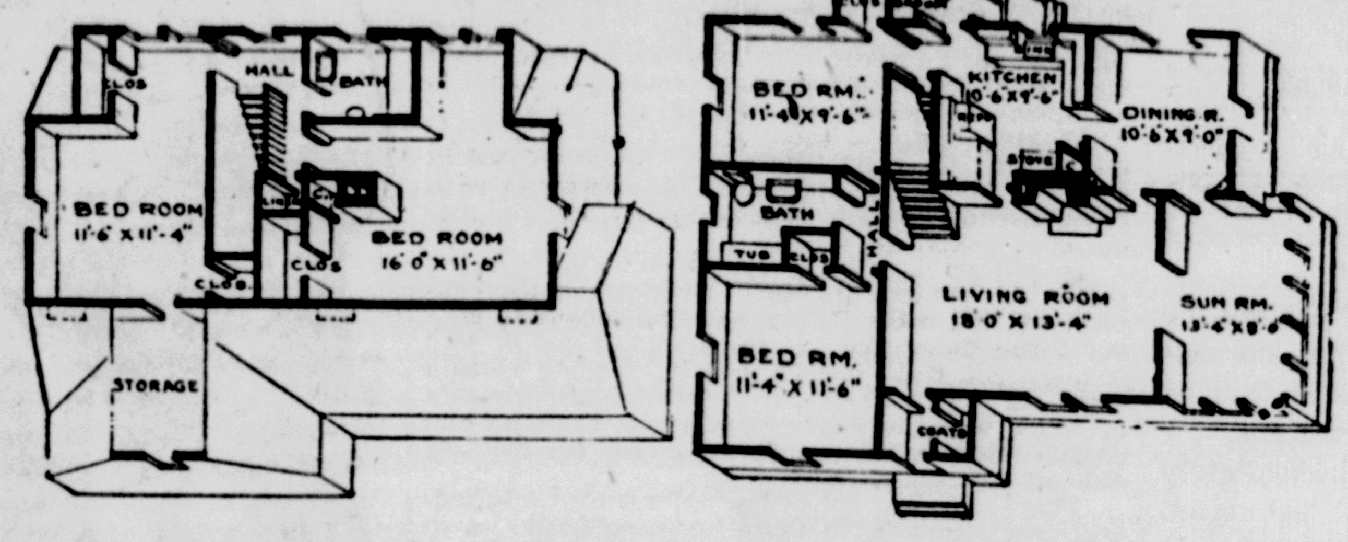
May Void Insurance

Change of ownership of a home, such as transfer of title from husband to wife or vice versa, usually will void the insurance on the house. It is suggested that the insurance company be consulted in advance. In making any transfer of title, it is important that the change of ownership be recorded.

THE GARDNER



Eight Room House Can Be Finished In Easy Stages

Rooms	Eight
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Nine
Cubage	20,000
Dimensions	30' x 29'

Containing well planned and spacious rooms, the house can be built in easy stages. Because complete living quarters are included on the first floor, it wouldn't be necessary to finish the second story until it is needed.

Two bedrooms and a bath, a large living room with a fireplace, the kitchen, a dining room with built-in china cabinets, and the sun room make up the rooms on the first floor. The second floor consists of two bedrooms, each with two closets and built-in storage drawers. Another bath and a large storage area complete the picture.

A 60' lot is required for "The Gardner" which measures 30' x 29' its cubic footage is 20,000 feet.

Dignified Appearance

The small cap over the front door gives an apearance of dignified poise to the house, while the long lines of the shutters at each window contrast nicely with the horizontal lines of the clapboarded sidewalls. Actually the roof of the sun porch at the front is a continuation of the main roof, but the break halfway up provides a separate roof for the room which projects beyond the dining room at the rear right.

Immediately beyond the small reception hall is the 18' x 13'4" living room — one of the most attractive rooms in house. Two windows in the front wall provide plenty of light which is supplemented by the light from the sun room, visible at the right through an open archway.

In the back wall, flanked by doors, is the large fireplace. The door on the right leads to the dining room; the one on the left to the kitchen. The door to the hall, separating the sleeping quarters from the rest of the house, is located in the left wall near the open stairs that lead to the second floor. A window at the top of the stairway lights this area.

There are eight windows in the 13'4" x 8' sunroom which actualy is an extension of the living room. Two doors are located in the back wall of the room, with one leading into the garden and the other opening into the dining room.

Measuring 10'6" x 9', the dining room has a large window at the back overlooking the garden. A side window provides light and cross ventilation.

A third swinging door on the left inside wall opens into the kitchen. On the left is a broom closet space with the stove just beyond next to the door to the living room.

Modern Kitchen

To the right of the dining room door is the L-shaped counter space with overhead and underneath cupboard space. The sink is located beneath the window at the back. Additional counter and cupboard space is provided in the corner between the refrigerator and living room door.

At the end of the L-shaped counter is a small hall which contains doors leading to the back bedroom, the cellar stairs and a back entry to the garden. A broom closet is located in this entry.

Measuring 11"4" x 9'6", the back bedroom has a closet in the back wall. There is ample wall space for the arrangement of heavy furniture pieces.

In the front wall of the bedroom is another door opening into the hall, at the opposite end of which is the front bedroom. The bath is located between the two bedrooms.

The front bedroom is 11'4" x 11'6" and also contains a closet in the back wall. The two windows provide the room with plenty of light and ventilation.

If one of these bedrooms is no longer needed after the second floor has been completed, it will be an easy matter to convert the front bedroom into a den or library.

A dormer across the back of the house makes possible full windows and headroom on the second story. An L-shaped hall connects the two second floor bedrooms. The smaller room, 11'6" x 11'5", is located at the left of the stairs.

At the front of the house the hall leads into the master bedroom which is 16' x 11'6" in dimensions. A linen closet is conveniently located at the end of the hallway.

Each of the bedrooms has two closets, and three windows—two in the back wall and one in the side wall.

The master bedroom contains two sets of built-in drawers and a small closet, next to the chimney. There is a larger closet in the side wall.

In the wall opposite the door to the smaller bedroom is a large closet; another one is placed in the front inside wall over the stair well.

Built-in drawers and the door to the storage space are located in the front wall of this room. During the warmer weather you can leave the window and door of the storage space open to provide additional ventilation for the bedroom.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications for "The Gardner," or any other home in this series, can be obtained at moderate cost. Try to Preserve Your Old Lawn

An old lawn is much simpler to care for than a new one so only as a last resort remake a lawn. The lawn should be raked over early and top-dressed with a good chemical fertilizer such as 10-6-4 at the rate of 10 pounds to 100 square feet of lawn area.

Mix the fertilizer with peat and perhaps some soil. As soon as the lawn has dried it should be rolled and uneven spots filled in. Never put soil on top of these areas but remove the sod and fill underneath with the soil.

As the grass starts to grow the lawn should be mowed. Use a sharp lawn mower and keep it well oiled so that it will run easily.

In thin spots, loosen the soil with a spading fork by breaking it in opposite directions to a depth of 8 inches and add a mixture of one-third soil, one-third peat moss and one-third sand to which fertilizer has been aded at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 square feet.

Seed these areas with 2 pounds of seed for every 1000 square feet of lawn area but not until after the soil is warm, so that the seeds will germinate at once.

In worn areas patching is the best method of repair. Start with a rectangular area and set in squares of turf taken from in front of the shrubbery borders or other locations. This will soon grow together and no sign of the patch will remain. A well-managed lawn is a source of pleasure unequaled by any other garden type.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 31 — Mr. and Mrs. Don Gardner and small daughter have moved here from Woodstock and are occupying a new bungalow on the William Hand development in the east end of the village. Gardner works for Hand in the latter's milk distributing business.

Mrs. Bernard Casablanca and son Vincent of Washington Heights are spending the week at their rented cottage on the Trail. Alf Edmundsen, Ashokan carpenter, is putting in additional windows and doors at the Casablancas' recently purchased summer bungalow in the village center.

Ralph Chase, assistant to Alton Stoutenburgh, West Hurley plumbing contractor, is on a few days' vacation trip down the river.

Echo of waterworks days: Monday, March 31, 1913—Three inches of rain in two days gave an average flow of 5½ billion gallons per day from the Esopus creek into the Ashokan Reservoir. Water rose at the rate of 2½ inches an hour, a rate which if the reservoir were completed, would fill it in 25 days. Old Esopus overflowed part of Kingston flats as result of water being let out via the Brown's Station weir. (March 30, 1951: Dame Nature, unassisted by "Doc" Howell, celebrates 38th anniversary in manner befitting occasion).

Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols of the Boiceville Hill road returned home Wednesday by bus from Saratoga Springs where they had spent a week at the farm home of their son. George and Grace are getting to be old timers in these parts; they first came here from Brooklyn about 20 years ago as guests at the Dunnagan farmhouse near their present home.

Bertha Greene who has been in poor health for the past three years, was quite ill the early part of the week.

Alva Buley Sr., and James Rutherford of the Tonche neighborhood have been working on a clearing job in the Chase woodlot along the cross-mountain road. A chain saw employed by a West Olive expert sawyer literally mowed down the trees, big and little, and Alva will have some of the best logs converted into lumber at the Duloff mill in the Acorn Hill sector. Scene of operations is near the old Winchell burying ground and the headwaters of the East Butternutkill.

The regular meeting of the official board of the Ashokan Methodist Church took place Monday night at the Shokan home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sickler.

May Void Insurance

Change of ownership of a home, such as transfer of title from husband to wife or vice versa, usually will void the insurance on the house. It is suggested that the insurance company be consulted in advance. In making any transfer of title, it is important that the change of ownership be recorded.

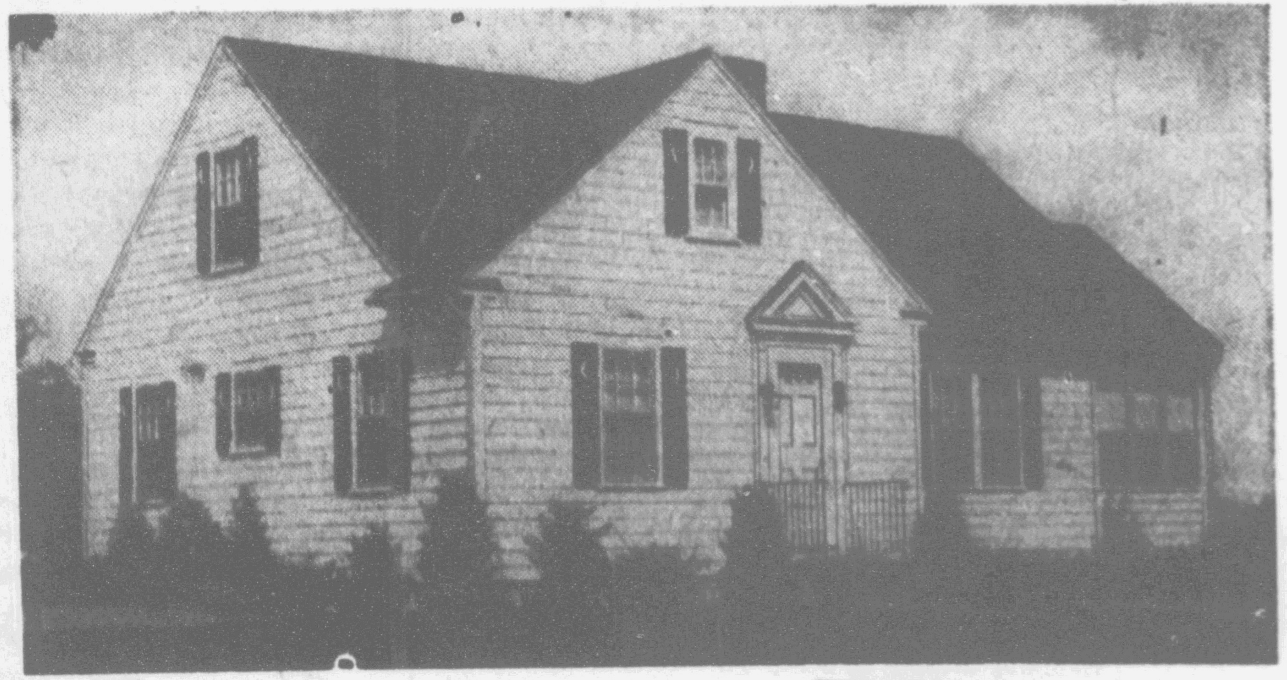
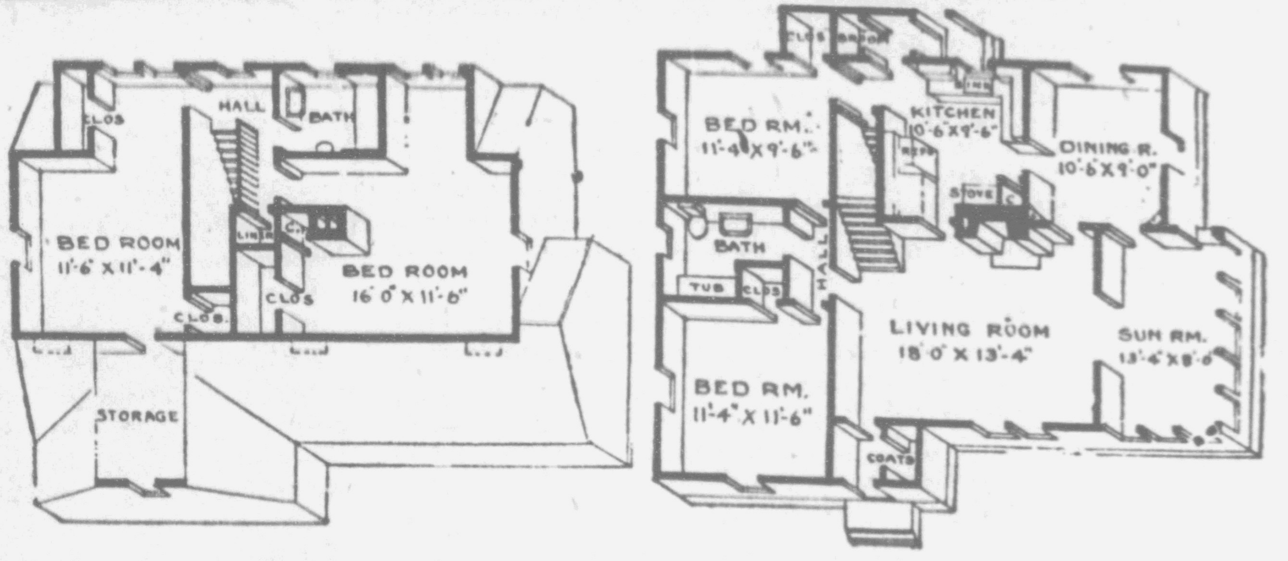
THE GARDNER





Eight Room House Can Be Finished In Easy Stages

Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Nine
Cubage	20,000
Dimensions	30' x 29'

Containing well planned and spacious rooms, the house can be built in easy stages. Because complete living quarters are included on the first floor, it wouldn't be necessary to finish the second story until it is needed.

Two bedrooms and a bath, a large living room with a fireplace, the kitchen, a dining room with built-in china cabinets, and the sun room make up the rooms on the first floor. The second floor consists of two bedrooms, each with two closets and built-in storage drawers. Another bath and a large storage area complete the picture.

A 60' lot is required for "The Gardner" which measures 30' x 29' its cubic footage is 20,000 feet.

Dignified Appearance

The small cap over the front door gives an apearance of dignified poise to the house, while the long lines of the shutters at each window contrast nicely with the horizontal lines of the clapboarded sidewalls. Actually the roof of the sun porch at the front is a continuation of the main roof, but the break halfway up provides a separate roof for the room which projects beyond the dining room at the rear right.

Immediately beyond the small reception hall is the 18' x 13'4" living room — one of the most attractive rooms in house. Two windows in the front wall provide plenty of light which is supplemented by the light from the sun room, visible at the right through an open archway.

In the back wall, flanked by doors, is the large fireplace. The door on the right leads to the dining room; the one on the left to the kitchen. The door to the hall, separating the sleeping quarters from the rest of the house, is located in the left wall near the open stairs that lead to the second floor. A window at the top of the stairway lights this area.

There are eight windows in the 13'4" x 8' sunroom which actualy is an extension of the living room. Two doors are located in the back wall of the room, with one leading into the garden and the other opening into the dining room.

Measuring 10'6" x 9', the dining room has a large window at the back overlooking the garden. A side window provides light and cross ventilation.

A third swinging door on the left inside wall opens into the kitchen. On the left is a broom closet space with the stove just beyond next to the door to the living room.

Modern Kitchen

To the right of the dining room door is the L-shaped counter space with overhead and underneath cupboard space. The sink is located beneath the window at the back. Additional counter and cupboard space is provided in the corner between the refrigerator and living room door.

At the end of the L-shaped counter is a small hall which contains doors leading to the back bedroom, the cellar stairs and a back entry to the garden. A broom closet is located in this entry.

Measuring 11"4" x 9'6", the back bedroom has a closet in the back wall. There is ample wall space for the arrangement of heavy furniture pieces.

In the front wall of the bedroom is another door opening into the hall, at the opposite end of which is the front bedroom. The bath is located between the two bedrooms.

The front bedroom is 11'4" x 11'6" and also contains a closet in the back wall. The two windows provide the room with plenty of light and ventilation.

If one of these bedrooms is no longer needed after the second floor has been completed, it will be an easy matter to convert the front bedroom into a den or library.

A dormer across the back of the house makes possible full windows and headroom on the second story. An L-shaped hall connects the two second floor bedrooms. The smaller room, 11'6" x 11'5", is located at the left of the stairs.

At the front of the house the hall leads into the master bedroom which is 16' x 11'6" in dimensions. A linen closet is conveniently located at the end of the hallway.

Each of the bedrooms has two closets, and three windows—two in the back wall and one in the side wall.

The master bedroom contains two sets of built-in drawers and a small closet, next to the chimney. There is a larger closet in the side wall.

In the wall opposite the door to the smaller bedroom is a large closet; another one is placed in the front inside wall over the stair well.

Built-in drawers and the door to the storage space are located in the front wall of this room. During the warmer weather you can leave the window and door of the storage space open to provide additional ventilation for the bedroom.

Three Waxings a Year

There are three types of wax on the market: paste, liquid and self-polishing. If floors are given a smooth coating of wax two or three times a year, that will keep them in excellent condition — except, of course, for the areas that bear the brunt of continued usage. These spots can be rewaxed when the need for such treatment appears.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 31, 1951

TAX ON SAVINGS

The House Ways and Means Committee has been seriously considering a tax on savings by means of a levy on mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations.

The committee will meet immediately after the return of Congress to Washington on April 2 to put their tax program in final form and are expected to report it out at an early date thereafter. Whether a tax on savings will be included is not known but the possibility is of great public interest, especially in New York State.

A tax of this sort is certain to discourage savings and lead to withdrawals for current spending, since it inevitably must be levied on the small earnings of the small savers, who at present earn on the average of only two per cent return on their deposits.

A tax on savings banks would fall most heavily on the people of New York State, where deposits in the mutual savings banks represent fifty-eight per cent of all mutual savings bank deposits in the country. Furthermore, these deposits represent the savings of 7,440,000 persons, or better than fifty per cent of the population of the state. The average amount on deposit is only $1,560. It is estimated that fifty per cent of the savings bank depositors make less than $3,000 per year; so on all counts this is a tax on those in the lower income brackets and will penalize them for their thrift.

The tax would also conflict with the policy of the law of New York State, which is that the savings banks maintain a ten per cent surplus ratio as a protection to the saver. Thus, as deposits go up, a share of earnings must be added to surplus, and, with most savings banks paying a two per cent rate, they have just about been able to maintain the mandatory surplus requirements. With a federal tax, either rates to depositors or surplus requirements would have to be modified, both to the detriment of the depositor, since all net earnings accrue to the depositors' benefit either in interest payments or protection of their savings—and the burden of the tax would fall on the people of New York State.

The proposal is being vigorously opposed by the savings banks for the above reasons and because such a tax is directly opposed to the entire social concept of savings banking—the promotion of thrift among, and the safeguarding of the savings of, people of moderate means.

A PRAISEWORTHY RECORD

The general public seems to have little appreciation of one tremendous job being done for UN troops wounded in Korea. That is the swift evacuation of casualties by the Military Air Transport Service (MATS) and other Air Force evacuation units.

True, a number of newspaper and magazine feature articles have been written about MATS. But it goes about its work of lifesaving in such a quiet, unspectacular fashion that it just doesn't rate daily headlines. Yet, thanks to these huge, long-range flying hospitals, thousands of wounded UN fighters are being hospitalized in Japan and the United States more speedily, more comfortably and more economically than ever before in warfare's tragic history.

During the UN withdrawals in North Korea, when the Chinese Communists, flushed with initial victory, swarmed down from Manchuria, the Fifth Air Force and the Troop Carrier Command flew 14,812 patients from Korea to Japan, in one eight-day period, 3,192 of them within six hours. During the first six months of the Korean war, MATS flew out a total of 15,939 patients, 12,462 of them Korean casualties.

Though the public generally may not be too aware of the MATS' flying hospital service, you can bet that the thousands of casualties who benefited and their families and their friends know about it — with deep gratitude.

The librarians have listed the twenty best books, in their opinion, publishing during 1950. Now all most of us need is the time to read one of them. Profitable time it would be, we are sure.

Diets must certainly be wonderful things. The fellow who takes one never forgets it—he isn't allowed.

Fashionable or not, there will be little change in men's pockets this year.

The young in heart defy old age.

'These Days'

LAWLESSNESS AND THE LAW

The Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and consitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral turpitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

Whatever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain disptches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about gambling as about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such business should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on Election Day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of god laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police-force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only ad more pages to our law books.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Nearly every physician has treated patients with one or more of the following diseases—peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, poor muscular heart and heart murmurs. Physicians have learned how to size up these patients aside from any symptoms of the disease for whch they have consulted them. And, while the emotional make-up of the patient affects the disease and the physicians know that in many cases the make-up of the patient may cause the disease, they also know that the make-up may not cause the disease.

In The New Zealand Medical Journal, Dr. B. W. Murphy asks the three following questions: 1. Do emotional disturbances enter into the causing of high blood pressure? 2. Is there anything specific or "special" about the personalities and conflicts of high blood pressure patients? 3. Is the high blood pressure's emotional state important from the standpoint of treatment?

Dr. Murphy's observations and the opinions of other investigators would show that while emotional conflict cannot be regarded as the cause of high blood pressure, it has an intimate relation to the cause. Dr. Murphy disagrees with statements concerning a special type of personality as most likely or prone to develop high blood pressure. With this many physicians will not agree because most of the high blood pressure patients who consult them are irritable and tensed all the time or grossly overweight.

It is true that while the peptic ulcer patient is usually thin, with narrow chest, narrow abdomen which does not allow stomach to be in a good emptying position, there are exceptions and these exceptions can be explained by some sudden or unusual conflict, and this, in Dr. Murphy's opinion, is the cause of the high blood pressure.

"A real need exists for psychiatric examination and treatment in all high blood pressure patients and, after a physical examination also, the patient can be reassured by explaining to him how even despite his calm or level emotional make-up, unusual conflicts, by keeping him tensed, raise his blood pressure," he writes.

Dr. Walter P. Cannon, Yale, has shown that functional diseases become organic in time.

The thought is that no matter what our emotional make-up, we should try to develop calmness or serenity.

Wotta Man!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—There are more reasons than meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is partly due to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exists.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for re-election.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to confirm district attorneys; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

FDR Tangled

Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the Senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer, and as in Georgia wth Neil Andrews—both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Milligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, had vigorously opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Milligan in Kansas City, he has since permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or poltical bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That is also why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Senate for four months last winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Sen. Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, has since regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personaly, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

Pearson Names Cases

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many, however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges county, right under the shadow of the Capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Ripps and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard-working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on to John Hill, the U. S. attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Ripps and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. Attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. Attorney in Mobile. Ripps and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D.A.'s Nose

Another case occurred closer to home—right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. Attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

In September 1949 an official police report charged that Lieutenant Shjimon had tapped the wires of Howard Hughes, head of Trans-World Airlines with the wire-tapping expenses paid by Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. The police report also showed that Shimon had broekn into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He was merely making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore, Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Mr. Fay's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both to the Justice Department and to Mr. Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeded to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wiretapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. Attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees are sometimes so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That is also why U. S. Attorneys and local law-enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 31, 1951

TAX ON SAVINGS

The House Ways and Means Committee has been seriously considering a tax on savings by means of a levy on mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations.

The committee will meet immediately after the return of Congress to Washington on April 2 to put their tax program in final form and are expected to report it out at an early date thereafter. Whether a tax on savings will be included is not known but the possibility is of great public interest, especially in New York State.

A tax of this sort is certain to discourage savings and lead to withdrawals for current spending, since it inevitably must be levied on the small earnings of the small savers, who at present earn on the average of only two per cent return on their deposits.

A tax on savings banks would fall most heavily on the people of New York State, where deposits in the mutual savings banks represent fifty-eight per cent of all mutual savings bank deposits in the country. Furthermore, these deposits represent the savings of 7,440,000 persons, or better than fifty per cent of the population of the state. The average amount on deposit is only $1,560. It is estimated that fifty per cent of the savings bank depositors make less than $3,000 per year; so on all counts this is a tax on those in the lower income brackets and will penalize them for their thrift.

The tax would also conflict with the policy of the law of New York State, which is that the savings banks maintain a ten per cent surplus ratio as a protection to the saver. Thus, as deposits go up, a share of earnings must be added to surplus, and, with most savings banks paying a two per cent rate, they have just about been able to maintain the mandatory surplus requirements. With a federal tax, either rates to depositors or surplus requirements would have to be modified, both to the detriment of the depositor, since all net earnings accrue to the depositors' benefit either in interest payments or protection of their savings—and the burden of the tax would fall on the people of New York State.

The proposal is being vigorously opposed by the savings banks for the above reasons and because such a tax is directly opposed to the entire social concept of savings banking—the promotion of thrift among, and the safeguarding of the savings of, people of moderate means.

A PRAISEWORTHY RECORD

The general public seems to have little appreciation of one tremendous job being done for UN troops wounded in Korea. That is the swift evacuation of casualties by the Military Air Transport Service (MATS) and other Air Force evacuation units.

True, a number of newspaper and magazine feature articles have been written about MATS. But it goes about its work of lifesaving in such a quiet, unspectacular fashion that it just doesn't rate daily headlines. Yet, thanks to these huge, long-range flying hospitals, thousands of wounded UN fighters are being hospitalized in Japan and the United States more speedily, more comfortably and more economically than ever before in warfare's tragic history.

During the UN withdrawals in North Korea, when the Chinese Communists, flushed with initial victory, swarmed down from Manchuria, the Fifth Air Force and the Troop Carrier Command flew 14,812 patients from Korea to Japan, in one eight-day period, 3,192 of them within six hours. During the first six months of the Korean war, MATS flew out a total of 15,939 patients, 12,462 of them Korean casualties.

Though the public generally may not be too aware of the MATS' flying hospital service, you can bet that the thousands of casualties who benefited and their families and their friends know about it — with deep gratitude.

The librarians have listed the twenty best books, in their opinion, publishing during 1950. Now all most of us need is the time to read one of them. Profitable time it would be, we are sure.

Diets must certainly be wonderful things. The fellow who takes one never forgets it—he isn't allowed.

Fashionable or not, there will be little change in men's pockets this year.

LAWLESSNESS AND THE LAW

The Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and consitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral turpitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

Whatever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain disptches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about gambling as about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such business should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on Election Day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of god laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police-force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only ad more pages to our law books.

That Body of Yours

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Nearly every physician has treated patients with one or more of the following diseases—peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, poor muscular heart and heart murmurs. Physicians have learned how to size up these patients aside from any symptoms of the disease for whch they have consulted them. And, while the emotional make-up of the patient affects the disease and the physicians know that in many cases the make-up of the patient may cause the disease, they also know that the make-up may not cause the disease.

In The New Zealand Medical Journal, Dr. B. W. Murphy asks the three following questions: 1. Do emotional disturbances enter into the causing of high blood pressure? 2. Is there anything specific or "special" about the personalities and conflicts of high blood pressure patients? 3. Is the high blood pressure's emotional state important from the standpoint of treatment?

Dr. Murphy's observations and the opinions of other investigators would show that while emotional conflict cannot be regarded as the cause of high blood pressure, it has an intimate relation to the cause. Dr. Murphy disagrees with statements concerning a special type of personality as most likely or prone to develop high blood pressure. With this many physicians will not agree because most of the high blood pressure patients who consult them are irritable and tensed all the time or grossly overweight.

It is true that while the peptic ulcer patient is usually thin, with narrow chest, narrow abdomen which does not allow stomach to be in a good emptying position, there are exceptions and these exceptions can be explained by some sudden or unusual conflict, and this, in Dr. Murphy's opinion, is the cause of the high blood pressure.

"A real need exists for psychiatric examination and treatment in all high blood pressure patients and, after a physical examination also, the patient can be reassured by explaining to him how even despite his calm or level emotional make-up, unusual conflicts, by keeping him tensed, raise his blood pressure," he writes.

Dr. Walter P. Cannon, Yale, has shown that functional diseases become organic in time.

The thought is that no matter what our emotional make-up, we should try to develop calmness or serenity.

Wotta Man!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—There are more reasons than meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is partly due to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exists.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for re-election.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to confirm district attorneys; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

FDR Tangled

Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the Senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer, and as in Georgia wth Neil Andrews—both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Milligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, had vigorously opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Milligan in Kansas City, he has since permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or poltical bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That is also why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Senate for four months last winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Sen. Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, has since regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personaly, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

Pearson Names Cases

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many, however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges county, right under the shadow of the Capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Ripps and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard-working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on to John Hill, the U. S. attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Ripps and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. Attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. Attorney in Mobile. Ripps and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D.A.'s Nose

Another case occurred closer to home—right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. Attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

In September 1949 an official police report charged that Lieutenant Shjimon had tapped the wires of Howard Hughes, head of Trans-World Airlines with the wire-tapping expenses paid by Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. The police report also showed that Shimon had broekn into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He was merely making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore, Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Mr. Fay's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both to the Justice Department and to Mr. Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeded to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wiretapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. Attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees are sometimes so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That is also why U. S. Attorneys and local law-enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 31, 1951

TAX ON SAVINGS

The House Ways and Means Committee has been seriously considering a tax on savings by means of a levy on mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations.

The committee will meet immediately after the return of Congress to Washington on April 2 to put their tax program in final form and are expected to report it out at an early date thereafter. Whether a tax on savings will be included is not known but the possibility is of great public interest, especially in New York State.

A tax of this sort is certain to discourage savings and lead to withdrawals for current spending, since it inevitably must be levied on the small earnings of the small savers, who at present earn on the average of only two per cent return on their deposits.

A tax on savings banks would fall most heavily on the people of New York State, where deposits in the mutual savings banks represent fifty-eight per cent of all mutual savings bank deposits in the country. Furthermore, these deposits represent the savings of 7,440,000 persons, or better than fifty per cent of the population of the state. The average amount on deposit is only $1,560. It is estimated that fifty per cent of the savings bank depositors make less than $3,000 per year; so on all counts this is a tax on those in the lower income brackets and will penalize them for their thrift.

The tax would also conflict with the policy of the law of New York State, which is that the savings banks maintain a ten per cent surplus ratio as a protection to the saver. Thus, as deposits go up, a share of earnings must be added to surplus, and, with most savings banks paying a two per cent rate, they have just about been able to maintain the mandatory surplus requirements. With a federal tax, either rates to depositors or surplus requirements would have to be modified, both to the detriment of the depositor, since all net earnings accrue to the depositors' benefit either in interest payments or protection of their savings—and the burden of the tax would fall on the people of New York State.

The proposal is being vigorously opposed by the savings banks for the above reasons and because such a tax is directly opposed to the entire social concept of savings banking—the promotion of thrift among, and the safeguarding of the savings of, people of moderate means.

A PRAISEWORTHY RECORD

The general public seems to have little appreciation of one tremendous job being done for UN troops wounded in Korea. That is the swift evacuation of casualties by the Military Air Transport Service (MATS) and other Air Force evacuation units.

True, a number of newspaper and magazine feature articles have been written about MATS. But it goes about its work of lifesaving in such a quiet, unspectacular fashion that it just doesn't rate daily headlines. Yet, thanks to these huge, long-range flying hospitals, thousands of wounded UN fighters are being hospitalized in Japan and the United States more speedily, more comfortably and more economically than ever before in warfare's tragic history.

During the UN withdrawals in North Korea, when the Chinese Communists, flushed with initial victory, swarmed down from Manchuria, the Fifth Air Force and the Troop Carrier Command flew 14,812 patients from Korea to Japan, in one eight-day period, 3,192 of them within six hours. During the first six months of the Korean war, MATS flew out a total of 15,939 patients, 12,462 of them Korean casualties.

Though the public generally may not be too aware of the MATS' flying hospital service, you can bet that the thousands of casualties who benefited and their families and their friends know about it — with deep gratitude.

The librarians have listed the twenty best books, in their opinion, publishing during 1950. Now all most of us need is the time to read one of them. Profitable time it would be, we are sure.

Diets must certainly be wonderful things. The fellow who takes one never forgets it—he isn't allowed.

Fashionable or not, there will be little change in men's pockets this year.

LAWLESSNESS AND THE LAW

The Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and consitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral turpitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

Whatever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain disptches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about gambling as about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such business should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on Election Day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of god laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police-force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only ad more pages to our law books.

That Body of Yours

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Nearly every physician has treated patients with one or more of the following diseases—peptic ulcer, high blood pressure, poor muscular heart and heart murmurs. Physicians have learned how to size up these patients aside from any symptoms of the disease for whch they have consulted them. And, while the emotional make-up of the patient affects the disease and the physicians know that in many cases the make-up of the patient may cause the disease, they also know that the make-up may not cause the disease.

In The New Zealand Medical Journal, Dr. B. W. Murphy asks the three following questions: 1. Do emotional disturbances enter into the causing of high blood pressure? 2. Is there anything specific or "special" about the personalities and conflicts of high blood pressure patients? 3. Is the high blood pressure's emotional state important from the standpoint of treatment?

Dr. Murphy's observations and the opinions of other investigators would show that while emotional conflict cannot be regarded as the cause of high blood pressure, it has an intimate relation to the cause. Dr. Murphy disagrees with statements concerning a special type of personality as most likely or prone to develop high blood pressure. With this many physicians will not agree because most of the high blood pressure patients who consult them are irritable and tensed all the time or grossly overweight.

It is true that while the peptic ulcer patient is usually thin, with narrow chest, narrow abdomen which does not allow stomach to be in a good emptying position, there are exceptions and these exceptions can be explained by some sudden or unusual conflict, and this, in Dr. Murphy's opinion, is the cause of the high blood pressure.

"A real need exists for psychiatric examination and treatment in all high blood pressure patients and, after a physical examination also, the patient can be reassured by explaining to him how even despite his calm or level emotional make-up, unusual conflicts, by keeping him tensed, raise his blood pressure," he writes.

Dr. Walter P. Cannon, Yale, has shown that functional diseases become organic in time.

The thought is that no matter what our emotional make-up, we should try to develop calmness or serenity.

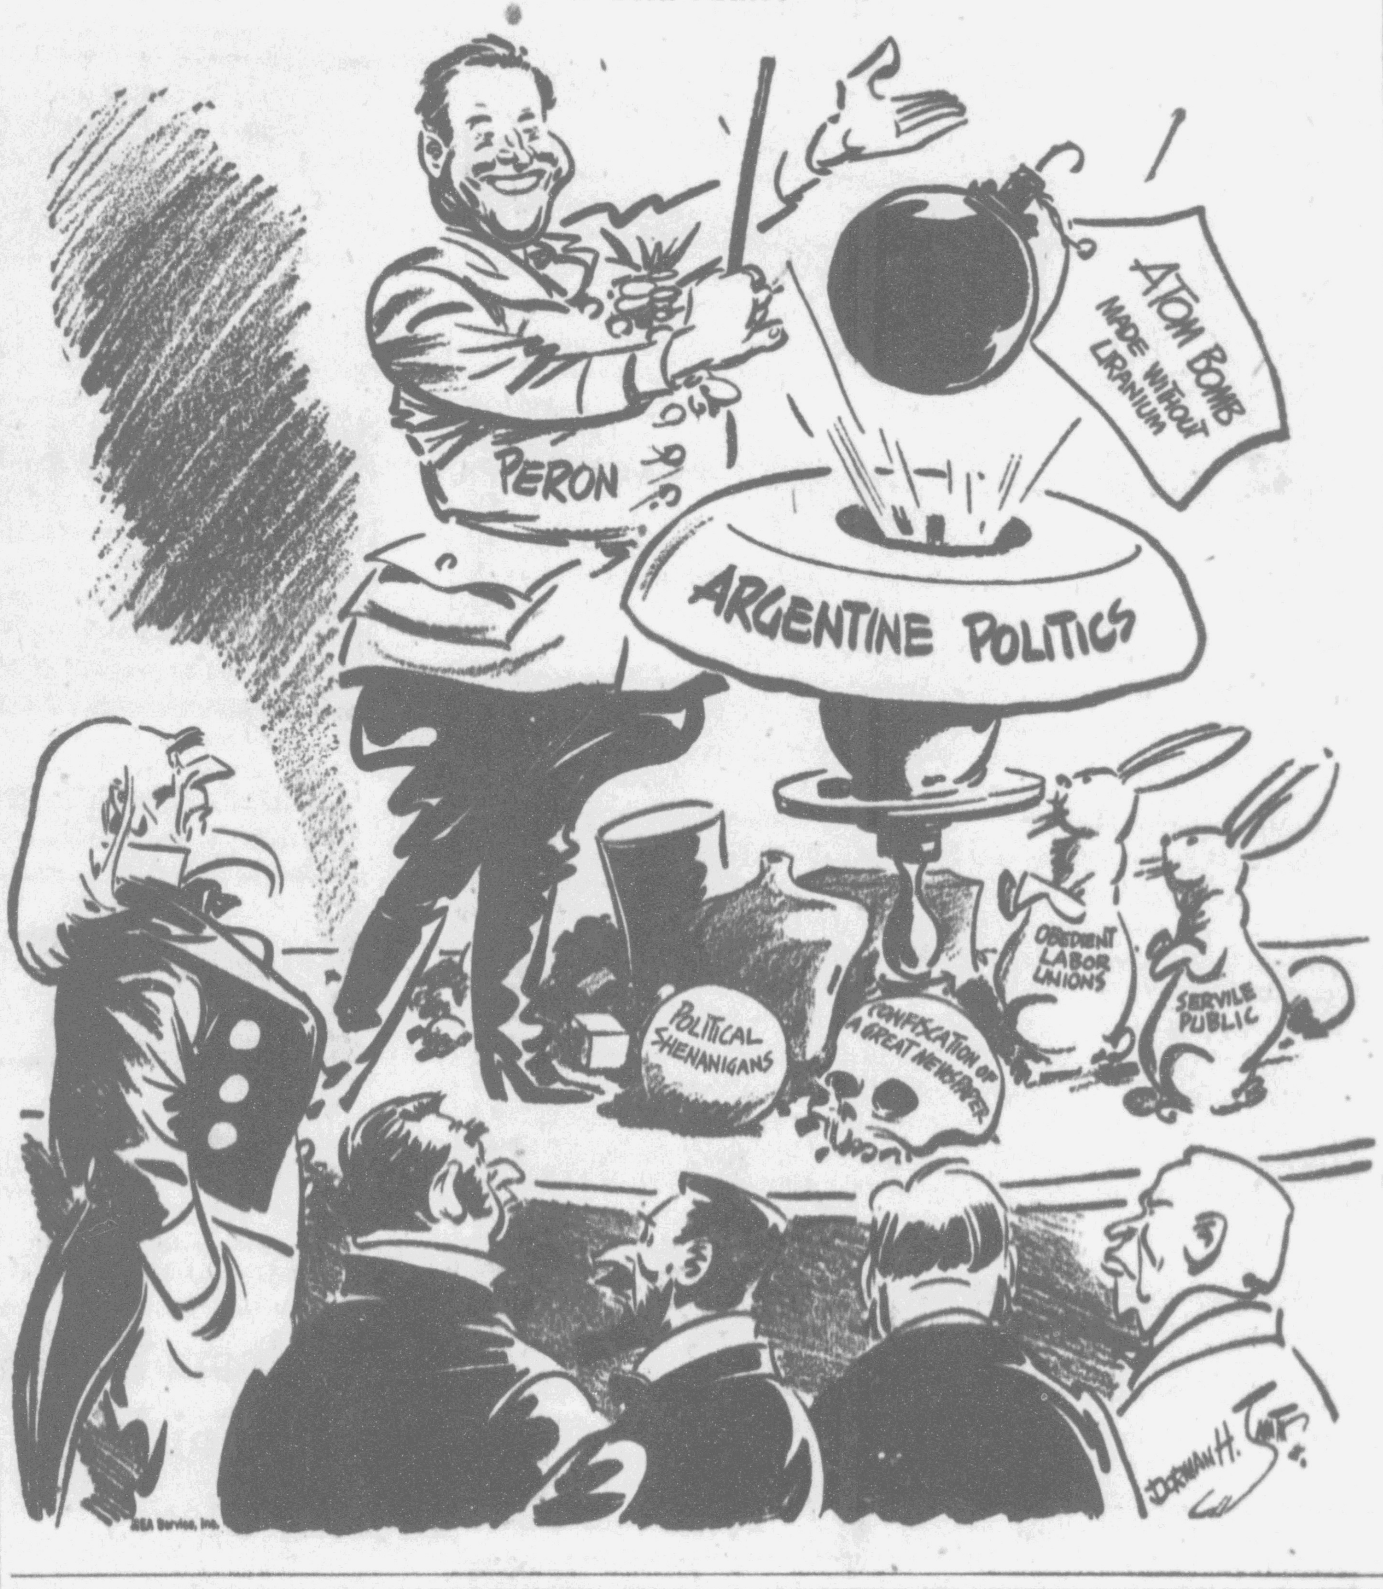
Wotta Man!



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—There are more reasons than meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is partly due to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exicts.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for re-election.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to confirm district attorneys; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

FDR Tangled

Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the Senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer, and as in Georgia wth Neil Andrews—both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Milligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, had vigorously opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Milligan in Kansas City, he has since permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or poltical bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That is also why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Senate for four months last winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Sen. Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, has since regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personaly, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

Pearson Names Cases

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many, however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges county, right under the shadow of the Capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Ripps and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard-working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on to John Hill, the U. S. attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Ripps and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. Attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. Attorney in Mobile. Ripps and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D.A.'s Nose

Another case occurred closer to home—right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. Attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

In September 1949 an official police report charged that Lieutenant Shjimon had tapped the wires of Howard Hughes, head of Trans-World Airlines with the wire-tapping expenses paid by Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. The police report also showed that Shimon had broekn into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He was merely making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore. Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Mr. Fay's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both to the Justice Department and to Mr. Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeded to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wiretapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. Attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees are sometimes so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That is also why U. S. Attorneys and local law-enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

County Dairymen Plan Two Meetings

Cutting costs by making good grass silage without the use of molasses will be one of the topics to be discussed by dairymen at two meetings next week.

A meeting for southern Ulster dairymen will be held at Bruynswick Reformed Church, near Wallkill, at 8 p. m. Monday, April 2, at the invitation of the Dutch Arms of that church. The meeting for Kingston area dairymen will be at Stone Ridge Reformed Church at 8 o'clock the following night, April 3.

Louis J. Dusek, agronomist of the Callanan Road Improvement Company, will show slides and discuss the role of lime in growing good legume crops. He will speak at both meetings.

Weed control and seeding mixtures will also be discussed, if time permits. The molasses angle, however, promises to be of top interest, for dairymen are finding it advisable not to use molasses because of its high price, according to C. H. Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent. Making good grass silage or good hay depends mainly on growing good crops, and use of molasses isn't necessary, according to Padgham.

Dairymen attending have been asked to bring with them a sample of grass silage in a quart or pint glass canning jar.

Bus Driver Killed In Truck Collision

New York, March 31 (AP)—A bus driver was killed early today when his vehicle was in collision with a towing truck at the intersection of Springfield and Linden Boulevards in Queens.

The dead man was identified as Anthony Mitchell, 35, a Negro of 46 St. Edwards street, Brooklyn.

Police said the city bus operated by Mitchell was west bound on Linden Boulevard and was proceeding through the intersection when the towing truck, southbound on Springfield Boulevard, also continued through the intersection.

Police said the towing truck, operated by Willis Cannova, 20, of 225-21 111th avenue, Queens, went through a red light.

After the two vehicles collided, the bus careened into a telephone pole. Four bus passengers were thrown to the floor but none were seriously injured, police said.

Mitchell, however, was thrown partially through the front door of the bus. It took a police emergency squad 20 minutes to free him from the wreckage. He died later at Mary Immaculate Hospital.

Cannova, who was treated at the hospital for hand lacerations, was not held, but police said an investigation would be made. The tow truck is owned by the J. and L. Service Station, 103-33 Springfield Boulevard, Queens village.

The four passengers were treated at the hospital and sent home.

No Cause Verdict In DeCicco Case

A verdict of no cause for action was returned Friday afternoon in the $20,000 negligence action brought by Anthony DeCicco of Kingston against his sister, Teresa L. Mayone of Glasco, in Supreme Court. DeCicco sued to recover for injuries which he allegedly suffered when he fell over a lawn mower which had been left on a walk on his sister's property where he had gone on a visit. It is alleged he fell over the machine which he did not see in the darkness and received back injuries.

Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant and John E. Egan appeared for plaintiff. This was the last case of the March term of Supreme Court to be heard by Justice V. Elsworth, presiding justice.

O'Neills Start Suits

Salem, Mass., March 31 (AP)—Playwright Eugene O'Neill and his third wife, Carlotta Monterey O'Neill, have separated, probate court records disclose, and have started legal proceedings against each other. The ailing 62-year-old dramatist petitioned Essex probate court to appoint a guardian for his wife, claiming she is insane. A Boston psychiatrist, Dr. Merrill Moore, joined him in the action. Yesterday, Mrs. O'Neill asked separate support. She said she left their Marblehead home, February 1, and now is living in Boston. She charged O'Neill was cruel and abusive. Since 1946, O'Neill has been ailing with Parkinson's disease — an illness that causes a form of palsy.

Test for Reuther

Cleveland, March 31 (AP)—Walter Reuther, whose power in the CIO United Auto Workers goes unchallenged on most matters, will undergo next week what in union affairs is the supreme test of strength. That became apparent today after the fiery UAW president announced he will ask the union's convention to approve a 66 per cent increase in union dues—from $1.50 to $2.50 a month. And what's more, he told reporters here yesterday he'll accept no such compromise as a 50-cent boost. Reuther predicted delegates will approve the increase. Reuther lambasted opposition to his dues proposal as "strictly political" and said John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers are kicking in funds to help defeat it.

Snackbar in the Snow

Mittenwald, Germany (AP)—Have a hot dog and a couple of drinks served on an ice buffet in Germany's loftiest snackbar built of snow some 6,700 feet high in the Bavarian Alps. An enterprising bar keeper of Mittenwald had a 30-foot tunnel dug through a wall of snow and ice. Here, in a "snow room" he set up a big buffet and ice tables. On his biggest day, more than 3,000 skiers dropped in.

Opening lead—♣ Q

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you've passed originally, your partner knows that your hand is not good enough for an opening bid. No matter how strongly you bid later on, your partner remembers that you couldn't bid to begin with.

Hence you can make a jump bid after an original pass to show that your hand was almost worth an opening bid. Such a jump bid is not, of course, as strong as a normal jump (which would show a hand at least as strong as an opening bid).

In the hand shown today, North quite properly passed to begin with. When his partner opened fourth-hand with one heart, however, North was entitled to assume that the combined hands could surely make a game. His response of two spades showed that he had a good spade suit, a maximum pass, and a holding that promised a game opposite a normal opening bid.

South naturally raised the spades, whereupon North showed his heart support. Now South was entitled to get a bit ambitious. North couldn't have better than queen-jack at the head of his hearts. Hence he was bound to have a pretty good spade suit South reasoned.

The hearts were surely solid, the spades solid or nearly solid, and South had the ace of each minor suit. South felt that a contract of five hearts must surely be safe and that such an invitational bid would give North the chance to go on or refuse, depending on his values.

North had no problem when the invitation was extended. He would have opened the bidding if one of his queens had been a king. Hence he had not overstated his strength by announcing that h had a maximum pass.

Moreover he would have jumped to two spades even with two doubletons in the minor suits rather than the more desirable 3-1 distribution. Hence he had slightly more strength than South could know about, and on this basis he could afford to accept the slam invitation.

The bidding was rather tenuous, perhaps, and probably only a pair of very fine players would reach the slam. It is important to notice, however, that if North had responded with three or four hearts, South would not have dreamed of going past game.

There was nothing much to the play. South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, returned with a trump to ruff another club, and then drew trumps. When the spade finesse later succeeded, South made all of the tricks.

County Dairymen Plan Two Meetings

Cutting costs by making good grass silage without the use of molasses will be one of the topics to be discussed by dairymen at two meetings next week.

A meeting for southern Ulster dairymen will be held at Bruynswick Reformed Church, near Wallkill, at 8 p. m. Monday, April 2, at the invitation of the Dutch Arms of that church. The meeting for Kingston area dairymen will be at Stone Ridge Reformed Church at 8 o'clock the following night, April 3.

Louis J. Dusek, agronomist of the Callanan Road Improvement Company, will show slides and discuss the role of lime in growing good legume crops. He will speak at both meetings.

Weed control and seeding mixtures will also be discussed, if time permits. The molasses angle, however, promises to be of top interest, for dairymen are finding it advisable not to use molasses because of its high price, according to C. H. Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent. Making good grass silage or good hay depends mainly on growing good crops, and use of molasses isn't necessary, according to Padgham.

Dairymen attending have been asked to bring with them a sample of grass silage in a quart or pint glass canning jar.

Bus Driver Killed In Truck Collision

New York, March 31 (AP)—A bus driver was killed early today when his vehicle was in collision with a towing truck at the intersection of Springfield and Linden Boulevards in Queens.

The dead man was identified as Anthony Mitchell, 35, a Negro of 46 St. Edwards street, Brooklyn.

Police said the city bus operated by Mitchell was west bound on Linden Boulevard and was proceeding through the intersection when the towing truck, southbound on Springfield Boulevard, also continued through the intersection.

Police said the towing truck, operated by Willis Cannova, 20, of 225-21 111th avenue, Queens, went through a red light.

After the two vehicles collided, the bus careened into a telephone pole. Four bus passengers were thrown to the floor but none were seriously injured, police said.

Mitchell, however, was thrown partially through the front door of the bus. It took a police emergency squad 20 minutes to free him from the wreckage. He died later at Mary Immaculate Hospital.

Cannova, who was treated at the hospital for hand lacerations, was not held, but police said an investigation would be made. The tow truck is owned by the J. and L. Service Station, 103-33 Springfield Boulevard, Queens village.

The four passengers were treated at the hospital and sent home.

No Cause Verdict In DeCicco Case

A verdict of no cause for action was returned Friday afternoon in the $20,000 negligence action brought by Anthony DeCicco of Kingston against his sister, Teresa L. Mayone of Glasco, in Supreme Court. DeCicco sued to recover for injuries which he allegedly suffered when he fell over a lawn mower which had been left on a walk on his sister's property where he had gone on a visit. It is alleged he fell over the machine which he did not see in the darkness and received back injuries.

Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant and John E. Egan appeared for plaintiff. This was the last case of the March term of Supreme Court to be heard by Justice V. Elsworth, presiding justice.

O'Neills Start Suits

Salem, Mass., March 31 (AP)—Playwright Eugene O'Neill and his third wife, Carlotta Monterey O'Neill, have separated, probate court records disclose, and have started legal proceedings against each other. The ailing 62-year-old dramatist petitioned Essex probate court to appoint a guardian for his wife, claiming she is insane. A Boston psychiatrist, Dr. Merrill Moore, joined him in the action. Yesterday, Mrs. O'Neill asked separate support. She said she left their Marblehead home, February 1, and now is living in Boston. She charged O'Neill was cruel and abusive. Since 1946, O'Neill has been ailing with Parkinson's disease — an illness that causes a form of palsy.

Test for Reuther

Cleveland, March 31 (AP)—Walter Reuther, whose power in the CIO United Auto Workers goes unchallenged on most matters, will undergo next week what in union affairs is the supreme test of strength. That became apparent today after the fiery UAW president announced he will ask the union's convention to approve a 66 per cent increase in union dues—from $1.50 to $2.50 a month. And what's more, he told reporters here yesterday he'll accept no such compromise as a 50-cent boost. Reuther predicted delegates will approve the increase. Reuther lambasted opposition to his dues proposal as "strictly political" and said John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers are kicking in funds to help defeat it.

Snackbar in the Snow

Mittenwald, Germany (AP)—Have a hot dog and a couple of drinks served on an ice buffet in Germany's loftiest snackbar built of snow some 6,700 feet high in the Bavarian Alps. An enterprising bar keeper of Mittenwald had a 30-foot tunnel dug through a wall of snow and ice. Here, in a "snow room" he set up a big buffet and ice tables. On his biggest day, more than 3,000 skiers dropped in.

Opening lead—♣ Q

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you've passed originally, your partner knows that your hand is not good enough for an opening bid. No matter how strongly you bid later on, your partner remembers that you couldn't bid to begin with.

Hence you can make a jump bid after an original pass to show that your hand was almost worth an opening bid. Such a jump bid is not, of course, as strong as a normal jump (which would show a hand at least as strong as an opening bid).

In the hand shown today, North quite properly passed to begin with. When his partner opened fourth-hand with one heart, however, North was entitled to assume that the combined hands could surely make a game. His response of two spades showed that he had a good spade suit, a maximum pass, and a holding that promised a game opposite a normal opening bid.

South naturally raised the spades, whereupon North showed his heart support. Now South was entitled to get a bit ambitious. North couldn't have better than queen-jack at the head of his hearts. Hence he was bound to have a pretty good spade suit South reasoned.

The hearts were surely solid, the spades solid or nearly solid, and South had the ace of each minor suit. South felt that a contract of five hearts must surely be safe and that such an invitational bid would give North the chance to go on or refuse, depending on his values.

North had no problem when the invitation was extended. He would have opened the bidding if one of his queens had been a king. Hence he had not overstated his strength by announcing that he had a maximum pass.

Moreover he would have jumped to two spades even with two doubletons in the minor suits rather than the more desirable 3-1 distribution. Hence he had slightly more strength than South could know about, and on this basis he could afford to accept the slam invitation.

The bidding was rather tenuous, perhaps, and probably only a pair of very fine players would reach the slam. It is important to notice, however, that if North had responded with three or four hearts, South would not have dreamed of going past game.

There was nothing much to the play. South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, returned with a trump to ruff another club, and then drew trumps. When the spade finesse later succeeded, South made all of the tricks.

County Dairymen Plan Two Meetings

Cutting costs by making good grass silage without the use of molasses will be one of the topics to be discussed by dairymen at two meetings next week.

A meeting for southern Ulster dairymen will be held at Bruynswick Reformed Church, near Wallkill, at 8 p. m. Monday, April 2, at the invitation of the Dutch Arms of that church. The meeting for Kingston area dairymen will be at Stone Ridge Reformed Church at 8 o'clock the following night, April 3.

Louis J. Dusek, agronomist of the Callanan Road Improvement Company, will show slides and discuss the role of lime in growing good legume crops. He will speak at both meetings.

Weed control and seeding mixtures will also be discussed, if time permits. The molasses angle, however, promises to be of top interest, for dairymen are finding it advisable not to use molasses because of its high price, according to C. H. Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent. Making good grass silage or good hay depends mainly on growing good crops, and use of molasses isn't necessary, according to Padgham.

Dairymen attending have been asked to bring with them a sample of grass silage in a quart or pint glass canning jar.

Bus Driver Killed In Truck Collision

New York, March 31 (AP)—A bus driver was killed early today when his vehicle was in collision with a towing truck at the intersection of Springfield and Linden Boulevards in Queens.

The dead man was identified as Anthony Mitchell, 35, a Negro of 46 St. Edwards street, Brooklyn.

Police said the city bus operated by Mitchell was west bound on Linden Boulevard and was proceeding through the intersection when the towing truck, southbound on Springfield Boulevard, also continued through the intersection.

Police said the towing truck, operated by Willis Cannova, 20, of 225-21 111th avenue, Queens, went through a red light.

After the two vehicles collided, the bus careened into a telephone pole. Four bus passengers were thrown to the floor but none were seriously injured, police said.

Mitchell, however, was thrown partially through the front door of the bus. It took a police emergency squad 20 minutes to free him from the wreckage. He died later at Mary Immaculate Hospital.

Cannova, who was treated at the hospital for hand lacerations, was not held, but police said an investigation would be made. The tow truck is owned by the J. and L. Service Station, 103-33 Springfield Boulevard, Queens village.

The four passengers were treated at the hospital and sent home.

No Cause Verdict In DeCicco Case

A verdict of no cause for action was returned Friday afternoon in the $20,000 negligence action brought by Anthony DeCicco of Kingston against his sister, Teresa L. Mayone of Glasco, in Supreme Court. DeCicco sued to recover for injuries which he allegedly suffered when he fell over a lawn mower which had been left on a walk on his sister's property where he had gone on a visit. It is alleged he fell over the machine which he did not see in the darkness and received back injuries.

Andrew J. Cook appeared for the defendant and John E. Egan appeared for plaintiff. This was the last case of the March term of Supreme Court to be heard by Justice V. Elsworth, presiding justice.

O'Neills Start Suits

Salem, Mass., March 31 (AP)—Playwright Eugene O'Neill and his third wife, Carlotta Monterey O'Neill, have separated, probate court records disclose, and have started legal proceedings against each other. The ailing 62-year-old dramatist petitioned Essex probate court to appoint a guardian for his wife, claiming she is insane. A Boston psychiatrist, Dr. Merrill Moore, joined him in the action. Yesterday, Mrs. O'Neill asked separate support. She said she left their Marblehead home, February 1, and now is living in Boston. She charged O'Neill was cruel and abusive. Since 1946, O'Neill has been ailing with Parkinson's disease—an illness that causes a form of palsy.

Test for Reuther

Cleveland, March 31 (AP)—Walter Reuther, whose power in the CIO United Auto Workers goes unchallenged on most matters, will undergo next week what in union affairs is the supreme test of strength. That became apparent today after the fiery UAW president announced he will ask the union's convention to approve a 66 per cent increase in union dues—from $1.50 to $2.50 a month. And what's more, he told reporters here yesterday he'll accept no such compromise as a 50-cent boost. Reuther predicted delegates will approve the increase. Reuther lambasted opposition to his dues proposal as "strictly political" and said John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers are kicking in funds to help defeat it.

Snackbar in the Snow

Mittenwald, Germany (AP)—Have a hot dog and a couple of drinks served on an ice buffet in Germany's loftiest snackbar built of snow some 6,700 feet high in the Bavarian Alps. An enterprising bar keeper of Mittenwald had a 30-foot tunnel dug through a wall of snow and ice. Here, in a "snow room" he set up a big buffet and ice tables. On his biggest day, more than 3,000 skiers dropped in.

Pass

Opening lead—♣ Q

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you've passed originally, your partner knows that your hand is not good enough for an opening bid. No matter how strongly you bid later on, your partner remembers that you couldn't bid to begin with.

Hence you can make a jump bid after an original pass to show that your hand was almost worth an opening bid. Such a jump bid is not, of course, as strong as a normal jump (which would show a hand at least as strong as an opening bid).

In the hand shown today, North quite properly passed to begin with. When his partner opened fourth-hand with one heart, however, North was entitled to assume that the combined hands could surely make a game. His response of two spades showed that he had a good spade suit, a maximum pass, and a holding that promised a game opposite a normal opening bid.

South naturally raised the spades, whereupon North showed his heart support. Now South was entitled to get a bit ambitious. North couldn't have better than queen-jack at the head of his hearts. Hence he was bound to have a pretty good spade suit South reasoned.

The hearts were surely solid, the spades solid or nearly solid, and South had the ace of each minor suit. South felt that a contract of five hearts must surely be safe and that such an invitational bid would give North the chance to go on or refuse, depending on his values.

North had no problem when the invitation was extended. He would have opened the bidding if one of his queens had been a king. Hence he had not overstated his strength by announcing that h had a maximum pass.

Moreover he would have jumped to two spades even with two doubletons in the minor suits rather than the more desirable 3-1 distribution. Hence he had slightly more strength than South could know about, and on this basis he could afford to accept the slam invitation.

The bidding was rather tenuous, perhaps, and probably only a pair of very fine players would reach the slam. It is important to notice, however, that if North had responded with three or four hearts, South would not have dreamed of going past game.

There was nothing much to the play. South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, returned with a trump to ruff another club, and then drew trumps. When the spade finesse later succeeded, South made all of the tricks.

By the time a wise guy is old enough to marry, a fool has children big enough to support him.

Man—The average man lives 30 years longer than he did in 1800.

Friend—He has to in order to get his taxes paid.

Two veterans were boasting about their old outfits.

First—Why, our company was so well drilled that when we presented arms, all you could hear was slap, slap, click.

Second—Pretty fair, but when our company presented arms you could hear slap, slap, jingle.

First—Jingle? What did that?

Second—Oh, just our medals.

If you have never felt the joy of doing a kind act, you have have neglected much, most of all yourself.

A husband drew up his chair beside his wife's sewing machine.

Hubby—Don't you think you're running too fast? Look out! you'll sew that wrong seam. Mind that corner now! Slow down, watch your finger. Steady!

Wife—What's the matter with you, John? I've been running this machine for years.

Hubby—Well, dear, I thought you might like me to help you, since you help me drive the car.

To measure your growth go back to the old home town and see whether important citizens still seem important.

Prosecutor (cross-examining)—Now, sir, will you tell the court how far you were from the accused when the shot was fired?

Witness—13 feet, 7¾ inches.

Prosecutor—Come, come, now, how can you tell to the fraction of an inch?

Witness—I knew one of you smart lawyers would ask me so I measured it.

A Hollywood starlet was so shrewd that she went without her honeymoon so her husband could save his money for her alimony.

Inflation: Instead of not having the money you haven't got, you have twice as much, but it's worth only half of what you haven't got.

First—Why, our company was so well drilled that when we presented arms, all you could hear was slap, slap, click.

Second—Pretty fair, but when our company presented arms you could hear slap, slap, jingle.

First—Jingle? What did that?

Second—Oh, just our medals.

Hubby—Well, dear, I thought you might like me to help you, since you help me drive the car.

Prosecutor (cross-examining)—Now, sir, will you tell the court how far you were from the accused when the shot was fired?

Witness—13 feet, 7¾ inches.

Prosecutor—Come, come, now, how can you tell to the fraction of an inch?

Witness—I knew one of you smart lawyers would ask me so I measured it.

Bowling Roundup

Achieving the hat trick with solid scores of 235-236-219, Phil Masters just missed the coveted 700 Club membership Thursday night during the Bowlodrome Major League firing.

Masters' only break in his bid for the 700 blast came in the third frame of the second game when he missed the troublesome seven pin.

The 690 three-timer sparked a field of 11 other assorted 600s.

Tied for runnerup honors were Dick Howard and Johnny "Red" Schatzel with 645 triples. Howard bashed the maples for a string of 234-194-217 while Schatzel fired 192-243-217.

Also in the upper bracket were Angie Ferraro with 214-242-639; Bill Kuehn 234-224-639; Charlie Manfro 245-207-636; Phil Corrado 248-213-633; Eddie Murphy 223-217-626; Harry Smith 221-213-623; Cliff Davis 221-222-622; George "Curly" Flemings 221-207-621; and George Robinson 200-221-605.

Other big 200 scores turned in throughout the circuit included J. Houghtaling with 228, Larry Weishaupt 246, George Shufeldt 236, Randy Kelder 225, Bob Hanley with a pair of 209s, Elwood Robinson 237.

Blasting Caps, first round champions of the Hercules League forestalled any possibility of a playoff for the 1950-51 championship, by nailing down the second helf last night at the Bowlatorium. The newly-crowned champions swept three straight from the B. & F.

Jack Martin nosed out Joe Uhl, 568 to 567, for high series honors, Uhl tossing a 209 single. Joe Maurer had 545; George Williams 539; Bill Mohr 204-533; Clarence Studt 208-532; Richie Dulin 512; E. Smedes 509 and Clarence Herdman 506.

Livia Tenedini was again the high series shooter in the Chalet Pioneer Women's League in Rosendale, her three solos of 169, 169 and 148 adding up to a neat 486.

Other high scorers were H. Sutton with 466; Doris Freese 443; E. Pratt 428; June Van Kleeck 427; M. McCaffrey 421; Elizabeth Schoonmaker 419; E. Atkins 417; A. Zimmer 415; G. Ritter 412; A. Brown and S. Joyce 407 and Kay Houska 401.

The Daily Freeman Headpin tournament and the K.W.B.A.'s "Name Your Score Contest" which opened last night at Ferraro's Bowlodrome will continue all day today and Sunday. All bowlers in the city are invited to compete.

A city wide "open meeting" to discuss Kingston's bid for the New York State bowling championships in 1952 will be held on Sunday at 2 p. m. at the county court house. All league officials and bowlers and all persons interested in seeing Kingston receive the tournament are requested to attend. Louis G. Bruhn, president of the Kingston Bowling Association will preside.

Tony Amato turned in the "hat trick" and a rousing 647 to pace the Everybody's League action last night at Red Sangi's dreamland drives, while the "prop" himself shot 203-221-605.

Other high counts included W. Wood's 201-217-585; Tom Welch 213-566; J. Houghtaling 206-560; Ray Houghtaling 554; F. Amato 551; Joe Sangi 550; Tom Miller 205-525 and Norm Niles 521.

'Two-Ton' Tony at Auditorium Tonight

Loaded down with newly-acquired culture, Two-Ton Tony Galento, the famous world traveler, British favorite ex-heavyweight contender and self-styled terror of the wrestling arenas, returns to Kingston tonight.

Galento is paired with Wally Dusek, one of the "Riot Squad" boys of Omaha's Dusek tribe, in a best of three falls match.

Dusek in his own right is one of the roughest characters in the game, so a delightful rhubarb is in store for the grunt and groan addicts.

Supporting bouts feature John Heiderman, Italo-German star, against Hal Kanner, "Mr. Germany of 1950" and Wally Dern, Greenwich Village artist vs. Mike Kilonis of Greece.

First bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Ticket reservations can be made by calling 6039.

St. Mary's Cagers Had Banner Season

Led by Joe Erena, St. Mary's Junior "A" C.Y.O. county basketball squad completed its 1950-51 season with a record of thirteen wins and four losses.

Erena, who accounted for 193 points during the regular season and came within a point of tying Chris Rienzo's 34-point record, was named the most valuable player in the junior division of the C.Y.O. tournament.

The team set a seasonal scoring record when it trounced St. Joseph's Juniors, 87 to 27.

Lou Perry was runnerup to Erena with 140 points, while Petro tossed in 108 and Sheffer had 90. The squad scored 759 points for a 45.2 average, against 514 and 30.2 for the opposition.

Instrumental in the success of the team also were Rich Petro, a fiery ball player and playmaker, L. Sheffer, Paul Perry, J. Graney and Lou Perry.

Big '10' Basketball Is Under Scrutiny

Chicago, March 31 (AP) — Two investigations into any possible fixed Big Ten basketball games are underway.

One is by Kenneth L. Wilson, Big Ten commissioner, the other by John S. Boyle, Cook County (Chicago) State's Attorney.

Both were spurred by testimony last week before the Kefauver Crime Committee in Washington. Sidney A. Brodson, Milwaukee gambler, said then that one Big Ten basketball official had been guilty of "irregularities" in refereeing.

Wilson immediately began looking into the remarks and says he intends to talk to Brodson as soon as he receives a transcript of Brodson's Washington testimony. Brodson says he is willing to meet with Wilson and will furnish "iron-clad proof" to back up his charge.

State's Attorney Boyle yesterday asked Wilson to turn over to his office any evidence he uncovers on fixes of games played in Cook county. Boyle said he was unsuccessful in trying to reach Brodson by telephone.

Rockne's Name Still Magic

South Bend, Ind., March 31 (AP)—The Legend of the "Rock" still blunts the scythe of time.

Twenty years ago today 43-year-old Knute Rockne, Norwegian-born master of the American game of football, plunged to death in a Kansas plane crash.

The football world was stunned by the news that Notre Dame's famed coach bald-domed man of electrifying personality and stabbing psychology, met a tragic end in the midst of a brillant career.

It could be expected the Rock's feat of guiding 13 Irish elevens to five undefeated, united seasons and 105 victories against only 12 losses and five ties would wear well against the fame-dimming parade of years.

But 20 years have passed, a generation of football players not yet born when Rockne thrived has churned the turf on his beloved Irish campus, and still the memory of the man has a burning hold on the grid realm.

High in Voting

His name has been projected high in the voting in the Associated Press' All-Time, All-America poll, the coach selection of which will be disclosed April 11.

Tomorrow, Notre Dame alumni throughout the nation will commemorate Rockne's passing by attending Mass and Communion breakfasts. On the campus here, 150 past and present students and friends will do the same and also visit the nearby cemetery for the traditional placing of a wreath on Rockne's grave.

That fatal plane crash near Bazaar, Kan., March 31, 1931, came four months after the Frank Carideo-quarterbacked Irish had swept unbeaten through 10 games. The previous season, Notre Dame had won all of its nine games to pull out of the most serious tail-spin ever suffered by a Rockne-coached team, the 1928 season in which the Irish won five and lost four.

Furgol and Bolt Pace Azalea Open

Wilmington, N. C., March 31 (AP)—Marty Furgol and Tommy Dolt were the front runners as the $10,000 Azalea Open golf tournament headed into its third round today. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away, ready to take charge if the coleaders showed signs of faltering.

Dolt, a Texan who registers from Durham, N. C., caught first-day leader Furgol with a second 70 to go along with his opening day 69 for 139 to start today's play.

Furgol, Long Beach, Calif., pro and the first day big man at 67, slumped a bit to par 72 yesterday, but was able to match Bolt's total.

Mosconi Captures Greenleaf Memorial

Philadelphia, March 31 (AP)—The first annual Ralph Greenleaf Memorial pocket billiards tournament was won by world champion Willie Mosconi of Havertown, Pa. Mosconi yesterday defeated Irving Crane, Binghamton, N. Y., 125-3, and George Henier, Toronto, Canada, 125-42, to finish with 11 victories and only one defeat.

Second place was taken by Chenier with an 8-4 mark, while third went to Crane, who won seven of 12.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Sarasota, Fla., March 30 (AP)—The New York Giants will be without the services of Ray Noble, their Cuban catcher, for at least two weeks. He suffered a sprained ankle yesterday while sliding into home plate in the second inning against the Red Sox.

Avila Clicking

Tuscon, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—Bob Avila, the Cleveland Indians young second baseman, has really started the season with a bang in fact, one in every game.

Avila, who arrived in camp late, has appeared in 13 of the Tribe's 21 exhibition contests and has gotten at least one hit in each one.

The Tribe had two of its top hurlers ready for the two-game series opening today with the Chicago Cubs. Bob Feller will hurl the first game and Bob Lemon tomorrow's contest.

Vander Meer Through

Phoenix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs are giving up on veteran Johnny Vander Meer of no-hit, no-run fame.

The Cubs announced yesterday they will give the 36-year-old southpaw his unconditional release as soon as waivers are received. The club expressed dissatisfaction with Vander Meer's progress in getting into shape this spring.

Vander Meer came to the Cubs last year from Cincinnati after 11 years with the Reds. He was used mostly in relief and finished the season with a 3-4 record. Vander Meer pitched two consecutive no-hit, no-run games while with the Reds in 1938.

Hatten Hurt

Miami, Fla., March 31 (AP)—Joe Hatten, Brooklyn southpaw, was spiked on the fingers of his throwing hand last night, but the cuts are not believed of a serious nature. The mishap happened in the second inning of the game against the Braves when Hatten attempted to field a bunt near the foul line by Warren Spahn.

Same Old Trouble

Phoneix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—Tommy Byrne still has trouble finding the plate for the New York Yankees. He worked five innings against the Chicago Cubs yesterday and gave up four walks. When he did get the ball over, the Cubs socked it. Byrne yielded a 400-foot homer to Hank Sauer in the first inning with one on.

There is one tragic note beclouding the onrushing golf season and that's the news that Warren Townley, popular Woodstock Country Club professional, suffered the loss of a leg in a recent operation at the Veterans Hospital in the Bronx.

The veteran professional was hampered by leg ailments for some time before he submitted to surgery. According to reports we have received, the doctors amputated one leg and recommended the removal of the other limb. Mr. Townley, however, has been so weak that the medicos will not risk a second operation at this time.

The unhappy tidings will come as a great shock to Warren's many Kingston friends who frequent the picturesque Woodstock course. His career as a golf professional is over but his many friends will remember him as a sound teacher of the fundamentals of the universal frustration known as golf.

If you can find time, drop him a line at the Veterans Administration Hospital, 130 Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx, N. Y.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

While on the subject of golf, it is interesting to note that Father Henry E. Herdegen and Long John Matthews, two inveterate linksmen, have developed into tenpin addicts indulging in daily sessions with the pot-bellied maples. This department extends heartiest condolences to John Ferraro on the loss of his mother. Adirondack Trailways and Newburgh Cy's Diners face the last three weeks of the Hudson Valley League schedule in a flat-footed tie for first place. Tony Mack unloaded a 704 series last Sunday against Liberty as the Diners dropped a set to drop back into a tie with John Van Gonsic's tenpin wrecking crew. Amoco Gas looks like a cinch for a clean sweep of the two major league crowns in Kingston, while Pete Keresman's Colonials are a shoo-in for the City League bauble. A Michael "Sparky" Greco rooter writes in to inform us that Mitzie Arlensky's 708 triple was not the first "700" triple in A.B.C. sanctioned bowling in Saugerties. "Sparky" rolled 713 several years ago. Greco, incidentally, is headed for Kingston in the near future having recently purchased a mid-Broadway tavern.

● There's Gold in Them Sulkies:

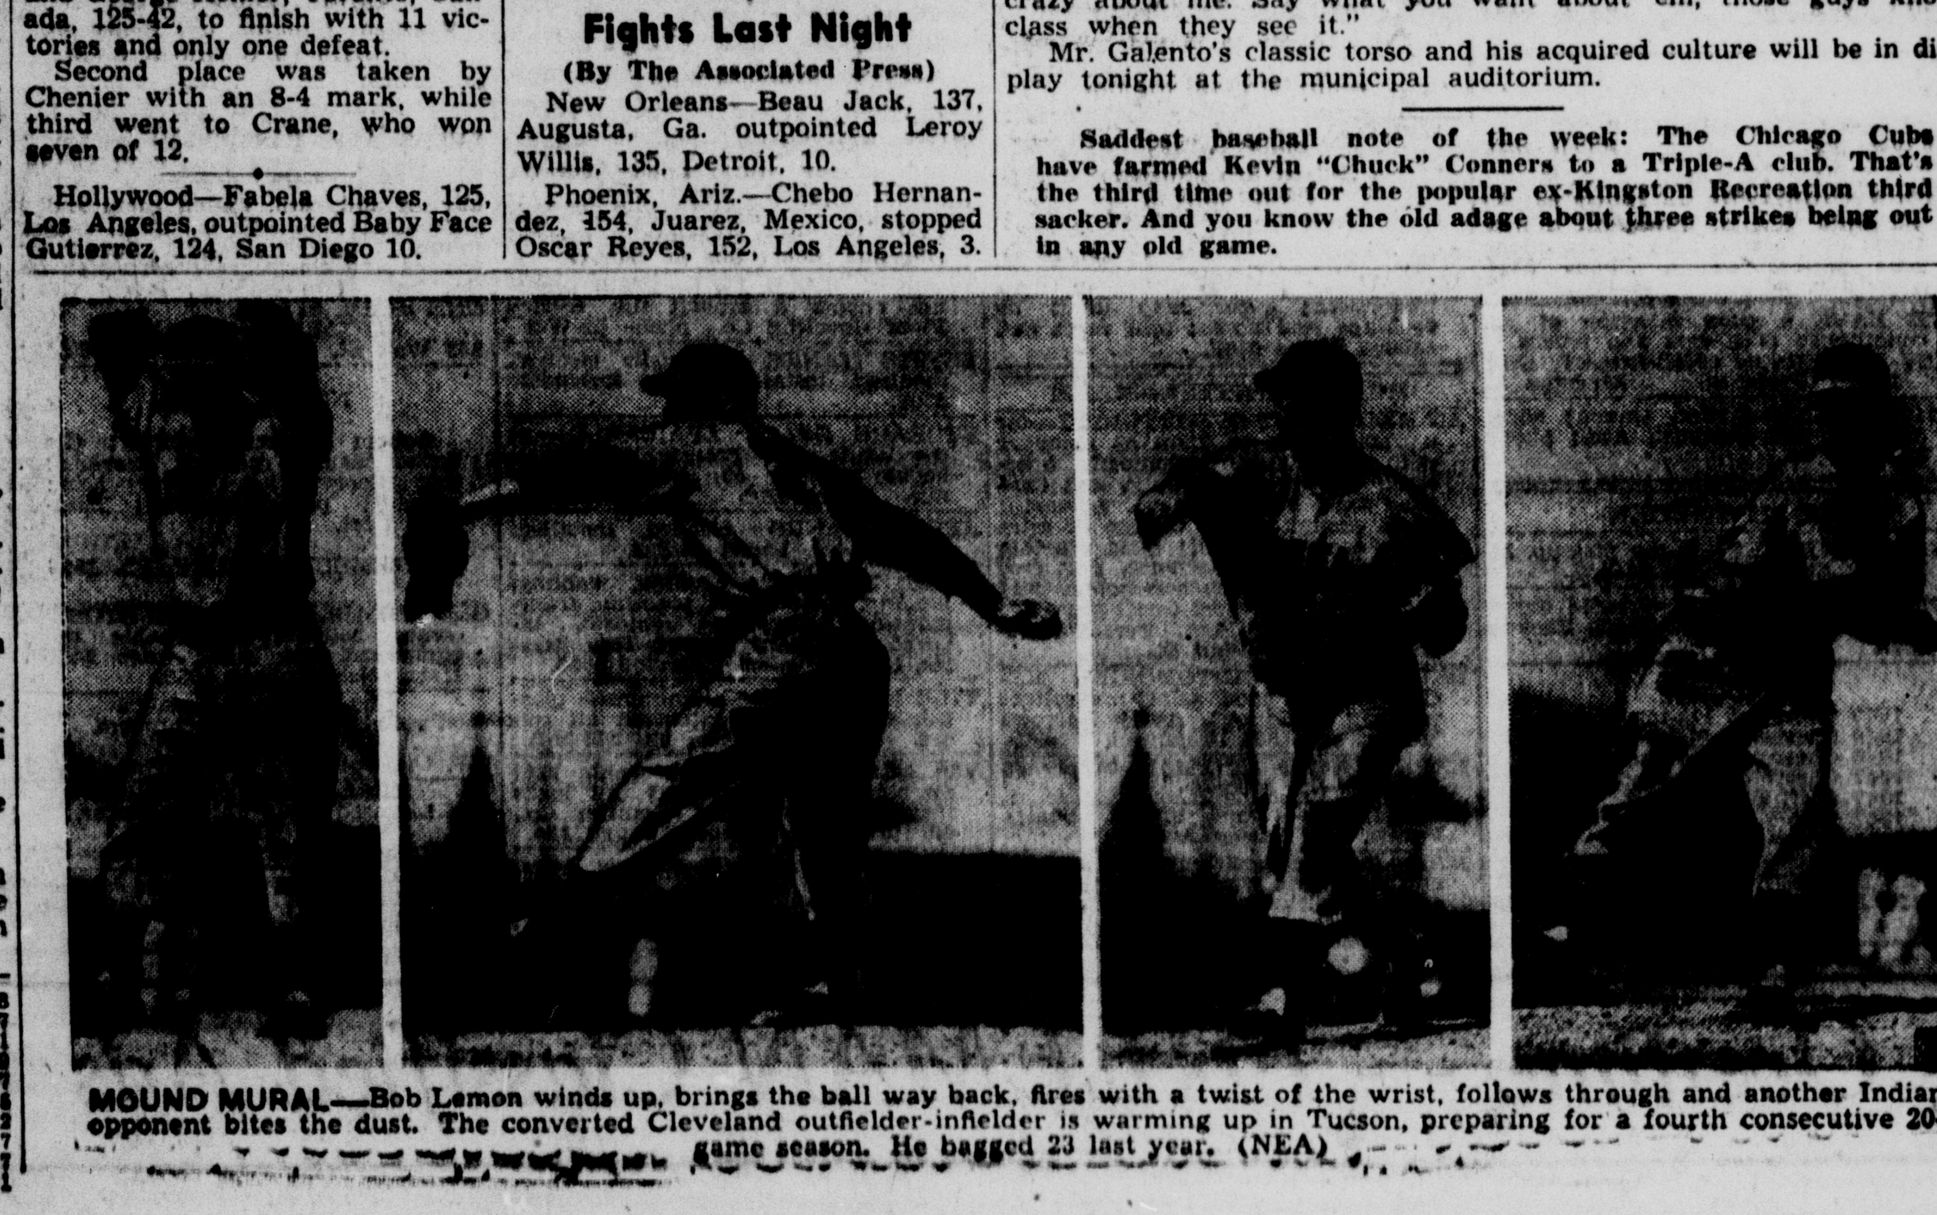
A pair of trotters owned by Clarence O. "Bud" Fromer and Dr. John Olivet of Kingston will vie for purses totalling $22,400 in the forthcoming summer meet at Saratoga Raceway. Fromer's Emerson Hanover, by Nibble Hanover, is entered in three stakes worth $1800; five in the $2000 class and also the $2,500 Will Gahagan Memorial. Dr. Olivet's Ballstonian, by Foster Abbe, is entered in three $1500 stakes. Tom McNeils, Jr., vacationing in Daytona Beach and picking the New York Giants to win the 1951 National League pennant . . . natch. . . . Say Leo Pold, how many more days before the Yankees open their third consecutive pennant-winning season? Cecil Rhodes, the bowling great, not the empire builder, reviving his handicap bowling sweepstakes this season. Entry blanks will be mailed to all captains. If you are a team captain or league official, or just a plain Mr. Bowler, you are cordially invited to attend the "open meeting" Sunday at the court house. Sponsors of the three championship teams in the recent Kingston Bowling Association city tournament will receive beautiful certificates from the A.B.C.

Pat Robinson, the INS sportswriter interviewed that eminent scholar, bon vivant and world traveler—Two-Ton Tony Galento—after his triumphal tour of Europe and quotes the East Orange, N. J. barkeep turned wrestler:

"I moidered dem bums they trun in wit' me. They wuz pushovers. I rassle that Jack Doyle in Lunnon. Remember that bum when he wuz over here? He couldn't fight then and he can't rassle now. I break his ribs in the fifth round and he's all through. Yeh, that's right. We wuz to rassle 20 three-minute rounds. Them Englishers wuz crazy about me. Say what you want about 'em, those guys know class when they see it."

Mr. Galento's classic torso and his acquired culture will be in display tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Saddest baseball note of the week: The Chicago Cubs have farmed Kevin "Chuck" Conners to a Triple-A club. That's the third time out for the popular ex-Kingston Recreation third sacker. And you know the old adage about three strikes being out in any old game.



MOUND MURAL—Bob Lemon winds up, brings the ball way back, fires with a twist of the wrist, follows through and another Indian opponent bites the dust. The converted Cleveland outfielder-infielder is warming up in Tucson, preparing for a fourth consecutive 20-game season. He bagged 23 last year. (NEA)

Gavilan Hailed as Next Welterweight Champ Following Win Over Hairston

Meets Bratton For Title May 18

New York, March 31 (AP)—"There goes the next welterweight champion of the world."

Mike Miele was talking about Kid Gavilan. A good many of the experts agree with him. The Cuban flash had just beaten Gene Hairston, Miele's fighter, in an exciting ten rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Miele thought his 21-year old middleweight contender had earned at least a draw but all three officials voted for Gavilin, from 5-4-1 to 6-3-1 and 7-3. The A.P. scorecard had Gavilan the winner, 7-3.

Gavilan, too, is convinced he's going to be the next 147-pound champ. He got off to a good start in that direction yesterday when he signed to meet Johnny Bratton, the NBA welterweight king, in the Garden, May 18.

The New York commission will recognize the winner as world champion. Before Commission Chairman Eddie Eagan bestowed his title blessings, he had both Bratton and Gavilan sign to defend against Billy Graham in New York in July.

7,617 See Fight

Gavilan had a slight scratch on the lobe of his right ear. That was the only visible damage of the fight that thrilled 7,617 fans in the Garden and millions on television. The gross gate, hurt by an all-day rain, was $27,430.

There were no knockdowns in the fight. Neither boy was hurt. Both Gavilan and his deaf-mute rival from the Bronx are two of the fastest punchers in the game. They threw plenty of leather and all kinds of punches. Gavilan's greater experience won out for him and enabled him to avenge a split decision loss to Hairston five months ago in Scranton.

Gavilan broke fast, swept the first three rounds with flashy left jabs and hooks, lost the fourth, and then won the fight by sweeping the fifth, sixth and seventh heats. Hairston rallied to capture the eighth and ninth with continued body punching and with several good rights to the head. The Keed closed out his victory with a good edge in the last round. Gavilan weighted 150 and Hairston, 155¾.

Grand Circuit Sets Up in Goshen

New York, N. Y.—Harness racing's Grand Circuit and the newly organized Trotting Horse Museum will temporarily merge public relations offices under one roof effective April 2, it was announced today.

The new dual-purpose headquarters will be established in the museum building at Goshen, N. Y., necessitating the close of the New York Grand Circuit publicity office which has been in operation for the past three years.

Elliot Emerson of New York, who has handled the Roaring Grand's public relations since 1948, will continue in that capacity in addition to directing the activities of the museum, which is expected to be opened for the public by July 1, 1951.

Last Call Due For Old Bobo

Birmingham, March 31 (AP)—Pitcher Bobo Newsom, the old war horse of organized baseball, has until Thursday to decide whether he will join the Birmingham Barons.

General Manager Eddie Glennon said yesterday he had extended a contract offer to Newsom. Bobo, who admits he is "over 40," was released by the Chattanooga Lookouts last fall at his own request. The ruggedly individualistic righthander said he would accept the Birmingham offer if he doesn't get a major league proposition Glennon reported.

Bobo has pitched in both leagues and several minor circuits.

Bowling Roundup

Achieving the hat trick with solid scores of 235-236-219, Phil Masters just missed the coveted 700 Club membership Thursday night during the Bowlodrome Major League firing.

Masters' only break in his bid for the 700 blast came in the third frame of the second game when he missed the troublesome seven pin.

The 690 three-timer sparked a field of 11 other assorted 600s.

Tied for runnerup honors were Dick Howard and Johnny "Red" Schatzel with 645 triples. Howard bashed the maples for a string of 234-194-217 while Schatzel fired 192-243-217.

Also in the upper bracket were Angie Ferraro with 214-242-639; Bill Kuehn 234-224-639; Charlie Manfro 245-207-636; Phil Corrado 248-213-633; Eddie Murphy 223-217-626; Harry Smith 221-213-623; Cliff Davis 221-222-622; George "Curly" Flemings 221-207-621; and George Robinson 200-221-605.

Livia Tenedini was again the high series shooter in the Chalet Pioneer Women's League in Rosendale, her three solos of 169, 169 and 148 adding up to a neat 486.

Other high scorers were H. Sutton with 466; Doris Freese 443; E. Pratt 428; June Van Kleeck 427; M. McCaffrey 421; Elizabeth Schoonmaker 419; E. Atkins 417; A. Zimmer 415; G. Ritter 412; A. Brown and S. Joyce 407 and Kay Houska 401.

The Daily Freeman Headpin tournament and the K.W.B.A.'s "Name Your Score Contest" which opened last night at Ferraro's Bowlodrome will continue all day today and Sunday. All bowlers in the city are invited to compete.

Bruhn, president of the Kingston Bowling Association will preside.

'Two-Ton' Tony at Auditorium Tonight

Loaded down with newly-acquired culture, Two-Ton Tony Galento, the famous world traveler, British favorite ex-heavyweight contender and self-styled terror of the wrestling arenas, returns to Kingston tonight.

Galento is paired with Wally Dusek, one of the "Riot Squad" boys of Omaha's Dusek tribe, in a best of three falls match.

Dusek in his own right is one of the roughest characters in the game, so a delightful rhubarb is in store for the grunt and groan addicts.

Supporting bouts feature John Heiderman, Italo-German star, against Hal Kanner, "Mr. Germany of 1950" and Wally Dern, Greenwich Village artist vs. Mike Kilonis of Greece.

First bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Ticket reservations can be made by calling 6039.

St. Mary's Cagers Had Banner Season

Led by Joe Erena, St. Mary's Junior "A" C.Y.O. county basketball squad completed its 1950-51 season with a record of thirteen wins and four losses.

Erena, who accounted for 193 points during the regular season and came within a point of tying Chris Rienzo's 34-point record, was named the most valuable player in the junior division of the C.Y.O. tournament.

The team set a seasonal scoring record when it trounced St. Joseph's Juniors, 87 to 27.

Lou Perry was runnerup to Erena with 140 points, while Petro tossed in 108 and Sheffer had 90. The squad scored 759 points for a 45.2 average, against 514 and 30.2 for the opposition.

Big '10' Basketball Is Under Scrutiny

Chicago, March 31 (AP) — Two investigations into any possible fixed Big Ten basketball games are underway.

One is by Kenneth L. Wilson, Big Ten commissioner, the other by John S. Boyle, Cook County (Chicago) State's Attorney.

Both were spurred by testimony last week before the Kefauver Crime Committee in Washington. Sidney A. Brodson, Milwaukee gambler, said then that one Big Ten basketball official had been guilty of "irregularities" in refereeing.

Wilson immediately began looking into the remarks and says he intends to talk to Brodson as soon as he receives a transcript of Brodson's Washington testimony. Brodson says he is willing to meet with Wilson and will furnish "iron-clad proof" to back up his charge.

State's Attorney Boyle yesterday asked Wilson to turn over to his office any evidence he uncovers on fixes of games played in Cook county. Boyle said he was unsuccessful in trying to reach Brodson by telephone.

Rockne's Name Still Magic

South Bend, Ind., March 31 (AP)—The Legend of the "Rock" still blunts the scythe of time.

Twenty years ago today 43-year-old Knute Rockne, Norwegian-born master of the American game of football, plunged to death in a Kansas plane crash.

The football world was stunned by the news that Notre Dame's famed coach bald-domed man of electrifying personality and stabbing psychology, met a tragic end in the midst of a brillant career.

It could be expected the Rock's feat of guiding 13 Irish elevens to five undefeated, united seasons and 105 victories against only 12 losses and five ties would wear well against the fame-dimming parade of years.

But 20 years have passed, a generation of football players not yet born when Rockne thrived has churned the turf on his beloved Irish campus, and still the memory of the man has a burning hold on the grid realm.

High in Voting

His name has been projected high in the voting in the Associated Press' All-Time, All-America poll, the coach selection of which will be disclosed April 11.

Tomorrow, Notre Dame alumni throughout the nation will commemorate Rockne's passing by attending Mass and Communion breakfasts. On the campus here, 150 past and present students and friends will do the same and also visit the nearby cemetery for the traditional placing of a wreath on Rockne's grave.

That fatal plane crash near Bazaar, Kan., March 31, 1931, came four months after the Frank Carideo-quarterbacked Irish had swept unbeaten through 10 games. The previous season, Notre Dame had won all of its nine games to pull out of the most serious tail-spin ever suffered by a Rockne-coached team, the 1928 season in which the Irish won five and lost four.

Furgol and Bolt Pace Azalea Open

Wilmington, N. C., March 31 (AP)—Marty Furgol and Tommy Dolt were the front runners as the $10,000 Azalea Open golf tournament headed into its third round today. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away, ready to take charge if the co-leaders showed signs of faltering.

Dolt, a Texan who registers from Durham, N. C., caught first-day leader Furgol with a second 70 to go along with his opening day 69 for 139 to start today's play.

Furgol, Long Beach, Calif., pro and the first day big man at 67, slumped a bit to par 72 yesterday, but was able to match Bolt's total.

Mosconi Captures Greenleaf Memorial

Philadelphia, March 31 (AP)—The first annual Ralph Greenleaf Memorial pocket billiards tournament was won by world champion Willie Mosconi of Havertown, Pa. The Tribe had two of its top hurlers ready for the two-game series opening today with the Chicago Cubs. Bob Feller will hurl the first game and Bob Lemon tomorrow's contest.

Vander Meer Through

Phoenix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs are giving up on veteran Johnny Vander Meer of no-hit, no-run fame.

The Cubs announced yesterday they will give the 36-year-old southpaw his unconditional release as soon as waivers are received. The club expressed dissatisfaction with Vander Meer's progress in getting into shape this spring.

Vander Meer came to the Cubs last year from Cincinnati after 11 years with the Reds. He was used mostly in relief and finished the season with a 3-4 record. Vander Meer pitched two consecutive no-hit, no-run games while with the Reds in 1938.

Same Old Trouble

Phoneix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—Tommy Byrne still has trouble finding the plate for the New York Yankees. He worked five innings against the Chicago Cubs yesterday and gave up four walks. There is one tragic note beclouding the onrushing golf season and that's the news that Warren Townley, popular Woodstock Country Club professional, suffered the loss of a leg in a recent operation at the Veterans Hospital in the Bronx.

The veteran professional was hampered by leg ailments for some time before he submitted to surgery. According to reports we have received, the doctors amputated one leg and recommended the removal of the other limb. Mr. Townley, however, has been so weak that the medicos will not risk a second operation at this time.

The unhappy tidings will come as a great shock to Warren's many Kingston friends who frequent the picturesque Woodstock course. His career as a golf professional is over but his many friends will remember him as a sound teacher of the fundamentals of the universal frustration known as golf.

If you can find time, drop him a line at the Veterans Administration Hospital, 130 Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx, N. Y.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

While on the subject of golf, it is interesting to note that Father Henry E. Herdegen and Long John Matthews, two inveterate linksmen, have developed into tenpin addicts indulging in daily sessions with the pot-bellied maples. This department extends heartiest condolences to John Ferraro on the loss of his mother. Adirondack Trailways and Newburgh Cy's Diners face the last three weeks of the Hudson Valley League schedule in a flat-footed tie for first place. Tony Mack unloaded a 704 series last Sunday against Liberty as the Diners dropped a set to drop back into a tie with John Van Gonsic's tenpin wrecking crew. Amoco Gas looks like a cinch for a clean sweep of the two major league crowns in Kingston, while Pete Keresman's Colonials are a shoo-in for the City League bauble. A Michael "Sparky" Greco rooter writes in to inform us that Mitzie Arlensky's 708 triple was not the first "700" triple in A.B.C. sanctioned bowling in Saugerties. "Sparky" rolled 713 several years ago. Greco, incidentally, is headed for Kingston in the near future having recently purchased a mid-Broadway tavern.

● There's Gold in Them Sulkies:

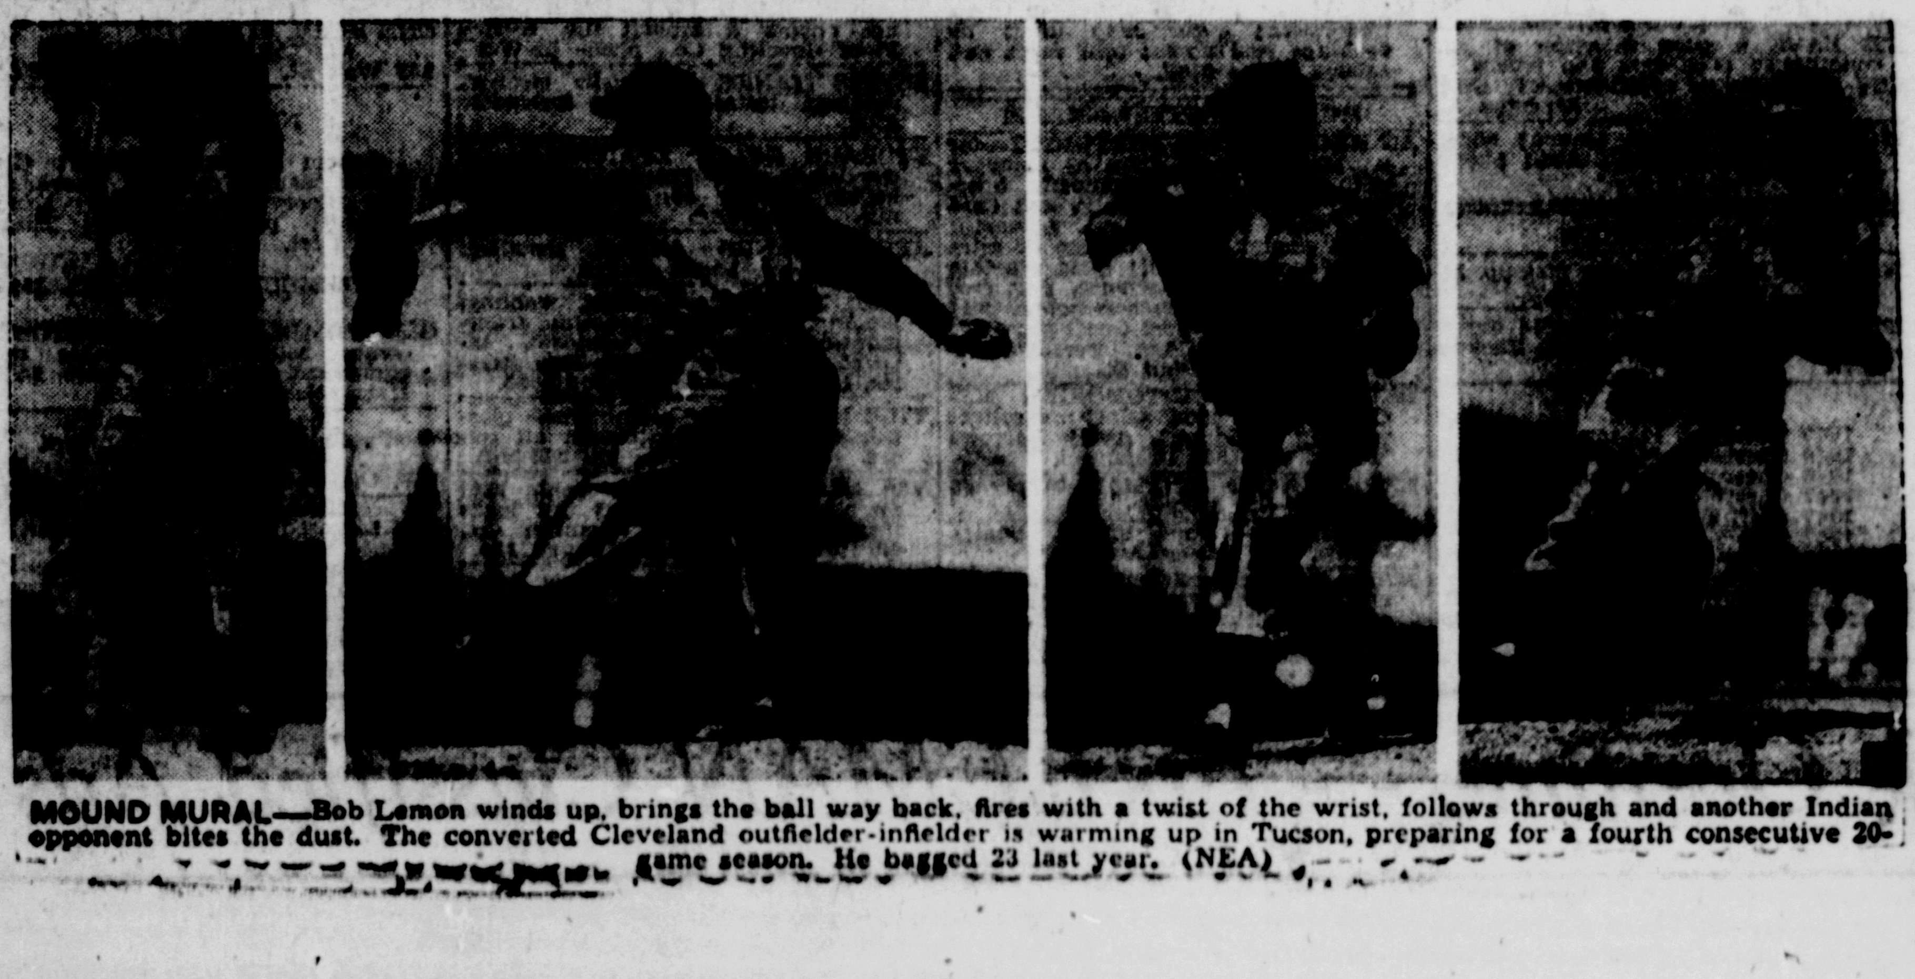
A pair of trotters owned by Clarence O. "Bud" Fromer and Dr. John Olivet of Kingston will vie for purses totalling $22,400 in the forthcoming summer meet at Saratoga Raceway. Fromer's Emerson Hanover, by Nibble Hanover, is entered in three stakes worth $1800; five in the $2000 class and also the $2,500 Will Gahagan Memorial. Dr. Olivet's Ballstonian, by Foster Abbe, is entered in three $1500 stakes. Tom McNeils, Jr., vacationing in Daytona Beach and picking the New York Giants to win the 1951 National League pennant . . . natch. . . . Say Leo Pold, how many more days before the Yankees open their third consecutive pennant-winning season? Cecil Rhodes, the bowling great, not the empire builder, reviving his handicap bowling sweepstakes this season. Entry blanks will be mailed to all captains. If you are a team captain or league official, or just a plain Mr. Bowler, you are cordially invited to attend the "open meeting" Sunday at the court house. Sponsors of the three championship teams in the recent Kingston Bowling Association city tournament will receive beautiful certificates from the A.B.C.

Pat Robinson, the INS sportswriter interviewed that eminent scholar, bon vivant and world traveler—Two-Ton Tony Galento—after his triumphal tour of Europe and quotes the East Orange, N. J. barkeep turned wrestler:

"I moidered dem bums they trun in wit' me. They wuz pushovers. I rassle that Jack Doyle in Lunnon. Remember that bum when he wuz over here? He couldn't fight then and he can't rassle now. I break his ribs in the fifth round and he's all through. Yeh, that's right. We wuz to rassle 20 three-minute rounds. Them Englishers wuz crazy about me. Say what you want about 'em, those guys know class when they see it."

Mr. Galento's classic torso and his acquired culture will be in display tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Saddest baseball note of the week: The Chicago Cubs have farmed Kevin "Chuck" Conners to a Triple-A club. That's the third time out for the popular ex-Kingston Recreation third sacker. And you know the old adage about three strikes being out in any old game.



MOUND MURAL—Bob Lemon winds up, brings the ball way back, fires with a twist of the wrist, follows through and another Indian opponent bites the dust. The converted Cleveland outfielder-infielder is warming up in Tucson, preparing for a fourth consecutive 20-game season. He bagged 23 last year. (NEA)

Meets Bratton For Title May 18

New York, March 31 (AP)—"There goes the next welterweight champion of the world."

Mike Miele was talking about Kid Gavilan. A good many of the experts agree with him. The Cuban flash had just beaten Gene Hairston, Miele's fighter, in an exciting ten rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Miele thought his 21-year old middleweight contender had earned at least a draw but all three officials voted for Gavilin, from 5-4-1 to 6-3-1 and 7-3. The A.P. scorecard had Gavilan the winner, 7-3.

Gavilan, too, is convinced he's going to be the next 147-pound champ. He got off to a good start in that direction yesterday when he signed to meet Johnny Bratton, the NBA welterweight king, in the Garden, May 18.

The New York commission will recognize the winner as world champion. Before Commission Chairman Eddie Eagan bestowed his title blessings, he had both Bratton and Gavilan sign to defend against Billy Graham in New York in July.

7,617 See Fight

Gavilan had a slight scratch on the lobe of his right ear. That was the only visible damage of the fight that thrilled 7,617 fans in the Garden and millions on television. The gross gate, hurt by an all-day rain, was $27,430.

There were no knockdowns in the fight. Neither boy was hurt. Both Gavilan and his deaf-mute rival from the Bronx are two of the fastest punchers in the game. They threw plenty of leather and all kinds of punches. Gavilan's greater experience won out for him and enabled him to avenge a split decision loss to Hairston five months ago in Scranton.

Gavilan broke fast, swept the first three rounds with flashy left jabs and hooks, lost the fourth, and then won the fight by sweeping the fifth, sixth and seventh heats. Hairston rallied to capture the eighth and ninth with continued body punching and with several good rights to the head. The Keed closed out his victory with a good edge in the last round. Gavilan weighted 150 and Hairston, 155¾.

Last Call Due For Old Bobo

Birmingham, March 31 (AP)—Pitcher Bobo Newsom, the old war horse of organized baseball, has until Thursday to decide whether he will join the Birmingham Barons.

General Manager Eddie Glennon said yesterday he had extended a contract offer to Newsom. Bobo, who admits he is "over 40," was released by the Chattanooga Lookouts last fall at his own request. The ruggedly individualistic righthander said he would accept the Birmingham offer if he doesn't get a major league proposition Glennon reported.

Bobo has pitched in both leagues and several minor circuits.

Columbia Leads

Champaign, Ill., March 31 (AP)—Favored Columbia today led 36 other schools into final matches in the seventh annual NCAA fencing championships. After yesterday's morning, afternoon and evening grind, the Lions were in the van with 44 points. Illinois, Big Ten champion, was runnerup with 42 points.

Achieving the hat trick with solid scores of 235-236-219, Phil Masters just missed the coveted 700 Club membership Thursday night during the Bowlodrome Major League firing.

Masters' only break in his bid for the 700 blast came in the third frame of the second game when he missed the troublesome seven pin.

The 690 three-timer sparked a field of 11 other assorted 600s.

Tied for runnerup honors were Dick Howard and Johnny "Red" Schatzel with 645 triples. Howard bashed the maples for a string of 234-194-217 while Schatzel fired 192-243-217.

'Two-Ton' Tony at Auditorium Tonight

Loaded down with newly-acquired culture, Two-Ton Tony Galento, the famous world traveler, British favorite ex-heavyweight contender and self-styled terror of the wrestling arenas, returns to Kingston tonight.

Galento is paired with Wally Dusek, one of the "Riot Squad" boys of Omaha's Dusek tribe, in a best of three falls match.

Dusek in his own right is one of the roughest characters in the game, so a delightful rhubarb is in store for the grunt and groan addicts.

Supporting bouts feature John Heiderman, Italo-German star, against Hal Kanner, "Mr. Germany of 1950" and Wally Dern, Greenwich Village artist vs. Mike Kilonis of Greece.

First bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Ticket reservations can be made by calling 6039.

St. Mary's Cagers Had Banner Season

Led by Joe Erena, St. Mary's Junior "A" C.Y.O. county basketball squad completed its 1950-51 season with a record of thirteen wins and four losses.

Erena, who accounted for 193 points during the regular season and came within a point of tying Chris Rienzo's 34-point record, was named the most valuable player in the junior division of the C.Y.O. tournament.

The team set a seasonal scoring record when it trounced St. Joseph's Juniors, 87 to 27.

Lou Perry was runnerup to Erena with 140 points, while Petro tossed in 108 and Sheffer had 90. The squad scored 759 points for a 45.2 average, against 514 and 30.2 for the opposition.

Instrumental in the success of the team also were Rich Petro, a fiery ball player and playmaker, L. Sheffer, Paul Perry, J. Graney and Lou Perry.

Big '10' Basketball Is Under Scrutiny

Chicago, March 31 (AP) — Two investigations into any possible fixed Big Ten basketball games are underway.

One is by Kenneth L. Wilson, Big Ten commissioner, the other by John S. Boyle, Cook County (Chicago) State's Attorney.

Both were spurred by testimony last week before the Kefauver Crime Committee in Washington. Sidney A. Brodson, Milwaukee gambler, said then that one Big Ten basketball official had been guilty of "irregularities" in refereeing.

Wilson immediately began looking into the remarks and says he intends to talk to Brodson as soon as he receives a transcript of Brodson's Washington testimony. Brodson says he is willing to meet with Wilson and will furnish "iron-clad proof" to back up his charge.

State's Attorney Boyle yesterday asked Wilson to turn over to his office any evidence he uncovers on fixes of games played in Cook county. Boyle said he was unsuccessful in trying to reach Brodson by telephone.

Rockne's Name Still Magic

South Bend, Ind., March 31 (AP)—The Legend of the "Rock" still blunts the scythe of time.

Twenty years ago today 43-year-old Knute Rockne, Norwegian-born master of the American game of football, plunged to death in a Kansas plane crash.

The football world was stunned by the news that Notre Dame's famed coach bald-domed man of electrifying personality and stabbing psychology, met a tragic end in the midst of a brillant career.

It could be expected the Rock's feat of guiding 13 Irish elevens to five undefeated, united seasons and 105 victories against only 12 losses and five ties would wear well against the fame-dimming parade of years.

But 20 years have passed, a generation of football players not yet born when Rockne thrived has churned the turf on his beloved Irish campus, and still the memory of the man has a burning hold on the grid realm.

High in Voting

His name has been projected high in the voting in the Associated Press' All-Time, All-America poll, the coach selection of which will be disclosed April 11.

Tomorrow, Notre Dame alumni throughout the nation will commemorate Rockne's passing by attending Mass and Communion breakfasts. On the campus here, 150 past and present students and friends will do the same and also visit the nearby cemetery for the traditional placing of a wreath on Rockne's grave.

That fatal plane crash near Bazaar, Kan., March 31, 1931, came four months after the Frank Carideo-quarterbacked Irish had swept unbeaten through 10 games. The previous season, Notre Dame had won all of its nine games to pull out of the most serious tail-spin ever suffered by a Rockne-coached team, the 1928 season in which the Irish won five and lost four.

Furgol and Bolt Pace Azalea Open

Wilmington, N. C., March 31 (AP)—Marty Furgol and Tommy Dolt were the front runners as the $10,000 Azalea Open golf tournament headed into its third round today. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away. But 18 rivals, all under par, were from two to four strokes away, ready to take charge if the co-leaders showed signs of faltering.

Dolt, a Texan who registers from Durham, N. C., caught first-day leader Furgol with a second 70 to go along with his opening day 69 for 139 to start today's play.

Furgol, Long Beach, Calif., pro and the first day big man at 67, slumped a bit to par 72 yesterday, but was able to match Bolt's total.

Mosconi Captures Greenleaf Memorial

Philadelphia, March 31 (AP)—The first annual Ralph Greenleaf Memorial pocket billiards tournament was won by world champion Willie Mosconi of Havertown, Pa. Mosconi yesterday defeated Irving Crane, Binghamton, N. Y., 125-3, and George Henier, Toronto, Canada, 125-42, to finish with 11 victories and only one defeat.

Second place was taken by Chenier with an 8-4 mark, while third went to Crane, who won seven of 12.

Hollywood—Fabela Chaves, 125, Los Angeles, outpointed Baby Face Gutierrez, 124, San Diego 10.

"CINDERELLA KIDS" AND JUNIOR LOOP CHAMPIONS

Immaculate Conception Juniors captured the Junior crown in the Church Basketball League, while the Old Hurley cagers completed a stirring Cinderella saga to capture the post-season Shaughnessy after finishing fourth in the regular season. Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Sarasota, Fla., March 30 (AP)—The New York Giants will be without the services of Ray Noble, their Cuban catcher, for at least two weeks. He suffered a sprained ankle yesterday while sliding into home plate in the second inning against the Red Sox.

Avila Clicking

Tuscon, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—Bob Avila, the Cleveland Indians young second baseman, has really started the season with a bang in fact, one in every game.

Avila, who arrived in camp late, has appeared in 13 of the Tribe's 21 exhibition contests and has gotten at least one hit in each one.

The Tribe had two of its top hurlers ready for the two-game series opening today with the Chicago Cubs. Bob Feller will hurl the first game and Bob Lemon tomorrow's contest.

Vander Meer Through

Phoenix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs are giving up on veteran Johnny Vander Meer of no-hit, no-run fame.

The Cubs announced yesterday they will give the 36-year-old southpaw his unconditional release as soon as waivers are received. The club expressed dissatisfaction with Vander Meer's progress in getting into shape this spring.

Vander Meer came to the Cubs last year from Cincinnati after 11 years with the Reds. He was used mostly in relief and finished the season with a 3-4 record. Vander Meer pitched two consecutive no-hit, no-run games while with the Reds in 1938.

Hatten Hurt

Miami, Fla., March 31 (AP)—Joe Hatten, Brooklyn southpaw, was spiked on the fingers of his throwing hand last night, but the cuts are not believed of a serious nature. The mishap happened in the second inning of the game against the Braves when Hatten attempted to field a bunt near the foul line by Warren Spahn.

Same Old Trouble

Phoneix, Ariz., March 31 (AP)—Tommy Byrne still has trouble finding the plate for the New York Yankees. He worked five innings against the Chicago Cubs yesterday and gave up four walks. When he did get the ball over, the Cubs socked it. Byrne yielded a 400-foot homer to Hank Sauer in the first inning with one on.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

There is one tragic note beclouding the onrushing golf season and that's the news that Warren Townley, popular Woodstock Country Club professional, suffered the loss of a leg in a recent operation at the Veterans Hospital in the Bronx.

The veteran professional was hampered by leg ailments for some time before he submitted to surgery. According to reports we have received, the doctors amputated one leg and recommended the removal of the other limb. Mr. Townley, however, has been so weak that the medicos will not risk a second operation at this time.

The unhappy tidings will come as a great shock to Warren's many Kingston friends who frequent the picturesque Woodstock course. His career as a golf professional is over but his many friends will remember him as a sound teacher of the fundamentals of the universal frustration known as golf.

If you can find time, drop him a line at the Veterans Administration Hospital, 130 Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx, N. Y.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

While on the subject of golf, it is interesting to note that Father Henry E. Herdegen and Long John Matthews, two inveterate linksmen, have developed into tenpin addicts indulging in daily sessions with the pot-bellied maples. This department extends heartiest condolences to John Ferraro on the loss of his mother. Adirondack Trailways and Newburgh Cy's Diners face the last three weeks of the Hudson Valley League schedule in a flat-footed tie for first place. Tony Mack unloaded a 704 series last Sunday against Liberty as the Diners dropped a set to drop back into a tie with John Van Gonsic's tenpin wrecking crew. Amoco Gas looks like a cinch for a clean sweep of the two major league crowns in Kingston, while Pete Keresman's Colonials are a shoo-in for the City League bauble. A Michael "Sparky" Greco rooter writes in to inform us that Mitzie Arlensky's 708 triple was not the first "700" triple in A.B.C. sanctioned bowling in Saugerties. "Sparky" rolled 713 several years ago. Greco, incidentally, is headed for Kingston in the near future having recently purchased a mid-Broadway tavern.

• There's Gold in Them Sulkies:

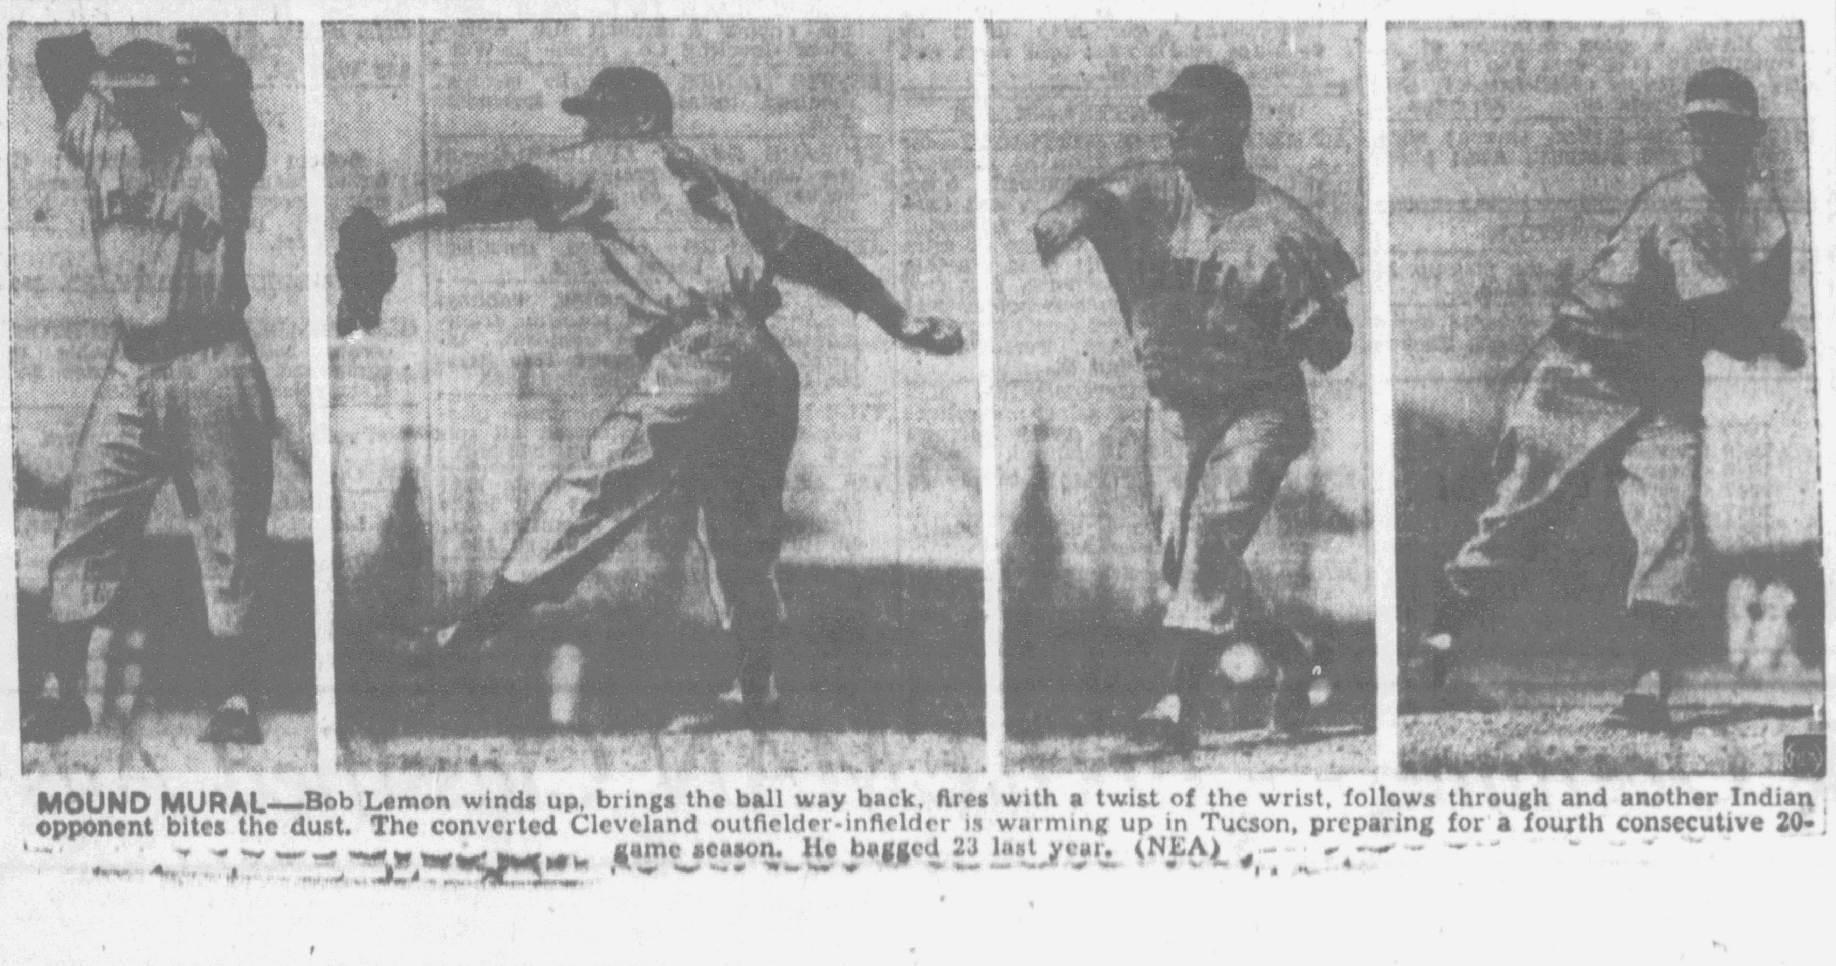
A pair of trotters owned by Clarence O. "Bud" Fromer and Dr. John Olivet of Kingston will vie for purses totalling $22,400 in the forthcoming summer meet at Saratoga Raceway. Fromer's Emerson Hanover, by Nibble Hanover, is entered in three stakes worth $1800; five in the $2000 class and also the $2,500 Will Gahagan Memorial. Dr. Olivet's Ballstonian, by Foster Abbe, is entered in three $1500 stakes. Tom McNelis, Jr., vacationing in Daytona Beach and picking the New York Giants to win the 1951 National League pennant . . . natch. . . . Say Leo Pold, how many more days before the Yankees open their third consecutive pennant-winning season? Cecil Rhodes, the bowling great, not the empire builder, reviving his handicap bowling sweepstakes this season. Entry blanks will be mailed to all captains. If you are a team captain or league official, or just a plain Mr. Bowler, you are cordially invited to attend the "open meeting" Sunday at the court house. Sponsors of the three championship teams in the recent Kingston Bowling Association city tournament will receive beautiful certificates from the A.B.C.

Pat Robinson, the INS sportswriter interviewed that eminent scholar, bon vivant and world traveler—Two-Ton Tony Galento—after his triumphal tour of Europe and quotes the East Orange, N. J. barkeep turned wrestler:

"I moidered dem bums they trun in wit' me. They wuz pushovers. I rassle that Jack Doyle in Lunnon. Remember that bum when he wuz over here? He couldn't fight then and he can't rassle now. I break his ribs in the fifth round and he's all through. Yeh, that's right. We wuz to rassle 20 three-minute rounds. Them Englishers wuz crazy about me. Say what you want about 'em, those guys know class when they see it."

Mr. Galento's classic torso and his acquired culture will be in display tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Saddest baseball note of the week: The Chicago Cubs have farmed Kevin "Chuck" Conners to a Triple-A club. That's the third time out for the popular ex-Kingston Recreation third sacker. And you know the old adage about three strikes being out in any old game.



MOUND MURAL—Bob Lemon winds up, brings the ball way back, fires with a twist of the wrist, follows through and another Indian opponent bites the dust. The converted Cleveland outfielder-infielder is warming up in Tucson, preparing for a fourth consecutive 20-game season. He bagged 23 last year. (NEA)

Meets Bratton For Title May 18

New York, March 31 (AP)—"There goes the next welterweight champion of the world."

Mike Miele was talking about Kid Gavilan. A good many of the experts agree with him. The Cuban flash had just beaten Gene Hairston, Miele's fighter, in an exciting ten rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Miele thought his 21-year old middleweight contender had earned at least a draw but all three officials voted for Gavilin, from 5-4-1 to 6-3-1 and 7-3. The A.P. scorecard had Gavilan the winner, 7-3.

Gavilan, too, is convinced he's going to be the next 147-pound champ. He got off to a good start in that direction yesterday when he signed to meet Johnny Bratton, the NBA welterweight king, in the Garden, May 18.

The New York commission will recognize the winner as world champion. Before Commission Chairman Eddie Eagan bestowed his title blessings, he had both Bratton and Gavilan sign to defend against Billy Graham in New York in July.

7,617 See Fight

Gavilan had a slight scratch on the lobe of his right ear. That was the only visible damage of the fight that thrilled 7,617 fans in the Garden and millions on television. The gross gate, hurt by an all-day rain, was $27,430.

There were no knockdowns in the fight. Neither boy was hurt. Both Gavilan and his deaf-mute rival from the Bronx are two of the fastest punchers in the game. They threw plenty of leather and all kinds of punches. Gavilan's greater experience won out for him and enabled him to avenge a split decision loss to Hairston five months ago in Scranton.

Gavilan broke fast, swept the first three rounds with flashy left jabs and hooks, lost the fourth, and then won the fight by sweeping the fifth, sixth and seventh heats. Hairston rallied to capture the eighth and ninth with continued body punching and with several good rights to the head. The Keed closed out his victory with a good edge in the last round. Gavilan weighted 150 and Hairston, 155¾.

Last Call Due For Old Bobo

Birmingham, March 31 (AP)—Pitcher Bobo Newsom, the old war horse of organized baseball, has until Thursday to decide whether he will join the Birmingham Barons.

General Manager Eddie Glennon said yesterday he had extended a contract offer to Newsom. Bobo, who admits he is "over 40," was released by the Chattanooga Lookouts last fall at his own request. The ruggedly individualistic righthander said he would accept the Birmingham offer if he doesn't get a major league proposition Glennon reported.

Bobo has pitched in both leagues and several minor circuits.

Columbia Leads

Champaign, Ill., March 31 (AP)—Favored Columbia today led 36 other schools into final matches in the seventh annual NCAA fencing championships. After yesterday's morning, afternoon and evening grind, the Lions were in the van with 44 points. Illinois, Big Ten champion, was runnerup with 42 points.

Grand Circuit Sets Up in Goshen

New York, N. Y.—Harness racing's Grand Circuit and the newly organized Trotting Horse Museum will temporarily merge public relations offices under one roof effective April 2, it was announced today.

The new dual-purpose headquarters will be established in the museum building at Goshen, N. Y., necessitating the close of the New York Grand Circuit publicity office which has been in operation for the past three years.

Elliot Emerson of New York, who has handled the Roaring Grand's public relations since 1948, will continue in that capacity in addition to directing the activities of the museum, which is expected to be opened for the public by July 1, 1951.

Lotus Seed Dies

Berkeley, Calif., March 31 (AP)—A fungus infection has killed a 50,000-year-old lotus seed which sprouted after it was planted three weeks ago. The seed, recovered from a Manchurian peat bog, was believed to have been the oldest ever germinated. Dr. Ralph Chaney, University of California paleontologist, said its age was estimated from the supposed age of geological formations in which it was found. Chaney announced the loss yesterday.

Lotus Seed Dies

Berkeley, Calif., March 31 (AP)—A fungus infection has killed a 50,000-year-old lotus seed which sprouted after it was planted three weeks ago. The seed, recovered from a Manchurian peat bog, was believed to have been the oldest ever germinated. Dr. Ralph Chaney, University of California paleontologist, said its age was estimated from the supposed age of geological formations in which it was found. Chaney announced the loss yesterday.

Lotus Seed Dies

Berkeley, Calif., March 31 (AP)—A fungus infection has killed a 50,000-year-old lotus seed which sprouted after it was planted three weeks ago. The seed, recovered from a Manchurian peat bog, was believed to have been the oldest ever germinated. Dr. Ralph Chaney, University of California paleontologist, said its age was estimated from the supposed age of geological formations in which it was found. Chaney announced the loss yesterday.

Dewey Approves Way To Save L. I. Rail Road

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—Governor Dewey approved today legislation designed to rehabilitate the bankrupt Long Island Rail Road through enterprise with the help of a standby public authority and broad tax exemptions.

The program, criticized by some legislators as socialistic, provides for creation of a three-member Long Island transit authority and establishment of a new kind of privately financed railroad redevelopment corporation.

Under the plan, the transit authority will attempt first to attract private enterprise for the job of putting the wreck-plagued commuter line on its feet. This done, the authority would exist on a standby basis to make sure the privately operated scheme worked.

The bombers reported knocking out spans of four bridges used for transport of material from Manchuria to the Red battle fronts.

The Hoffmans' son, Eric, 30, a micro-chemist told police his parents were not at home last night and they had left him a note that they were visiting a friend in Wyckoff, N. J., less than 10 miles from this small north Jersey community near the New York state border.

Thompson said he was convinced the body was Hoffman's because of the car, the note and the fact that he was not yet back in New York.

The note in the car gave the names Louis Glessan of 415 North Madison street, Rome, N. Y., and Sylvia Glessan of 1 Brookside avenue, Somerville, N. J.

Thompson said he and Detective Peter Higgins and Mahwah Police Chief Charles Smith all agree it was a murder and a suicide.

Would Complete Rail Plan

Berlin, March 31 (AP)—East Germans were reported to day to have again approached the Russians to complete a railway system plan devised by Hitler. Informants said the Reichsbahn had asked for additional rails to complete a big spur that would make it possible to divert all rail traffic from Berlin. The Nazis had the same idea 10 years ago and built about half the spur. The part that was built has enabled the Russians to make all their troop movements without entering the West Berlin rail yards.

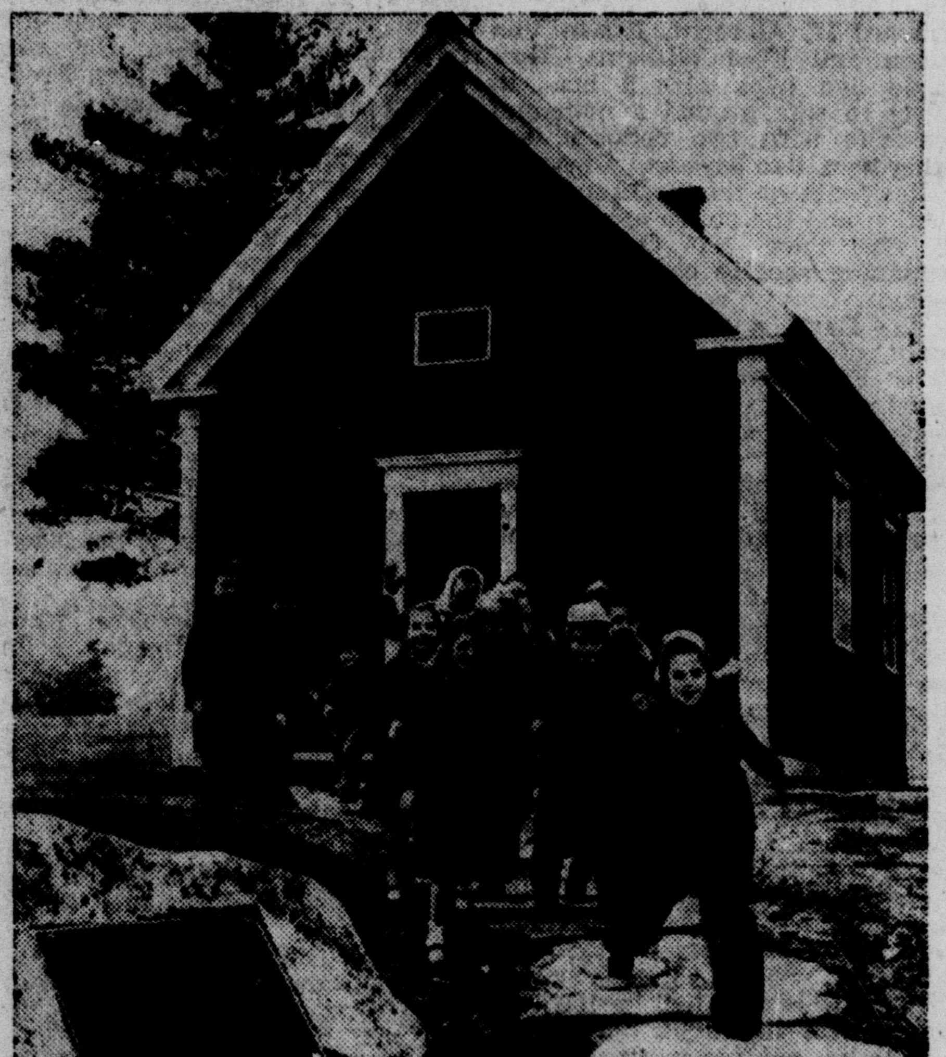
Signs Primary Bill

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—If you want to circulate a petition for a primary election candidate, you must be an enrolled member of the candidate's party, under terms of a bill signed yesterday by Governor Dewey. You also must be a resident of the same political district as the voters qualified to sign the petition. In effect, the measure will prevent professional or political crews from traveling from district to district collecting signatures on a primary designating petition.

Forces in Persian Gulf

Moscow, March 31 (AP)—The Moscow press reported today large and steadily growing concentrations of British naval forces in the Persian Gulf area near the strike-swept British-owned oil fields of south Iran. A story from Tehran by the official Soviet news agency Tass said the latest development was the dispatching by the British Admiralty of two aircraft carriers into the region.

School to Be Out Forever Soon



Children rush to recess March 30, from the famous Little Red Schoolhouse in South Sudbury, Mass., where "Mary's Little Lamb" followed Mary Elizabeth Sawyer to school nearly 150 years ago to inspire the familiar verse. Marker in left foreground gives the full poem. Auto manufacturer Henry Ford had the old building moved from Sterling, Mass., to his Wayside Inn development at South Sudbury, after restoring the structure. It was announced, March 30, that the school would be closed permanently in June and the 17 pupils transferred.

Firemen to Vote

"on our side" on firemen's legislation.

Removed as V. P.

Following his testimony, the AFL International Association of Fire Fighters removed Crane as a vice president.

One of the two referendums proposed at yesterday's firemen's meeting will give Crane a chance to hit back at the international association.

This referendum issue censures the international association, asks Crane's reinstatement, and raises the possibility of the New York group withdrawing from the parent body if the demand is not met.

The other—if approved—suspends Crane as UFA president pending the outcome of any court proceedings against him. But, Crane said, it provides for the union to pay him his regular $4,160-a-year fireman's salary during the suspension.

At present, Crane's income comes from the union. He was dismissed from the fire department last January, when a grand jury started an investigation of missing funds in the UFA treasury.

'Shoven' at Members

John P. Redmond, the anti-Crane president of the international association, attended yesterday's meeting. He said the referendum idea was "shoved" at the members.

The referendum, it was indicated, would take place in about two weeks. It will take the form of a secret ballot.

Details of the reported Crane-O'Dwyer-Moran tax quizzing were scant. However, Crane said yesterday that he met with U. S. Treasury men Wednesday. He did not amplify.

O'Dwyer, who is due to return soon to his post as ambassador to Mexico, was reported to have been cooperative.

Moran reportedly was questioned earlier in the week and again yesterday.

400 Guerrillas Land

Taipei, Formosa, March 31 (AP)—The Nationalist News Agency today said 400 Nationalist guerrillas landed March 9 on Nantien Island. They withdrew two days later after inflicting more than 1,000 casualties on Communists there. Nantien is 145 miles south of Shanghai. Another report said the Chushan Islands 100 miles southeast of Shanghai were being converted into a strong Red defense post under Russian direction.

May Form Labor Party

Atlantic City, N. J., March 31 (AP)Labor elements are considering formation of a third party, a union leader said last night. Jacob S. Potofsky, national president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said labor has been let down by the defense mobilization program and that he can't deny "the possibility of labor's forming a third party." The union leader did not say how far labor thinking on a third party had gone, adding that "it is still an open question."

Will Live in Florida

Hollywood, Fla., March 31 (AP)—Plans are being drawn for a home here for gambler Frank Costello of New York. Mrs. Costello said yesterday there was "nothing definite to it at all," but an engineer, James A. Young, said he had been employed to handle the job and that William J. Healey was the contractor. Costello, cited for contempt of the U. S. Senate for refusing to answer any questions at the Kefauver hearings, checked into an apartment hotel with his wife here yesterday.

Boy Was Asphyxiated

Apalachin, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was found dead early today in a trap set by a rain-swollen creek. Thomas W. Romeo was buried in a washed-out embankment along Log creek, near his home. Coroner Robert L. Nelson of Owego said the boy was asphyxiated. He was seen walking along the creek at 1 p. m. yesterday. The 10-foot-high bank apparently gave way. All but his right hand and knee were covered, state police reported.

Kefauver to Offer

tee with plush gambling places in northern Kentucky; George S. Bowers, a Miami gambling figure, and John Doyle of Gary, Ind., who was questioned about slot machines and other gambling operations there.

The contempt charges will be turned over to U. S. attorneys for presentation to grand juries in the cities where the witnesses were heard. Conviction carries maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Denies Leadership

Costello, a central figure in the committee's dramatic New York hearings, was named in a recent report of the group as a leader of one of the nation's two major crime syndicates. He denied it.

The contempt action against him was based on his refusal to disclose his net worth—a matter over which he wrangled while millions of television watchers viewed the proceedings.

Erickson, one of the nation's biggest bookmakers, was brought from a jail where he is serving two years on gambling charges to appear before the committee. He refused to talk.

Adonis, another big time gambler operating in the New York-New Jersey area, similarly balked at answering the committee's questions.

Most of the witnesses cited for contempt based their refusal to reply to questions on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

Balk About Television

But Kleinman and Rothkopf sat silent at a hearing here earlier this week after protesting the television and newsreel cameras trained on them. Their cases may afford a test of whether witnesses can refuse to testify because they are being televised.

So far only one contempt case growing out of the crime investigation has gone to trial. It was that of Harry Russell, Chicago and Miami gambler who refused to answer many questions on the ground he might incriminate himself.

Would go to January 15

Before the Senate acted on the latest batch of contempt citations, Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) announced that he and Senator Tobey (R.-N.H.) would offer a resolution next week to extend the crime probe until next January 15.

Kefauver said he feels the present committee will have completed its job when it submits its report and legislative recommendations.

He told a meeting of Red Cross volunteers last night that "ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the American population are good honest citizens."

Will Meet Difficulties

Amsterdam, March 31 (AP)—The Dutch Independent Socialist newspaper Heet Parool criticized today reported plans of the United States government to appoint Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, as ambassador to The Netherlands. The paper said that the difficulties which an American envoy is going to meet here in his contact with the Dutch should not be underestimated. It pointed out that some Hollanders are afraid of too much pressure by the United States. The paper said it did not share this fear but "we have to take those views into account." Now that apparently the present ambassador, Selden Chapin, is going to be removed there is need for a prominent person who may be expected to have the confidence of the Dutch, the paper said.

The New Frontier

Faye Emerson, first lady of TV, will be heard Sunday afternoon over Station WKNY at 2:30 in the radio play, "An American Comes Home," latest in the series, The New Frontier. "An American Comes Home," produced by the Institute for Democratic Education, and locally sponsored by the Kingston Lodge of B'nai B'rith, tells the heartwarming story of a telephone operator who stirs the conscience of a community to its obligations to those who fought and died to defend democracy.

2. Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics remained unchanged during the week ended March 27.

3. Price Controller Michael DiSalle said price cuts are coming "in certain fields where they are warranted." Rationing isn't in the picture, he added.

4. The United States Chamber of Commerce said "black markets in meat have returned, especially in the east."

5. A Senate small business committee asked the National Production Authority (NPA) to abandon a proposed five per cent cut in rubber allocations for April. It also asked that beginning April 1 not less than 10,000 tons a month be assigned to small manufacturers.

6. NPA reportedly decided to postpone for 30 days the scheduled April 1 ban on using aluminum in more than 200 civilian products. Officials said the postponement order, requested by the Senate Small Business Committee, will be made public today.

7. The Wage Stabilization Board announced that printed forms and instruction sheets for reporting wage and salary increases under the so-called "10 per cent formula" are now available at regional and district offices of the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division.

Says River Project Vital

New York, March 31 (AP)—Canadian Defense Minister Brooke Claxton says the mutual defense of his country and the United States requires the development of the St. Lawrence waterways. Claxton, who spoke here last night at a dinner of the American Arbitration Association, also said both countries must make a "frontal attack" on inflationary costs in their common defense programs. The Canadian minister said his government feels that the St. Lawrence river project is required "to meet urgent needs for power, transportation and iron."

Diesel Fuel Tax Up

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—The state tax on diesel motor vehicle fuel will increase two cents a gallon July 1. A bill to boost the tax from four to six cents a gallon was signed by Governor Dewey yesterday. The additional tax is expected to give the state about $500,000 more revenue a year.

Dewey Approves Way To Save L. I. Rail Road

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—Governor Dewey approved today legislation designed to rehabilitate the bankrupt Long Island Rail Road through enterprise with the help of a standby public authority and broad tax exemptions.

The program, criticized by some legislators as socialistic, provides for creation of a three-member Long Island transit authority and establishment of a new kind of privately financed railroad redevelopment corporation.

Under the plan, the transit authority will attempt first to attract private enterprise for the job of putting the wreck-plagued commuter line on its feet. This done, the authority would exist on a standby basis to make sure the privately operated scheme worked.

Kefauver to Offer

tee with plush gambling places in northern Kentucky; George S. Bowers, a Miami gambling figure, and John Doyle of Gary, Ind., who was questioned about slot machines and other gambling operations there.

The contempt charges will be turned over to U. S. attorneys for presentation to grand juries in the cities where the witnesses were heard. Conviction carries maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Denies Leadership

Costello, a central figure in the committee's dramatic New York hearings, was named in a recent report of the group as a leader of one of the nation's two major crime syndicates. He denied it.

The contempt action against him was based on his refusal to disclose his net worth—a matter over which he wrangled while millions of television watchers viewed the proceedings.

Erickson, one of the nation's biggest bookmakers, was brought from a jail where he is serving two years on gambling charges to appear before the committee. He refused to talk.

Adonis, another big time gambler operating in the New York-New Jersey area, similarly balked at answering the committee's questions.

Most of the witnesses cited for contempt based their refusal to reply to questions on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

Balk About Television

But Kleinman and Rothkopf sat silent at a hearing here earlier this week after protesting the television and newsreel cameras trained on them. Their cases may afford a test of whether witnesses can refuse to testify because they are being televised.

So far only one contempt case growing out of the crime investigation has gone to trial. It was that of Harry Russell, Chicago and Miami gambler who refused to answer many questions on the ground he might incriminate himself.

A federal judge here ruled that Russell was within his constitutional rights and dismissed the case.

Would go to January 15

Before the Senate acted on the latest batch of contempt citations, Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) announced that he and Senator Tobey (R.-N.H.) would offer a resolution next week to extend the crime probe until next January 15.

Kefauver said he feels the present committee will have completed its job when it submits its report and legislative recommendations.

He told a meeting of Red Cross volunteers last night that "ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the American population are good honest citizens."

Will Meet Difficulties

Amsterdam, March 31 (AP)—The Dutch Independent Socialist newspaper Heet Parool criticized today reported plans of the United States government to appoint Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, as ambassador to The Netherlands. The paper said that the difficulties which an American envoy is going to meet here in his contact with the Dutch should not be underestimated. It pointed out that some Hollanders are afraid of too much pressure by the United States. The paper said it did not share this fear but "we have to take those views into account." Now that apparently the present ambassador, Selden Chapin, is going to be removed there is need for a prominent person who may be expected to have the confidence of the Dutch, the paper said.

The New Frontier

Faye Emerson, first lady of TV, will be heard Sunday afternoon over Station WKNY at 2:30 in the radio play, "An American Comes Home," latest in the series, The New Frontier. "An American Comes Home," produced by the Institute for Democratic Education, and locally sponsored by the Kingston Lodge of B'nai B'rith, tells the heartwarming story of a telephone operator who stirs the conscience of a community to its obligations to those who fought and died to defend democracy.

2. Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics remained unchanged during the week ended March 27.

3. Price Controller Michael DiSalle said price cuts are coming "in certain fields where they are warranted." Rationing isn't in the picture, he added.

4. The United States Chamber of Commerce said "black markets in meat have returned, especially in the east."

5. A Senate small business committee asked the National Production Authority (NPA) to abandon a proposed five per cent cut in rubber allocations for April. It also asked that beginning April 1 not less than 10,000 tons a month be assigned to small manufacturers.

6. NPA reportedly decided to postpone for 30 days the scheduled April 1 ban on using aluminum in more than 200 civilian products. Officials said the postponement order, requested by the Senate Small Business Committee, will be made public today.

7. The Wage Stabilization Board announced that printed forms and instruction sheets for reporting wage and salary increases under the so-called "10 per cent formula" are now available at regional and district offices of the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division.

New York, March 31 (AP)—Canadian Defense Minister Brooke Claxton says the mutual defense of his country and the United States requires the development of the St. Lawrence waterways. Claxton, who spoke here last night at a dinner of the American Arbitration Association, also said both countries must make a "frontal attack" on inflationary costs in their common defense programs. The Canadian minister said his government feels that the St. Lawrence river project is required "to meet urgent needs for power, transportation and iron."

Dewey Approves Way To Save L. I. Rail Road

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—Governor Dewey approved today legislation designed to rehabilitate the bankrupt Long Island Rail Road through enterprise with the help of a standby public authority and broad tax exemptions.

The program, criticized by some legislators as socialistic, provides for creation of a three-member Long Island transit authority and establishment of a new kind of privately financed railroad redevelopment corporation.

Under the plan, the transit authority will attempt first to attract private enterprise for the job of putting the wreck-plagued commuter line on its feet. This done, the authority would exist on a standby basis to make sure the privately operated scheme worked.

If that failed the authority would take over and operate the line as a non-profit, public service.

The three-member authority will be appointed by Dewey, subject to confirmation by the State Senate. They will receive no salaries, but will be reimbursed for expenses.

The legislation provides an appropriation of $250,000 for the authority.

Tanks Hit . . .

miles east of where the U. S. tanks crossed 38 and today were holding positions a mile short of Chunchon. That town, in American hands now, is regarded as a logical jumpoff point for an offensive by either side.

The Reds showed more muscle in the air and on the ground as portents of a spring drive they are reported mounting in unprecedented force.

In the air Friday, 80 American jets and Russian-made MIG-15 jets tangled in what was described as history's biggest jet battle. It was just south of the Yalu river border of Manchuria.

One MIG was reported shot down and four were damaged as 40 of them attacked B-29 Superforts during a bombing of Korean-Manchurian bridges and were jumped in turn by the Sabres. No damage was reported to the American planes.

The bombers reported knocking out spans of four bridges used for transport of material from Manchuria to the Red battle fronts.

Night attack and observation planes reported the Red buildup just north of 38 continued. Fighter bombers claimed they destroyed nearly 100 of 1,800 Red vehicles seen moving with supplies Friday night. They had spotted 2,100 moving Thursday night and 2,000 Wednesday night.

The Hoffmans' son, Eric, 30, a micro-chemist told police his parents were not at home last night and they had left him a note that they were visiting a friend in Wyckoff, N. J., less than 10 miles from this small north Jersey community near the New York state border.

Thompson said he was convinced the body was Hoffman's because of the car, the note and the fact that he was not yet back in New York.

The note in the car gave the names Louis Glessan of 415 North Madison street, Rome, N. Y., and Sylvia Glessan of 1 Brookside avenue, Somerville, N. J.

Thompson said he and Detective Peter Higgins and Mahwah Police Chief Charles Smith all agree it was a murder and a suicide.

in exerting every effort that is possibe to give the people of New York the clean, decent government they deserve."

Since the grand jury began its investigation, 78 policemen have retired or resigned. The jury is expected to hand up a presentment next week which may involve indictments of some 50 officers of all ranks.

Raymond H. Chadeayne, jury foreman spent about a half hour with Murphy and Leibowitz after the mayor left the luncheon session.

Would Complete Rail Plan

Berlin, March 31 (AP)—East Germans were reported to day to have again approached the Russians to complete a railway system plan devised by Hitler. Informants said the Reichsbahn had asked for additional rails to complete a big spur that would make it possible to divert all rail traffic from Berlin. The Nazis had the same idea 10 years ago and built about half the spur. The part that was built has enabled the Russians to make all their troop movements without entering the West Berlin rail yards.

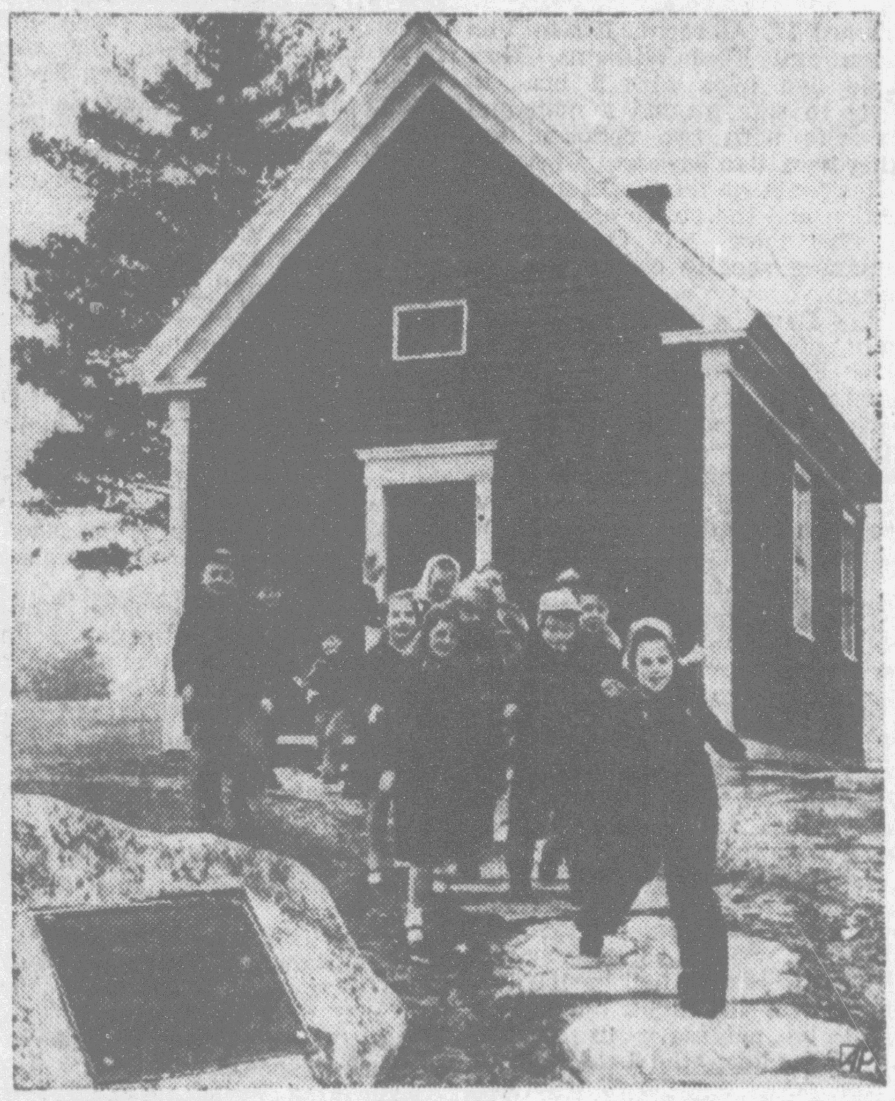
Signs Primary Bill

Albany, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—If you want to circulate a petition for a primary election candidate, you must be an enrolled member of the candidate's party, under terms of a bill signed yesterday by Governor Dewey. You also must be a resident of the same political district as the voters qualified to sign the petition. In effect, the measure will prevent professional or political crews from traveling from district to district collecting signatures on a primary designating petition.

Forces in Persian Gulf

Moscow, March 31 (AP)—The Moscow press reported today large and steadily growing concentrations of British naval forces in the Persian Gulf area near the strike-swept British-owned oil fields of south Iran. A story from Tehran by the official Soviet news agency Tass said the latest development was the dispatching by the British Admiralty of two aircraft carriers into the region.

School to Be Out Forever Soon



Children rush to recess March 30, from the famous Little Red Schoolhouse in South Sudbury, Mass., where "Mary's Little Lamb" followed Mary Elizabeth Sawyer to school nearly 150 years ago to inspire the familiar verse. Marker in left foreground gives the full poem. Auto manufacturer Henry Ford had the old building moved from Sterling, Mass., to his Wayside Inn development at South Sudbury, after restoring the structure. It was announced, March 30, that the school would be closed permanently in June and the 17 pupils transferred.

Firemen to Vote

"on our side" on firemen's legislation.

Both O'Dwyer and Moran have denied under oath ever receiving such payments.

Removed as V. P.

Following his testimony, the AFL International Association of Fire Fighters removed Crane as a vice president.

One of the two referendums proposed at yesterday's firemen's meeting will give Crane a chance to hit back at the international association.

This referendum issue censures the international association, asks Crane's reinstatement, and raises the possibility of the New York group withdrawing from the parent body if the demand is not met.

The other—if approved—suspends Crane as UFA president pending the outcome of any court proceedings against him. But, Crane said, it provides for the union to pay him his regular $4,160-a-year fireman's salary during the suspension.

At present, Crane's income comes from the union. He was dismissed from the fire department last January, when a grand jury started an investigation of missing funds in the UFA treasury.

'Shoven' at Members

John P. Redmond, the anti-Crane president of the international association, attended yesterday's meeting. He said the referendum idea was "shoved" at the members.

The referendum, it was indicated, would take place in about two weeks. It will take the form of a secret ballot.

Details of the reported Crane-O'Dwyer-Moran tax quizzing were scant. However, Crane said yesterday that he met with U. S. Treasury men Wednesday. He did not amplify.

O'Dwyer, who is due to return soon to his post as ambassador to Mexico, was reported to have been cooperative.

Moran reportedly was questioned earlier in the week and again yesterday.

400 Guerrillas Land

Taipei, Formosa, March 31 (AP)—The Nationalist News Agency today said 400 Nationalist guerrillas landed March 9 on Nantien Island. They withdrew two days later after inflicting more than 1,000 casualties on Communists there. Nantien is 145 miles south of Shanghai. Another report said the Chushan Islands 100 miles southeast of Shanghai were being converted into a strong Red defense post under Russian direction.

May Form Labor Party

Atlantic City, N. J., March 31 (AP)Labor elements are considering formation of a third party, a union leader said last night. Jacob S. Potofsky, national president of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said labor has been let down by the defense mobilization program and that he can't deny "the possibility of labor's forming a third party." The union leader did not say how far labor thinking on a third party had gone, adding that "it is still an open question."

Will Live in Florida

Hollywood, Fla., March 31 (AP)—Plans are being drawn for a home here for gambler Frank Costello of New York. Mrs. Costello said yesterday there was "nothing definite to it at all," but an engineer, James A. Young, said he had been employed to handle the job and that William J. Healey was the contractor. Costello, cited for contempt of the U. S. Senate for refusing to answer any questions at the Kefauver hearings, checked into an apartment hotel with his wife here yesterday.

Boy Was Asphyxiated

Apalachin, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was found dead early today in a trap set by a rain-swollen creek. Thomas W. Romeo was buried in a washed-out embankment along Log creek, near his home. Coroner Robert L. Nelson of Owego said the boy was asphyxiated. He was seen walking along the creek at 1 p. m. yesterday. The 10-foot-high bank apparently gave way. All but his right hand and knee were covered, state police reported.

No Legal Barriers

cil," Hickenlooper noted that under the law atomic weapons must remain "under and within the jurisdiction of the United States."

'Straw Man," He Says

McMahon said there isn't any question that the bomb will be used in the event of war. But he added in a statement:

"Obviously, if the act forbids the transfer of atomic weapons to foreign nations, then Sen. Hickenlooper raises a straw man in this issue since such transfer is itself forbidden by the act."

"The same military objective could be achieved by the use of atomic weapons at the order of the Commander in Chief by our own strategic air force which, as a practical matter, is the only group trained and equipped to use such a weapon."

The atomic warfare question arose as opposing sides in the Senate lined up their forces for the beginning of voting Monday on two troops resolutions.

The resolutions would put the Senate and Congress on record as approving the sending of four additional U. S. divisions to join the two in Europe assigned to Eisenhower's command. They would call on President Truman to get congressional approval of further troop assignments. But neither resolution would have the force of law.

Say Armed Rebels

western correspondents in Albania and have not been for several years.

"The planes were met by anti-aircraft guns and the government police did not allow the citizens to go out of their houses until all the leaflets were collected," wrote Dedijer.

"Armed groups are being parachuted into Albania and they are fighting there."

As early as last December, the Albanian Telegraph Agency reported that Italian spies had parachuted into Albania. It said four had been killed and one captured.

Dedijer bitterly attacked the Albanian rebels, whom he labelled "Albanian feudalists and other hotheads."

Two Die in Flood

Edward H. Albrecht, Edwin Van Etten and Fred Williams. They made five trips with a boat to bring to safe ground a man and his wife with two children, another man, two boys and a woman.

Residents of the Brabrant road section and the entire area known as "the flats" left their homes beginning shortly before 4 a. m. today.

The Barn, a nightclub, and a small refreshment stand known as "The Pilot House," were inundated. Robert E. Teetsel, proprietor, reported the water rising into the cellar about 1 a. m. Ulster Hose Company lent the assistance of its pumper, but the water continued to rise until the pump could make no headway.

Fear for Bridge

By 8 a. m. today the water had reached the first floor windows of the Barn and was flowing across the highway to a depth of three to four feet. Route 28 was closed at that point, as well as several points further west. Police erected barricades at the Kingston end of the viaduct and directed traffic away from the area.

Water was continuing to rise this morning and fear was felt for the bridge across the creek at that point. Sheriff Cluett Schantz, who with his men had been working most of the night, believed it might be necessary to send a deputy to keep the bridge clear of the many sightseers who had come to the area by an early hour this morning.

Residents on Murphy street were being assisted by city trucks in taking furniture from their homes this morning.

Mayor Directs

B.P.W. Superintendent Ernest Steuding said eight truck loads of furniture had been taken from the area and stored in the public works garage. Other trucks were at the scene assisting in the evacuation, and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was there since an early hour this morning directing the salvage and rescue operations.

Board of Public Works crews were busy all night. In addition to helping save furnishings, B.P.W. men pumped about 40 cellars and were clearing away landslides from several sections, including one on Andrew street, one near the school on Wilbur avenue and one on Hudson street.

3.68 Inches of Rain

The rainstorm which started about 8:15 p. m. Thursday and continued until midnight last night brought a total of 3.68 inches of rain to Kingston, the city engineer's office reported.

Total rainfall for the 24-hour period ended at midnight was 3.07 inches, highest since October 26 to 27, 1943, when 3.57 inches fell in a 24-hour period.

Total rainfall for the month of March is now 7.16 inches, highest on record at the city engineer's office, which began gauging rainfall in 1934. Previous high for the month of March was in 1936, when 5.91 inches fell. Rainfall this month was about 137 per cent above the 15-year average for March, which is 3.02 inches.

The New York State Thruway between Saugerties will be closed for "two or three" days while state highway department crews are clearing away an estimated 300 tons of loose rock and mud that cascaded onto the northbound lane about 1,500 feet south of the Catskill exit.

Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the state police reported that troopers and Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 firemen evacuated 15 persons from the Orlando street section, town of Ulster, at 7 a. m. today.

Other County Reports

Marbletown—Five persons marooned at the Lockwood Farm were placed on a road grader to be evacuated. The grader became mired and the County Highway Department dispatched a truck with winch to tow the grader and its occupants to safety. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation emergency truck was also sent.

Phoenicia—Road between Mt. Tremper and Phoenicia, flooded last night, was reported passable this morning. Corporal Ray Dunn, state police, had his living quarters and headquarters on the Chichester road washed out. Upper Esopus creek above Phoenicia fairly quiet, but the flooded Chichester stream ran down Main street, Phoenicia, about one foot deep at its crest.

Phoenicia—A bungalow owned by Joseph Doyle on the Phoenicia-Chichester road was washed away.

Woodland Valley—The old post office building at this place washed away.

She was taken to the home of Mrs. Fredericka Milne. Mrs. Hard is the mother of George Hard. The Woodstock to Saugerties road was flooded for a distance of about a half mile from the Route 375 intersection to the Doris Lee place. The main bridge at the intersection was covered last night, but reopened for traffic about 2 a. m.

Bridge Is Washed Out

Bearsville area — Route 212 from Woodstock to Bearsville was covered with from six to eight inches of water, but vehicle traffic was maintained. A wooden bridge on the highway between Bearsville and Shady at the Newton Reynolds place was washed out.

Woodstock — Supervisor Kenneth Wilson and Attorney John Egan remained on duty all night at Woodstock Town Hall to receive calls for assistance and dispatch available aid to those in distress.

Lake Katrine—The Leggs Mills bungalow colony was flooded.

Highway and Road Reports

Road conditions reported at 11 a. m. today:

County Highway Department—Mountain road at Hurley, closed; Springtown road between Rosendale and New Paltz, closed; Oliverea valley, closed in many places by road washouts.

Associated Press reported following road conditions:

State troopers at Albany issued the following round-up of road blocks at mid-morning:

In western New York, Troop A at Batavia reported that high water had closed Route 414 north of Corning; Route 15 in the town of Erwins, south of Painted Post; and Route 17 east of Corning.

In South Central New York, Troop C at Sydney reported Routes 17 and 17-E under water at Big Flats, and passable only to large trucks. High water blocked Route 14 at Montour Falls and Route 414 south of Corning.

In the east-central section, Troop G at Troy reported Route 30 under four feet of water between Middleburg and Schoharie.

In southeastern New York, Troop K at Hawthorne, reported Route 211 impassable between Otisville and Cuddebackville in Orange county. Traffic was moving by way of Route 6 through Port Jervis, or Route 209 from Wurtsboro.

The flood in the lower Esopus was the worst in the memory of many residents. Older residents said they could not remember one approaching this morning's destructiveness within the past 35 years.

The heavy rainfall, melting shows, and the fact that the Ashokan Reservoir was already full to overflowing were given as factors causing the flood.

Busy Through Night

Reports of flooded cellars, burning wires on poles, minor washouts and other incidents were too numerous to list, but kept all official agencies busy most of the night.

Many owners of private trucks offered their vehicles and drivers to help save furniture and personal articles from rising waters.

Sheriff Schantz reported receiving a call from a Red Cross official this morning offering assistance in whatever way possible to those washed out. It was still too early to list many specific cases of loss or unusual rescues.

Some of the smaller streams reached their crest early today and were receding by daybreak. Others, including the Esopus at Kingston, continued to rise. Old-timers predicted the crest by noon today, citing an old saying in the area to the effect that if rain stopped by midnight, the crest would be reached by noon.

The Associated Press reported a special advisory by the Weather Bureau warned that the Hudson and Mohawk rivers would continue "in a threatening condition for the next few days." The rise, however, was described as "moderate."

Sign Friendship Treaty

Rangoon, Burma, March 31 (AP)—Indonesia and Burma signed today a five-year friendship treaty, the first such pact made by Burma since achieving independence three years ago. Foreign office sources said Burma probably will make similar pacts with other nations.

No Legal Barriers

cil," Hickenlooper noted that under the law atomic weapons must remain "under and within the jurisdiction of the United States."

'Straw Man," He Says

McMahon said there isn't any question that the bomb will be used in the event of war. But he added in a statement:

"Obviously, if the act forbids the transfer of atomic weapons to foreign nations, then Sen. Hickenlooper raises a straw man in this issue since such transfer is itself forbidden by the act."

"The same military objective could be achieved by the use of atomic weapons at the order of the Commander in Chief by our own strategic air force which, as a practical matter, is the only group trained and equipped to use such a weapon."

The atomic warfare question arose as opposing sides in the Senate lined up their forces for the beginning of voting Monday on two troops resolutions.

The resolutions would put the Senate and Congress on record as approving the sending of four additional U. S. divisions to join the two in Europe assigned to Eisenhower's command. They would call on President Truman to get congressional approval of further troop assignments. But neither resolution would have the force of law.

western correspondents in Albania and have not been for several years.

"The planes were met by anti-aircraft guns and the government police did not allow the citizens to go out of their houses until all the leaflets were collected," wrote Dedijer.

"Armed groups are being parachuted into Albania and they are fighting there."

As early as last December, the Albanian Telegraph Agency reported that Italian spies had parachuted into Albania. It said four had been killed and one captured.

Dedijer bitterly attacked the Albanian rebels, whom he labelled "Albanian feudalists and other hotheads."

Two Die in Flood

Edward H. Albrecht, Edwin Van Etten and Fred Williams. They made five trips with a boat to bring to safe ground a man and his wife with two children, another man, two boys and a woman.

Residents of the Brabrant road section and the entire area known as "the flats" left their homes beginning shortly before 4 a. m. today.

The Barn, a nightclub, and a small refreshment stand known as "The Pilot House," were inundated. Robert E. Teetsel, proprietor, reported the water rising into the cellar about 1 a. m. Ulster Hose Company lent the assistance of its pumper, but the water continued to rise until the pump could make no headway.

Fear for Bridge

By 8 a. m. today the water had reached the first floor windows of the Barn and was flowing across the highway to a depth of three to four feet. Route 28 was closed at that point, as well as several points further west. Police erected barricades at the Kingston end of the viaduct and directed traffic away from the area.

Water was continuing to rise this morning and fear was felt for the bridge across the creek at that point. Sheriff Cluett Schantz, who with his men had been working most of the night, believed it might be necessary to send a deputy to keep the bridge clear of the many sightseers who had come to the area by an early hour this morning.

Residents on Murphy street were being assisted by city trucks in taking furniture from their homes this morning.

Mayor Directs

B.P.W. Superintendent Ernest Steuding said eight truck loads of furniture had been taken from the area and stored in the public works garage. Other trucks were at the scene assisting in the evacuation, and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was there since an early hour this morning directing the salvage and rescue operations.

Board of Public Works crews were busy all night. In addition to helping save furnishings, B.P.W. men pumped about 40 cellars and were clearing away landslides from several sections, including one on Andrew street, one near the school on Wilbur avenue and one on Hudson street.

3.68 Inches of Rain

The rainstorm which started about 8:15 p. m. Thursday and continued until midnight last night brought a total of 3.68 inches of rain to Kingston, the city engineer's office reported.

Total rainfall for the 24-hour period ended at midnight was 3.07 inches, highest since October 26 to 27, 1943, when 3.57 inches fell in a 24-hour period.

Total rainfall for the month of March is now 7.16 inches, highest on record at the city engineer's office, which began gauging rainfall in 1934. Previous high for the month of March was in 1936, when 5.91 inches fell. Rainfall this month was about 137 per cent above the 15-year average for March, which is 3.02 inches.

The New York State Thruway between Saugerties will be closed for "two or three" days while state highway department crews are clearing away an estimated 300 tons of loose rock and mud that cascaded onto the northbound lane about 1,500 feet south of the Catskill exit.

Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the state police reported that troopers and Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 firemen evacuated 15 persons from the Orlando street section, town of Ulster, at 7 a. m. today.

Other County Reports

Marbletown—Five persons marooned at the Lockwood Farm were placed on a road grader to be evacuated. The grader became mired and the County Highway Department dispatched a truck with winch to tow the grader and its occupants to safety. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation emergency truck was also sent.

Phoenicia—Road between Mt. Tremper and Phoenicia, flooded last night, was reported passable this morning. Corporal Ray Dunn, state police, had his living quarters and headquarters on the Chichester road washed out. Upper Esopus creek above Phoenicia fairly quiet, but the flooded Chichester stream ran down Main street, Phoenicia, about one foot deep at its crest.

Phoenicia—A bungalow owned by Joseph Doyle on the Phoenicia-Chichester road was washed away.

Woodland Valley—The old post office building at this place washed away.

Woodstock — Mrs. Sherwood Hard, who was ill, had to be carried from her home by Woodstock volunteer firemen and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd when an ambulance was unable to reach her home from Saugerties. She was taken to the home of Mrs. Fredericka Milne. Mrs. Hard is the mother of George Hard. The Woodstock to Saugerties road was flooded for a distance of about a half mile from the Route 375 intersection to the Doris Lee place. The main bridge at the intersection was covered last night, but reopened for traffic about 2 a. m.

Bridge Is Washed Out

Bearsville area — Route 212 from Woodstock to Bearsville was covered with from six to eight inches of water, but vehicle traffic was maintained. A wooden bridge on the highway between Bearsville and Shady at the Newton Reynolds place was washed out.

Woodstock — Supervisor Kenneth Wilson and Attorney John Egan remained on duty all night at Woodstock Town Hall to receive calls for assistance and dispatch available aid to those in distress.

Lake Katrine—The Leggs Mills bungalow colony was flooded.

Highway and Road Reports

Road conditions reported at 11 a. m. today:

County Highway Department—Mountain road at Hurley, closed; Springtown road between Rosendale and New Paltz, closed; Oliverea valley, closed in many places by road washouts.

Associated Press reported following road conditions:

State troopers at Albany issued the following round-up of road blocks at mid-morning:

In western New York, Troop A at Batavia reported that high water had closed Route 414 north of Corning; Route 15 in the town of Erwins, south of Painted Post; and Route 17 east of Corning.

In South Central New York, Troop C at Sydney reported Routes 17 and 17-E under water at Big Flats, and passable only to large trucks. High water blocked Route 14 at Montour Falls and Route 414 south of Corning.

In the east-central section, Troop G at Troy reported Route 30 under four feet of water between Middleburg and Schoharie.

In southeastern New York, Troop K at Hawthorne, reported Route 211 impassable between Otisville and Cuddebackville in Orange county. Traffic was moving by way of Route 6 through Port Jervis, or Route 209 from Wurtsboro.

The flood in the lower Esopus was the worst in the memory of many residents. Older residents said they could not remember one approaching this morning's destructiveness within the past 35 years.

The heavy rainfall, melting snows, and the fact that the Ashokan Reservoir was already full to overflowing were given as factors causing the flood.

Busy Through Night

Reports of flooded cellars, burning wires on poles, minor washouts and other incidents were too numerous to list, but kept all official agencies busy most of the night.

Many owners of private trucks offered their vehicles and drivers to help save furniture and personal articles from rising waters.

Sheriff Schantz reported receiving a call from a Red Cross official this morning offering assistance in whatever way possible to those washed out. It was still too early to list many specific cases of loss or unusual rescues.

Some of the smaller streams reached their crest early today and were receding by daybreak. Others, including the Esopus at Kingston, continued to rise. Oldtimers predicted the crest by noon today, citing an old saying in the area to the effect that if rain stopped by midnight, the crest would be reached by noon.

The Associated Press reported a special advisory by the Weather Bureau warned that the Hudson and Mohawk rivers would continue "in a threatening condition for the next few days." The rise, however, was described as "moderate."

Sign Friendship Treaty

Rangoon, Burma, March 31 (AP)—Indonesia and Burma signed today a five-year friendship treaty, the first such pact made by Burma since achieving independence three years ago. Foreign office sources said Burma probably will make similar pacts with other nations.

No Legal Barriers

cil," Hickenlooper noted that under the law atomic weapons must remain "under and within the jurisdiction of the United States."

'Straw Man," He Says

McMahon said there isn't any question that the bomb will be used in the event of war. But he added in a statement:

"Obviously, if the act forbids the transfer of atomic weapons to foreign nations, then Sen. Hickenlooper raises a straw man in this issue since such transfer is itself forbidden by the act."

"The same military objective could be achieved by the use of atomic weapons at the order of the Commander in Chief by our own strategic air force which, as a practical matter, is the only group trained and equipped to use such a weapon."

The atomic warfare question arose as opposing sides in the Senate lined up their forces for the beginning of voting Monday on two troops resolutions.

The resolutions would put the Senate and Congress on record as approving the sending of four additional U. S. divisions to join the two in Europe assigned to Eisenhower's command. They would call on President Truman to get congressional approval of further troop assignments. But neither resolution would have the force of law.

western correspondents in Albania and have not been for several years.

"The planes were met by anti-aircraft guns and the government police did not allow the citizens to go out of their houses until all the leaflets were collected," wrote Dedijer.

"Armed groups are being parachuted into Albania and they are fighting there."

As early as last December, the Albanian Telegraph Agency reported that Italian spies had parachuted into Albania. It said four had been killed and one captured.

Dedijer bitterly attacked the Albanian rebels, whom he labelled "Albanian feudalists and other hotheads."

Two Die in Flood

Edward H. Albrecht, Edwin Van Etten and Fred Williams. They made five trips with a boat to bring to safe ground a man and his wife with two children, another man, two boys and a woman.

Residents of the Brabrant road section and the entire area known as "the flats" left their homes beginning shortly before 4 a. m. today.

The Barn, a nightclub, and a small refreshment stand known as "The Pilot House," were inundated. Robert E. Teetsel, proprietor, reported the water rising into the cellar about 1 a. m. Ulster Hose Company lent the assistance of its pumper, but the water continued to rise until the pump could make no headway.

Fear for Bridge

By 8 a. m. today the water had reached the first floor windows of the Barn and was flowing across the highway to a depth of three to four feet. Route 28 was closed at that point, as well as several points further west. Police erected barricades at the Kingston end of the viaduct and directed traffic away from the area.

Water was continuing to rise this morning and fear was felt for the bridge across the creek at that point. Sheriff Cluett Schantz, who with his men had been working most of the night, believed it might be necessary to send a deputy to keep the bridge clear of the many sightseers who had come to the area by an early hour this morning.

Residents on Murphy street were being assisted by city trucks in taking furniture from their homes this morning.

Mayor Directs

B.P.W. Superintendent Ernest Steuding said eight truck loads of furniture had been taken from the area and stored in the public works garage. Other trucks were at the scene assisting in the evacuation, and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk was there since an early hour this morning directing the salvage and rescue operations.

Board of Public Works crews were busy all night. In addition to helping save furnishings, B.P.W. men pumped about 40 cellars and were clearing away landslides from several sections, including one on Andrew street, one near the school on Wilbur avenue and one on Hudson street.

3.68 Inches of Rain

The rainstorm which started about 8:15 p. m. Thursday and continued until midnight last night brought a total of 3.68 inches of rain to Kingston, the city engineer's office reported.

Total rainfall for the 24-hour period ended at midnight was 3.07 inches, highest since October 26 to 27, 1943, when 3.57 inches fell in a 24-hour period.

Total rainfall for the month of March is now 7.16 inches, highest on record at the city engineer's office, which began gauging rainfall in 1934. Previous high for the month of March was in 1936, when 5.91 inches fell. Rainfall this month was about 137 per cent above the 15-year average for March, which is 3.02 inches.

The New York State Thruway between Saugerties will be closed for "two or three" days while state highway department crews are clearing away an estimated 300 tons of loose rock and mud that cascaded onto the northbound lane about 1,500 feet south of the Catskill exit.

Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the state police reported that troopers and Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 firemen evacuated 15 persons from the Orlando street section, town of Ulster, at 7 a. m. today.

Other County Reports

Marbletown—Five persons marooned at the Lockwood Farm were placed on a road grader to be evacuated. The grader became mired and the County Highway Department dispatched a truck with winch to tow the grader and its occupants to safety. Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation emergency truck was also sent.

Phoenicia—Road between Mt. Tremper and Phoenicia, flooded last night, was reported passable this morning. Corporal Ray Dunn, state police, had his living quarters and headquarters on the Chichester road washed out. Upper Esopus creek above Phoenicia fairly quiet, but the flooded Chichester stream ran down Main street, Phoenicia, about one foot deep at its crest.

Phoenicia—A bungalow owned by Joseph Doyle on the Phoenicia-Chichester road was washed away.

Woodland Valley—The old post office building at this place washed away.

Woodstock — Mrs. Sherwood Hard, who was ill, had to be carried from her home by Woodstock volunteer firemen and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd when an ambulance was unable to reach her home from Saugerties. She was taken to the home of Mrs. Fredericka Milne. Mrs. Hard is the mother of George Hard. The Woodstock to Saugerties road was flooded for a distance of about a half mile from the Route 375 intersection to the Doris Lee place. The main bridge at the intersection was covered last night, but reopened for traffic about 2 a. m.

Bridge Is Washed Out

Bearsville area — Route 212 from Woodstock to Bearsville was covered with from six to eight inches of water, but vehicle traffic was maintained. A wooden bridge on the highway between Bearsville and Shady at the Newton Reynolds place was washed out.

Woodstock — Supervisor Kenneth Wilson and Attorney John Egan remained on duty all night at Woodstock Town Hall to receive calls for assistance and dispatch available aid to those in distress.

Lake Katrine—The Leggs Mills bungalow colony was flooded.

Highway and Road Reports

Road conditions reported at 11 a. m. today:

County Highway Department—Mountain road at Hurley, closed; Springtown road between Rosendale and New Paltz, closed; Oliverea valley, closed in many places by road washouts.

Associated Press reported following road conditions:

State troopers at Albany issued the following round-up of road blocks at mid-morning:

In western New York, Troop A at Batavia reported that high water had closed Route 414 north of Corning; Route 15 in the town of Erwins, south of Painted Post; and Route 17 east of Corning.

In South Central New York, Troop C at Sydney reported Routes 17 and 17-E under water at Big Flats, and passable only to large trucks. High water blocked Route 14 at Montour Falls and Route 414 south of Corning.

In the east-central section, Troop G at Troy reported Route 30 under four feet of water between Middleburg and Schoharie.

In southeastern New York, Troop K at Hawthorne, reported Route 211 impassable between Otisville and Cuddebackville in Orange county. Traffic was moving by way of Route 6 through Port Jervis, or Route 209 from Wurtsboro.

The flood in the lower Esopus was the worst in the memory of many residents. Older residents said they could not remember one approaching this morning's destructiveness within the past 35 years.

The heavy rainfall, melting snows, and the fact that the Ashokan Reservoir was already full to overflowing were given as factors causing the flood.

Busy Through Night

Reports of flooded cellars, burning wires on poles, minor washouts and other incidents were too numerous to list, but kept all official agencies busy most of the night.

Many owners of private trucks offered their vehicles and drivers to help save furniture and personal articles from rising waters.

Sheriff Schantz reported receiving a call from a Red Cross official this morning offering assistance in whatever way possible to those washed out. It was still too early to list many specific cases of loss or unusual rescues.

Some of the smaller streams reached their crest early today and were receding by daybreak. Others, including the Esopus at Kingston, continued to rise. Oldtimers predicted the crest by noon today, citing an old saying in the area to the effect that if rain stopped by midnight, the crest would be reached by noon.

The Associated Press reported a special advisory by the Weather Bureau warned that the Hudson and Mohawk rivers would continue "in a threatening condition for the next few days." The rise, however, was described as "moderate."
